3,000 Reported Killed in Red Revolt in Sofia

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A state of revolution has broken out in Sofia and street fights are occurring between Bolshevist laborers and the troops and police. It is reported that more than 3,000 persons have been killed.

This information is contained in dispatches from Vienna and Russia received by the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—French troops have reached the Danube River in the region of Vidin, [about fifty miles southeast of the Austro-Hungarian border,] the War Office announces tonight. The communication reads:

Eastern Theatre—On Oct. 20, thirty-four days after launching their offensive, the French troops reached the Danube in the region of Vidin and took measures to prevent all traffic on the river. An enemy monitor was forced ashore on the north bank under our artillery fire.

Serbian troops are in contact north of Aleksinatz and Krushevatz, with German forces strongly intrenched.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The announcement yesterday by Berlin of the capture of Zajechar, twenty-eight miles from the River Danube at Negotin and forty-five miles northeast of Nish, is confirmed by a Serbian official statement issued Sunday, which reads:

On Saturday French cavalry, with a detachment of Serbian infantry, entered Zajechar. Further west we captured Bolyevatz. In the valley of the West Morava River our troops have entered Trstenik, (In the direction of the Bosnian frontier.)

SALONIKI, Oct. 20.—Greeks from Eastern Macedonia who were taken from their homes by the Bulgarians and sent to the neighborhood of Kitchevo, Serbia, during the war, are arriving here, following their liberation by the Allies. They say that they were forced to construct trenches along the Struma front, and were under fire much of the time. Not only the men, but women and children, were under shellfire from the allied artillery at times.

During the occupation of Greek Macedonia tens of thousands of persons were deported, and many of them have died from their harrowing experiences.

The Mayor of Saloniki has decided to present a sword of honor to General Franchet d'Esperey, commander of the allied forces in the Macedonian campaign, as a token of the profound gratitude of the people of the city to the French General who brought about the decisive victory over the enemy.

To Lieutenant General Milne, commander of the British forces on the Macedonian front, will be given a statuette symbolizing the victory of the Allies over Bulgaria.

Foch Says Glorious Days Await Allied Armies

Telegrams exchanged between Premier Lloyd George and Marshal Foch, the Allied Commander in Chief, on the occasion of the latter's sixty-seventh birthday, were made public yesterday by the British Bureau of Information in this city. Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Please accept my sincere congratulations on your birthday. I feel a particular pleasure in addressing you at the moment when the allied armies under your direction are making so formidable a change in the military situation. I do not know whether I should the more admire your marvelous skill as a commander or your indomitable courage and the unquenchable faith in victory which you have shown in the course of this war."

Marshal Foch replied:

"I am deeply touched by your congratulations and thank you sincerely. I do not forget that it is to your insistence that I owe the position which I occupy today. The sure sign of the glorious days awaiting our armies is to be found in the perfect unity which exists now between all the allied forces."

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 21.—In bitterly fought local actions today the American First Army captured the Bois de Rappes, north of Cunel, thereby reducing a sharp salient into the line from which German machine guns had given much trouble. The taking of Bois de Rappes added great credit to the reputation for versatility of the engineers.

Hill 299, at the edge of the woods, succeeded in holding out against the attacks of infantry sent against it. An order to take it had been given a division which, when all available infantry was exhausted, had not completed the task.

The commander called on a regiment of engineers, who dropped picks and shovels and went after the Germans. Hours later, headquarters got this message:

"We have the hill and can keep it."

The fight netted us some 150 prisoners.

The front saw a number of other small but fiercely fought actions today, especially the region of Grand Pré, where heavy counterattacks forced us to give up unimportant salients sticking into the German line. Artillery on both sides was fairly active.

The German command continues to hurry fresh divisions to the Meuse front and is putting them against Pershing's men. German officers say that their command regards the Meuse line as the most vital part of the whole western front.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—The American attack, though on a comparatively small scale today, was entirely successful. The Bois de Rappes [north of Cunel] and a formidable hill, 299, both points of strategic importance, were rushed and cleared of the enemy within three hours, despite unusual machine-gun opposition.

The artillery on both sides was fairly active throughout the day, and the aviators were up from early until late, but the infantry action was confined to two local operations.

Immediately west of the Meuse the Americans had consolidated their positions over night despite the activity of German guns of various calibres. In the line-straightening process an American battalion captured a little thicket to the east of the Bois de Rappes and captured several prisoners, including two officers.

The advance on the Bois de Rappe began just before noon. The wood was infested with machine guns, which were

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN BELGIUM AND FRANCE, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—In heavy fighting, which proceeded throughout the night and continued today in a heavy rain, the Germans everywhere were driven still further eastward. In Belgium the Allies are three miles from Eecloo, and in the whole stretch between Courtrai and the Dutch border [nearly forty miles] the British, French, and Belgians are pushing the Germans before them, closing in toward Ghent, from which they are now less than seven miles distant.

In the centre of the battle area the British are on the west bank of the Scheldt for more than ten miles, north of Tornai, in front of which city the Germans are resisting stubbornly with machine guns. Frontally the British have reached positions less than four miles from Valenciennes. Northwest of Valenciennes they have entered the great Vicigne-Raismes Forest. In the region northwest of Lille the British are pushing out in the general direction of Le Quesnoy, fighting every foot of the way.

The great battle passed into its second phase today. The first phase was completed when the Lille salient was eliminated and the Germans were driven out of Western Belgium, so that the line all the way from the frontier of Holland to the Oise Canal is practically a straight one.

This having been accomplished, the Belgians, British, and French in the north started a sweeping movement today pivoting on a point about east of Courtrai. The object of this appears to be to clear the enemy from his front in Northern Belgium and at the same time to threaten his extreme right flank.

Germans Sacrificing Many Men.

The crucial position at the south is in the region below Valenciennes. Both north and south the exhausted German divisions, whose ranks have had great holes chopped into them by terrific blows, are fighting with the greatest desperation. The German commanders are sacrificing many men in their endeavors to hold their ground, but in both sections the allied troops have smashed into the enemy and made appreciable gains. Scores of additional villages have been reclaimed, and numerous prisoners and

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Oct. 21.—The British troops are engaged in heavy fighting on the whole length of the front from northeast of Courtrai to southeast of Le Cateau for more than fifty miles, and in spite of the enemy's desperate resistance in order to hold the line of the Scheldt, southward from Ghent, covering Tournai and Valenciennes, they are getting close to that canal everywhere and are beyond it between Denain and Le Cateau.

This morning's advance by the Second and Third Armies threatens the crossings of the canal and the two historic cities or Tournai and Valenciennes will soon be within their reach.

There was terrific fighting yesterday by English, Scottish, and Welsh divisions for heights above the River Selle and the tank corps rendered great service to the infantry by getting across to the east flank and destroying many German machine-gun nests in spite of the flooded ground.

The engineers have been wonderfully gallant in their work of throwing across pontoon bridges under heavy fire, especially under the hail of machine gun bullets from high ground on the enemy's side, and by their courage the field gunners were able to get across close behind the infantry and open fire on hostile positions at close range.

On the Third Army front by the town of Solesmes, south of Valenciennes on the German line of resistance, there has been extremely severe fighting, and the enemy has massed artillery behind the Scheldt with which he barraged the line of advance fiercely, using large numbers of gas shells in order to soak the woods and villages with poison vapor.

The valleys of Avially and the Selle have been choked with this gas, and the German machine gunners have

Let the Kaiser Take Up His Cross, Harden Tells a Cheering Berlin Crowd

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—Speaking before a Berlin crowd of several thousand Sunday, Maximilian Harden said, amid cheers:

"We are alone. When a fortress can no longer hold, it is no dishonor if the commander surrenders. The Kaiser must take up his cross of concluding quickly necessary peace and accepting whatever is hard. Let the Kaiser declare himself ready and let him fit himself with new Germany as her first citizen."

Herr Harden, whose plain talk in Die Zukunft caused a suspension of the journal several times, was permitted, according to reports of his address, to speak freely. His declaration respecting surrender and the "Kaiser's cross" followed a review of the situation, in which he said Bulgaria was occupied, Turkey's fate was sealed, and Austria-Hungary was out of the fight.

He concluded amid a riotous outburst: "It is one of the cruel ironies that this war, which was begun to maintain an impossible Austria, should be ended by the declaration of that selfsame Austria that it cannot exist. We must shoulder the consequences of the step taken Oct. 5."

"There is no shame in accepting the consequences of acts which one has committed.

"We must make sacrifices. The Emperor also must make sacrifices. He must first adapt himself to the new Germany and content himself to represent the nation. He must remove from his successors all possibility that they will be harmful to the nation. Then he must bear his own part of the cross and conclude rapidly the necessary peace and take upon himself the task of accepting the onerous conditions involved in that.

"We must withdraw the German troops to the empire's frontiers, and henceforth demand that the Reichstag assent to a declaration of war."

LONDON, Oct. 21.—First impressions of the German reply to President Wilson, which was published in London this afternoon, are that it is a willful misunderstanding of one essential point of the President's note of the 14th and an evasion of others.

The German Government, it is held, assumes what the President distinctly implied his refusal to admit, namely, that Germany could have any voice in determining either the process of the evacuation of occupied territories or the conditions of an armistice. The President clearly said that those were matters which must be left to the judgment and advice of the military advisers of the Government of the United States and the allied Governments, and not a single word in his note, according to the prevailing view here, could be construed to signify agreement with the German proposal for a mixed commission.

Germany's new suggestion that the President bring about an opportunity for fixing the details of this is held to be a deliberate misinterpretation of his position.

Germany's reference to the "actual standard of power on both sides" having "to form the basis for arrangements safeguarding and guaranteeing this standard" is considered to be in absolute opposition to Mr. Wilson's view as to "safeguards and guarantees of the present military supremacy of the armies of the United States and the Allies in the field." With no agreement on this point, and with Germany still claiming at least military equality—in the eyes of her own people equality would mean German military superiority—it is asserted that there can be no further discussion.

That point stands foremost in British opinion. Lord Sydenham, speaking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today before the German reply had been received, said:

"Marshal Foch can be the only judge of the terms of an armistice. That is a soldiers' and sailors' question, and both naval and military guarantees must be taken. We can take no risks in such matters, and the Germans set precedents in 1871 which we must follow."

Held to 'Shield Militarism.

Moltke imposed his conditions, and Bismarck's later regrets arose not from consideration of the terms of the military armistice, but from a recognition of the political mistakes made in drawing up the terms of peace. The President's program included the avoidance of such errors as the treaty of Frankfort registered.

But on the point of a military armistice there cannot be any confusion, according to the view taken in representative quarters here. The German Government's hope that the President will approve no demand irreconcilable with the honor of the German people and with opening the Text of Germany's Reply to President Wilson

LONDON, Oct. 21.

The text of the German note in reply to President Wilson, as received by wireless, is as follows:

In accepting the proposal for an evacuation of occupied territory the German Government has started from the assumption that the procedure of this evacuation and of the conditions of an armistice should be left to the judgment of the military advisers and that the actual standard of power on both sides in the field has to form the basis for arrangements safeguarding and guaranteeing this standard.

The German Government suggests to the President that an opportunity should be brought about for fixing the details. It trusts that the President of the United States will approve of no demand which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people and with opening a way to a peace of justice.

The German Government protests against the reproach of illegal and inhumane actions made against the German land and sea forces and thereby against the German people. For the covering of a retreat, destructions will always be necessary, and they are carried out in so far as is permitted by international law. The German troops are under the most strict instruction to spare private property and to exercise care for the population to the best of their ability. Where transgressions occur in spite of these instructions the guilty are being punished.

The German Government further denies that the German Navy in sinking ships has ever purposely destroyed lifeboats with their passengers. The German Government proposes with regard to all those charges that the facts be cleared up by neutral commissions.

In order to avoid anything that might hamper the work of peace, the German Government has caused orders to be dispatched to all submarine commanders, precluding the torpedoing of passenger ships, without, however, for technical reasons, being able to guarantee that these orders will reach every single submarine at sea before its return.

As a fundamental condition for peace the President prescribes the destruction of every arbitrary power that can separately, secretly, and of its own single choice disturb the peace of the world. To this the German Government replies:

Hitherto the representation of the people in the German Empire has not been endowed with an influence on the formation of the Government.

The Constitution did not provide for a concurrence of representation of the people in decisions of peace and war. These conditions have just now undergone a fundamental change. A new Government has been formed in complete accordance with the wishes (principle?) of the representation of the people, based on equal, universal, secret, direct franchise.

The leaders of the great parties of the Reichstag are members of this Government. In the future no Government can take or continue in office without possessing the confidence of a majority of the Reichstag.

The responsibility of the Chancellor of the empire to the representation of the people is being legally developed and safeguarded. The first act of the new Government has been to lay before the Reichstag a bill to alter the Constitution of the Empire so that the consent of the representation of the people is required for decisions on war and peace.

The permanence of the new system is, however, guaranteed not only by constitutional safeguards, but also by the unshakeable determination of the German people, whose vast majority stands behind these reforms and demands their energetic continuance.

The question of the President—with whom he and the Governments associated against Germany are dealing—is therefore answered in a clear, unequivocal manner by the statement that the offer of peace and an armistice has come from a Government which is free from any arbitrary and irresponsible influence, is supported by the approval of an overwhelming majority of the German people.

German Note No Aid to Peace, Congress Leaders Assert

Democrats and Republicans Generally Agree That the Reply from Berlin Does Not Meet President Wilson's Conditions and Affords No Basis for Negotiations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—In the view of nearly all the members of Congress interviewed for THE NEW YORK TIMES tonight the German reply to President Wilson's note affords no basis upon which the Allies can enter into peace negotiations with the Prussian Government. The reply was variously characterized as "cunningly devised," "shifty," "equivocal," and "subtle."

The generally expressed opinion was that the German reply was unsatisfactory and that it ought to be abruptly answered by President Wilson with a refusal to go into further peace parleys, or be absolutely ignored. Only one or two of the Senators and Representatives interviewed thought the reply might be seriously taken as a means of bringing about an end of hostilities.

Germany's protest against the accusation of submarine and other atrocities was denounced as audacious. More than one Senator expressed the view that upon this point alone the reply ought to be ignored or the German request for peace negotiations rejected.

Another feature that came in for harsh criticism was Germany's insistence that her form of Government had been changed and that the German people now had a voice in it. This was scoffed at as palpably false.

The view was expressed that Germany ought not to be allowed to have any say in the manner or method of withdrawal of her troops from conquered territory. This, it was urged, ought to be left entirely to the Generals in the field and carry with it nothing short of unconditional surrender, on terms dictated by the allied commanders.

Senator Hitchcock, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, looked upon the note as an international document that ought to be submitted to the allied Governments before President Wilson replied to it. The President's decision, he felt, should be largely governed by the wishes of the Allies.

The fact that Germany did not mention Alsace-Lorraine, which President Wilson has said must be restored to France as a condition precedent to an armistice, was commented upon. This was taken by some critics of the note as plain evidence that Germany did not mean to consent to any such condition, but wanted it thrashed out at the peace conference.

Submission of Note to Allies.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, said:

"Of course the denial by Germany of having perpetrated the atrocities which have been proven was to be expected. Any nation receiving the rebuff given Germany by the President's last note would have to try to save its face by a denial. The important part of the note dealing with submarine warfare is

WASHINGTON NOT PLEASED

OFFICIAL TEXT AWAITED

President Expected to Insist That Surrender Shall Be in Effect Complete.

MAY TRANSFER PARLEYS

Allied Diplomatic Council Soon to be Formed Would Take Over Negotiations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The German reply to President Wilson's latest note is not satisfactory to the American Government, and will result in no immediate move by the President toward the restoration of peace.

It is regarded as being nothing more than a "left-handed," even "awkward," acceptance of the latest conditions precedent to peace and an armistice, laid down by President Wilson in his note of Oct. 14, and to that extent it is looked upon merely as being one more step toward ultimate peace; but it can be asserted very positively that the communication from Berlin is not regarded as proof that there has yet been any destruction or reduction to virtual impotence of every arbitrary power in the German Government that can separately, secretly, or of its own single choice disturb the peace of the world.

The President, as spokesman for this country and our allies, is standing for the absolute surrender of the enemy, and it was asserted in a responsible high quarter tonight that it was not the purpose of the President to make any peace with an armed Germany.

The German note seeks to make it appear that steps toward constitutional and governmental reform in Germany will be taken to free the German Government from arbitrary and irresponsible influences, but offers no real proof that there has yet been an actual destruction of the arbitrary powers lodged in the Kaiser and the Imperial Government leaders, and no evidence is afforded that the Kaiser, Hindenburg, and Ludendörff are not tonight as completely in control of the German military machine as they were prior to the launching of the German peace offensive.

Three Indispensable Requirements.

It can be stated, on the basis of information obtained through a reliable and well-informed source, that there will be no step taken toward the restoration of peace until there are provided absolutely satisfactory safeguards and guarantees of the maintenance of the present military supremacy of the armies of the United States and of the Allies in the field. These three steps must be taken before there can be a real achievement in the direction of peace:

First—There must be an evacuation under which Germany must withdraw her forces from the soil of the Allies, as well as from Russia and Rumania, and this withdrawal, instead of being under any mixed commission, as proposed at first by Germany, or under conditions in which Germany's military leaders would be allowed any voice, must be under the supervision of General Foch and the allied military advisers.

Second—Both the process of evacuation and the conditions of any armistice will be left to Marshal Foch and the military advisers of the Allied Governments, who will dictate the terms. Unless Germany is ready to accept these terms it is not the purpose to grant an armistice, even after evacuation.

Third—The condition precedent to peace, if peace is to come by the action of the German people themselves, is the overthrow and destruction of the arbitrary power of the Hohenzollerns, and it is the understanding that it is not the purpose of the President to accept the mere ipse dixit of the present German Government, unsupported by real proof and evidence that the autocratic power of the Kaiser and those who have served as the constituted authorities of the Imperial German Empire have been destroyed.

Expect Official Text Today.

The official text of the German Government's reply had not been received in Washington at a late hour tonight, but was expected to be here in time for consideration by the President tomorrow. Early in the day the President and Secretary Lansing, however, received the unofficial text of the reply as distributed broadcast by the German wireless station at Nauen. This radio copy of the reply was not regarded as being absolutely accurate, and it was pointed out that this was evident from the fact that the apparent garbling of several words was such that the sentence in which they appeared did not make complete sense.

The main points that stood out in the unofficial version of the note were its change of tone, the fact that it contained nothing controversial as to the apparent willingness of the present German Government to accept the terms laid down in the President's "decision" of Oct. 14, and the raising of the question of fact as to German acts of barbarity on land and sea. The note asserts that the new German Government, that is, the Government headed by Chancellor Prince Maximilian, has laid before the Reichstag "a bill" to alter the Constitution of the empire "so that the consent of the representation of the people is required for decisions on war and peace," the inference being that steps have been taken to prevent future wars being declared without the vote of representatives of the German people.

From the Same Old Crowd.

It was pointed out in well-informed quarters tonight that there was nothing in the note which guaranteed that this vital reform would be made, and it is understood to be the purpose of the President and of the allied Governments to have guarantees, as a condition precedent to any move in the direction of peace, that there is a destruction of autocratic power in the German Government.

No evidence has been given that the German Army and Navy are not yet under the absolute orders of the German Kaiser and his military and naval spokesmen, or that the Kaiser himself cannot tomorrow recall the orders which the note says the German Government has caused to be dispatched to all submarine commanders precluding the torpedoing of passenger ships. So far as the evidence goes, the German Army and Navy are yet under the same control as before, and, regardless of any action of the Reichstag, the retreat of the German forces from Belgium and France is yet under the control and guidance of the Kaiser and the German high command.

As viewed in high circles in Washington tonight, the situation is one in which "the same old crowd" is in control of the use of the German armed forces, and there is no disposition here, or among the Allies, it is insisted, to "make peace with Germany armed." There is ample ground for the statement that there has been a complete understanding between President Wilson and the allied powers on this particular phase of the situation.

There has been a general understanding between the President and our allies as to how the general principles raised and presented in the various German notes would be met and handled, and to that extent President Wilson can be correctly described as serving actually as spokesman for the Allies. This understanding applies to general principles. Where new points or details are raised, further conferences are required. Where no new points are raised by the Germans President Wilson is free, without further consultation with the Allied Governments, to flash back his reply to Germany.

Fear of a Berlin Commune.

Confidential information regarding conditions in Germany convinces officials of this Government—and this view is understood to be shared by the Allied Governments—that the internal situation confronting the Berlin Government and its autocratic and military leaders is much worse than the outside world understands. Officials are convinced that the German leaders really want to make peace as quickly as possible; that this situation has been forced upon them both by the pressure at the western front and at home. It is believed that the German leaders are afraid that their failure to give the German people peace may result in something like a repetition of the commune in Paris, if not in activities in Germany smacking of what the Bolsheviki have done in Russia.

It is the confident belief here that the German leaders are now ready to make peace on almost any terms, if they cannot obtain it otherwise, but that they are nevertheless endeavoring to rescue what they can out of a difficult situation, and that they are, and have for the last three weeks been, playing a game in the hope of being able to make as easy terms as possible with the Allies. It is believed that they, therefore, adopted the attitude almost of throwing themselves on the mercy of President Wilson, in an effort, through his good offices, to win over the Allies to easier terms than the Allies might be willing to grant if addressed separately for peace.

There is thought to be a fear among the Berlin war lords that the allied powers will insist upon punishment fitting the crimes committed by the German forces. This fear has cropped out in several of the German communications, and is believed to be detected in this sentence found in the unofficial version of the note that came today:

"It trusts that the President of the United States will approve of no demand which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people and with opening a way to a peace of justice."

The use of the word "approve" in this sentence is regarded as being rather significant.

It appears to be the feeling here that the note just received merely means that the Germans, in their next communication, will make a stronger effort to bring about peace. That there will be other communications from the German Government, even were this Government now to wash its hands of the whole affair, and refuse to have any further parleying with the present German Government, is the settled conviction of officials, diplomats, and legislators.

The note which came today pointed to plans for changing the German Government so as to make the offer of peace and an armistice come from a Government which is free from any arbitrary and irresponsible influence, and have it appear that these offers are "supported by an overwhelming majority of the German people."

The change of tone in this part of the note is looked upon as a remarkable come-down for the Germans. While it is true that the note undertakes to defend the German land and sea forces against the reproach of barbarity, and even raises the question of fact regarding such acts, this part of the note is not considered as having a vital bearing on the situation. Officials ridicule the idea of passing these acts of barbarity over to a neutral commission for consideration, when all the world is aware of the acts of German submarine commanders and of German armies in the field.

Allied Diplomatic Council.

Steps are now being taken with a view to the presentation by the allied Governments of a united diplomatic front to the German Government in the future consideration of peace overtures. Conferences of an important character will begin in London and Paris toward the end of this week, and there is evidence that measures already under way will result in the establishment, probably with headquarters at Paris, of an allied diplomatic council, which will be in close touch with the members of the Allied Supreme War Council, as well as with the military advisers in the field.

The four members of the allied Supreme War Council are President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Orlando. Each of these members has his own military adviser. It is now considered important that there should be established abroad, temporarily at least, a diplomatic council, on which there will be a spokesman representing President Wilson.

The importance of this grows out of the fact that the result thus far of the German peace notes has been to demonstrate very clearly, unless American officials are wholly misled, that the German leaders are preparing to pay almost any price for peace rather than run the risk of an upheaval throughout Germany, and that the German Government, which has been steadily bending since the first part of October, may reach the point at an early date where it will even indicate a willingness to make an absolute surrender, if peace can be obtained on no other terms.

The time will soon be here, it is believed, when the Allies will be compelled by circumstances to clearly define their position with respect to the continuance of the war, and in position to justify their course before the public opinion of the world. Whenever they can be convinced, if this be possible in the near future, that Germany is ready for an absolute surrender, it is considered that it will be incumbent upon the allied powers to make it clear why they intend to continue the war.

Meanwhile the immediate situation presented by the newest German note is described as one in which it is considered here that Germany, although having sent an unsatisfactory and incomplete reply to President Wilson, has taken a step in the right direction, and the reply to which will be virtually epitomized in these words: "See Foch next."

SEE A STEP TOWARD PEACE.

Some Washington Observers Read German People's Power in Reply.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Germany has replied to President Wilson with a note which, though no one is prepared to say it will lead the President even to continue exchanges on the subject of an armistice and peace, at least has served almost to bring conviction here that the people of Germany actually are taking the reins of government and sincerely desire peace on any terms the United States and the Allies are willing to give.

There was no intimation tonight of the attitude of the President, and probably there will be none until the official text of the new German communication has been received. The President was in conference all evening with Secretary Lansing, discussing the note as received by wireless late in the day. Like the reply to the President's inquiries about a week ago, this note was sent out from the German wireless stations and picked up in the allied countries many hours before the official note could move by cable. The official version probably will come tomorrow through the Swiss Legation here.

As received by wireless, the note is believed to be slightly garbled in the important sentences regarding conditions for the evacuation of invaded territory and for an armistice, but, nevertheless, it is regarded as an awkward attempt to meet the conditions laid down by President Wilson for consideration of an armistice. And it makes the significant declaration that the Government in Berlin no longer is responsible to a single arbitrary influence—the Kaiser—but is supported by an overwhelming majority of the German people.

This declaration is supported by the statement that constitutional reforms are in progress in accord with the determination of the people, under which no Government can take or hold office without the confidence of the majority of a Reichstag elected by universal secret suffrage. It is accorded more consideration here because of confidential advices received only today, indicating that the German middle classes have resolved to have peace at any price, and if necessary are prepared to get rid of the Kaiser, the Crown Prince, and all military control.

Thus the belief is strengthened that the present note and those that have gone before are genuine efforts to obtain peace and are inconclusive merely because the Germans conducting the exchanges are seeking to bargain for something better than the unconditional surrender they are prepared to give if pushed to the wall. It is assumed also that they want to prepare gradually the German people for a realization of what has happened to their military machine and the War Lords' dreams of power, so as to avoid a complete collapse of Government.

Diplomatic observers point out that the President is at liberty, with perfect consistency, to make no response at this time, but to await developments, to await the performance of the promises of the Germans not to torpedo passenger ships, their implied promise to work no more destruction during their retreat from Belgium and France than military necessity requires, and finally to await further development of the political leaven that evidently is working toward the complete overthrow of military and autocratic power in the empire.

No one believes that an immediate cessation of hostilities is in sight. The opinion most generally held is that, if Mr. Wilson decides to make a reply, and if the Entente Governments agree, the only step possible at this time would be to sanction arrangements to be dictated by General Foch in the field for withdrawal of the Germans without further fighting. Such arrangements of course would be contingent upon guarantees of continued supremacy of the victorious allied armies, and consequently virtually would mean surrender for the Germans.

The official view so far has been that evacuation of invaded territory must be completed before there can be an armistice. Should President Wilson, after consultation with the Allies, adhere to this view, the work of driving the Germans to and across their own borders would proceed and the opportunity for fixing details which the new note suggests "be brought about" would come only through a request from the German lines under a white flag on the battlefield.

REPLY TO PRESIDENT REVISED AT LATE HOUR

War Cabinet Sat in the Evening —Army and Navy Leaders Active in Advice.

BASLE, Oct. 21.—Advices from Berlin show that it was on account of difficulties arising at the last moment that the dispatch of the reply to President Wilson was delayed. The reply was submitted first to a committee of the Federal Council, then to a meeting at which the leader or one influential member of every group in the Reichstag, except the Poles, was present. A discussion lasting an hour followed the reading of the text by Friedrich von Payer, the Vice Chancellor.

BERNE, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—German military experts, especially General Ludendorff and Admiral von Scheer, chief of the Admiralty Staff, took a large part in the deliberations on the reply to President Wilson, according to Berlin dispatches received here. They argued that the German military situation, in consequence of the withdrawal and shortening of the front, was considerably ameliorated, and added that the German army was not in the least demoralized.

The liberal newspapers of Germany suggest the sending of the newly appointed democratic Ministers to the western front to acquaint the troops with the actual situation in the interior and the changes in the Government.

SAYS BERLIN TREATED WILSON AS A NEUTRAL

Austrian Journalist Points Out the Cardinal Error of German Peace Policy.

BERNE, Oct. 21.—Regarding disappointment over the outcome of negotiations with the United States, an Austrian journalist writes to the Swiss National Zeitung of Basle that Germany's great mistake has been to consider President Wilson as a neutral after having herself driven him from neutrality.

It was believed in Germany, the journalist says, that it would be sufficient to appeal to President Wilson, and that forthwith a satisfactory peace would arise. To refuse the President's mediation when it seemed that better terms could be got by force, and then, when the game was lost, to believe that he would patiently await the moment when it pleased the Germans to demand peace, was counting upon the impossible, the writer says.

CHARLES'S STEP TOO LATE

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 21.—The general opinion here on the Austrian Emperor's manifesto proclaiming the transformation of his empire into a federation of States, is that Charles is endeavoring to save his tottering empire by trying to realize the tenth point of President Wilson's conditions, thus enabling him to demonstrate to the President that he has done everything in his power to insure a just and lasting peace. The nationalities which have long endured the Austrian yoke will not, however, today accept a constitution which does not make them entirely free and independent, but expects that some parts of their country shall remain subject to Hungary.

The chief point which interests the public here is the passage dealing with Trieste. The Tribuna says:

"We give Trieste her natural, logical place, with the inflexible sword, the right place which awaits the martyr city, which always has kept high her sentiments, always saying to whoever would listen, that it was Italian and would remain Italian."

The Giornale Italia says: "Too late. A similar act would have had undeniable value in 1914, namely, before the world war, but not today, after the defeat of the Austro-Germans and their irreparable loss of the war."

Another question that is greatly occupying the public mind is whether, by evacuation of the invaded territories is meant the country occupied by the Central Empires in this last war or evacuation of the irridentist lands like Alsace-Lorraine in France and Trent and Trieste in Italy. Several newspapers suggest that the enemy should evacuate up to the Rhine in France and to the Brenner in Italy.

"According to the principles of President Wilson, which also have been accepted by Germany, the Czechoslovak State has a right to its existence and to its full liberty," is the opinion generally expressed here on the Czechoslovak uprising in Prague.

"It is a right which must justly be recognized, as the allied Governments already have done. The Czechoslovaks attained this right by shedding their best blood fighting in Italy, France, Russia, and Siberia against the Germans and against the Hapsburg monarchy, their particular enemy. The generous victims of the gallows, prisons, and exile are vindicated. The secession at Prague, with the proclamation of the Czechoslovak State, will be the first of many other episodes which sign the downfall of the villainous Austro-German policy."

CONGRESSMEN FIND NO AID TO PEACE

the statement that all of the U-boats have been recalled.

"The note is not such that it requires an answer from the President now. The next move, I believe, will be to submit the note, which appears on its face to be compliance with the fourteen conditions laid down by the President, to the Governments of England, France, Italy, and Belgium. The President is acting how not only as the head of one of the belligerent nations, but also as an intermediary between the Allies and the Central Powers. In reply to this submission of the German note, the allied governments will add to the fourteen points raised by the President whatever additional conditions they desire. These conditions will then be submitted to Germany through the President, via a neutral channel.

"France is certain to demand full restoration of the territory devastated by the German armies in their years of lawless possession of the northern provinces. England will back France up in this demand, and the same demand will be made for Belgium.

"The question of an armistice of course will be referred to the commander of the allied armies in the field, Marshal Foch. Under a flag of truce the German commanders may approach him and begin negotiations. It is probable that Marshal Foch would insist upon such stringent guarantees that the armistice would not be broken that Germany would hesitate a long time before accepting them.

"Meanwhile the fighting will go on. I do not believe that an armistice will actually be entered upon until all of the terms of all of the Allies have been agreed to and complied with. As terms of the armistice, Foch will probably demand the occupation of such strongholds as Metz, Coblenz, and Strassburg, and also allied possession of a considerable part of the German Navy."

Dictated Peace, None Other.

Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, said:

"The American people and the Governments of the Allies will never stand for any sort of a negotiated peace. Until the Huns have more than a taste of defeat there can be no peace. Unless the military power of Germany is broken nothing but a patched-up peace can be made. If peace that is to last is to be made, it cannot be through negotiations. It must be dictated to Germany. Germany is not beaten yet, and peace negotiations now would be a terrible mistake."

Must Await Germany's Surrender.

Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, said:

"I am not very much impressed with the German Government's reply.

"First, the German Government, which is solely responsible for this war and all the crimes and outrages and murders which have flowed from it, asks the President to intercede with our allies that they shall impose no terms that would appear to be dishonorable to the German Government and the German people. The German Government, by inaugurating this war, has itself dishonored the German people. Therefore that Government cannot ask us to honor their dishonor.

"Second, the proposition is that the President has stated that he would have no discussion with the Government that was responsible for this war. The Kaiser and his Government are still the German Government. Solf was appointed by the Emperor, and, no matter to what extent they may attempt to camouflage, we have no evidence whatever that the German people have taken over the Government of that empire.

"Third, nowhere has the German Government suggested a willingness to make reparation for the acts of its army, which were against all rules of international law and humane conduct. Nor has Germany signified any intention of repaying the tribute from countries which it overran, nor any indication that she is truly repentant. There is nothing we can do, in my opinion, until she is ready to surrender, admit the wrongs she has done, and agree to make reparation."

Good Time to End Negotiations.

Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, said:

"So far as the reference in the German note to a change of Government is concerned, I look upon it as a sham. The power still comes from above, and not below, from those who claim to be divinely anointed, and not from the people. It is in no sense a concurrence with President Wilson's last note.

"As to the disposition of the armies, it seems to me to be intentionally involved and complicated in order to draw out further negotiations and discussions. Now would be a good time to stop all negotiations.

"As to the protests against the reproach of illegal and inhumane actions—the German Government seems to have no sense of humor."

Senator Curtis, Republican, or Iowa, said:

"I still think that our demand should be for the unconditional surrender to the armies of the Allies and the United States of the German Army, together with control of her naval and air forces and of her munition factories. The terms of peace can then be discussed. The German Government should be left no power with which to renew hostilities."

Poindexter Talks Impeachment.

Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington, said:

"The first proposition in the German note is to negotiate for the terms of armistice on the basis of the comparative 'standard of power.' If on such a proposition the President should interfere with the splendid work our people and army are now doing for a victorious conclusion of the war, he would not only stultify himself but disgrace the nation and affront the entire civilized world.

"The next proposition in the German note is a denial that the Germans have been guilty of illegal and inhuman practices. Certainly the President is not going to negotiate with Germany on that subject.

"The German statement that they have reformed their Government is likewise a falsehood. The Kaiser and the Bundesrath are still in control.

"Germany's promise to refrain from submarine warfare is as unreliable and worthless as the same promise made three years ago.

"If the President answers this note and undertakes to agree with Germany on the basis of it before her army is conquered and disarmed, I should think he should be impeached. There ought not be a mere repulse of Germany or a compromise of the issues of the war. Such a step would be false to the dead and a betrayal of the living. It would be going back and taking out of the slough the President's previous astounding statement that there must be a 'peace without victory.' It would be a repetition of the Bolshevist treason of Russia, only more reprehensible because of the incomparable superiority of the people involved.

"A very great injury has already been done to the war spirit of this country by these exchanges of notes and by the childish and foolish statements given out by members of the Administration that Germany had surrendered and the putting of these statements in large headlines in thousands of papers throughout the country. Germany could have afforded to pay $2,000,000,000 for such propaganda.

"When Germany has laid down her arms and marched on to the place designated by the Allied commander and German territory has been occupied, then Germany will be conquered, and not until then. The war ought not end until that is accomplished. Note writing does not tend to bring this about."

Inconsequential and Unsatisfactory.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, said:

"The German reply sounds very much to me like deathbed repentance, which I don't believe in. The statement by Germany that she has not been guilty of atrocities and cruelties in this war is false. To contend that Germany has not been guilty of these atrocities is so utterly false as to make one wonder that Germany had the audacity even to say it.

"So far as the German Government is concerned, it does not represent the German people, but the Kaiser. He is still supreme. There may, perchance, come a Government later that represents the German people, but the one that exists now, and which Germany assumes to call a democracy, does not represent our ideas of democracy.

"I think the reply is designed to secure a general plan of negotiation by which Germany hopes either to suspend the energies of the Allies or to gain time to rehabilitate her own forces. If there is a lull Germany hopes, no doubt, to be able to strengthen herself so that, with a renewal of hostilities, she will be able to break through the allied lines and again gain the superiority.

"In my judgment, the President ought either make a brief reply or ignore the note altogether. I would like to see him answer as briefly as he did in his note to Austria.

"One thing that stands out in the note is that Germany makes no reference to Alsace-Lorraine. France ought not and will not agree to an armistice, I believe, that does not have as one of the principal bases the restoration of these provinces.

"I regard the German reply as inconsequential and unsatisfactory."

Invited by President's Note.

Senator Sutherland, Republican, of West Virginia said:

"Of course the German note is the logical result of the President's note, which invited it. It seemed to me that the effort of the Germans was to bring about negotiations. Now, through this note, there is thrown upon the President a duty which might perhaps more properly be delegated to the Generalissimo commanding the allied armies in the field. The Germans are trying to make it appear, probably for the deception of their own people, that the present evacuation, under duress, of the sections of France and Flanders occupied by them for four years or more is a part of their movement toward peace, rather than a collapse of their military strength. The withdrawal is a military movement pure and simple, and it would seem to me that the whole matter is one which should be taken out of the realm of conventional interchanges as between the Governments and left where it belongs, in the hands of the military powers in the field."

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona said:

Cunning, Shrewd, Ingenious.

"The note is cunning, shrewd, subtle and ingenious. I think it is the shrewdest communication I have ever read. It is designed to impress the gullible. It is bait for gudgeons.

"In the first place, the Germans' disclaimer that they have ever engaged in brutalities, atrocities and murders such as have characterized their conduct in the occupied territories is suggestive of a convicted criminal standing under the gallows with the noose pressing his throat and proclaiming for himself a certificate of good character.

"The subtlety and shrewdness of the words strung together to define the method of evacuation is the Germans' despairing plan to save to their empire Alsace and Lorraine. They are playing up their willingness to evacuate occupied territory solely for the purpose of entering into negotiations in the course of which they will put forward the argument that Alsace and Lorraine, not having been occupied, need not be evacuated in the course of the withdrawal which they plan to arrange.

"If the author of that note were a direct descendant of both Mephistopheles and Machiavelli he could not have done better—or worse."

Meets Requirements, If—

Senator Harding, Republican of Ohio, said:

"If this note states the actual truth of the turn of governmental affairs in Germany, it meets all the requirements, so far as the creation of a responsible Government is concerned, and with which we are to deal. The note contains no new suggestion which we can accept regarding an armistice.

"The German submarine policy drew us into the war. They will have to come with cleaner hands than this note suggested before they can hope to have us suspend hostilities."

Opens Way for Negotiation.

Senator Overman, Democrat, of North Carolina said:

"As I read the note, it looks as if Germany had surrendered to our terms and was willing to do anything to end the war. She knows she is beaten and that there is no use to go any further with it. I take her reference to the standards of power to mean simply that Germany wants to get out of it the best way she can with her armies, and that she wants to be treated with honor. Of course, she wants all the advantages she can squeeze out of it. Her protest that she has not engaged in atrocities amounts to nothing. The whole world knows of her barbarities in this war. Germany is only trying to escape culpability for her crimes. However, the way seems to be open, in this reply, for peace negotiation. It will mean the end of the war if we want to accept it that way."

Senator McKellar, Democrat of Tennessee, said:

"I am still for absolute and unconditional surrender."

Danger of Exchanging Notes.

Representative F. H. Gillett, acting Republican leader of the House, said:

"It is a very clever and plausible note, and it shows the danger of exchanging notes with an adversary upon whose word you cannot rely. There has never been any evidence until the last week that the German people differed from the German Government. Now I presume that both the German people and the German Government want peace, but we are prepared to fight for a permanent peace, and I can see no security for a permanent peace until Germany gives up her warships and armaments and is powerless to make war. So I hope that no armistice will be granted which will allow her to catch her breath and rally her army. The President stated fourteen principles, but there are other terms which must be exacted, such as indemnities, and the way to get permanent peace is not through negotiations, but by unconditional surrender on the battlefield."

Representative L. P. Padgett, Chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, said:

"Germany's reply is not as satisfactory as I would like to see it. I want unconditional surrender, and I believe in fighting for it until we get it."

Representative S. Huber Dent, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, said:

"It looks like the beginning of a move for complete surrender. I have thought all along that conditions in Germany were such as to lead that nation to want peace very badly. Whether this move will lead directly to peace depends largely how the nations fighting with us accept the reply."

Representative S. D. Fess, Republican, of Ohio, said:

"The first half of the note is impertinent in that it denies what all the world knows is undeniable. After reading the note carefully I do not believe that it comes in good faith. Germany is not willing to admit what the world knows to be true and has written a note for home consumption.

"If peace is negotiated now, before the German people have seen the terrors of war, such as they visited upon France and Belgium, with their pride still unbroken, this war would only be adjourned until a future day, until Germany thought she was able to crush the world.

"I hope that this Government and the Governments allied with us will allow the war to go on until our armies have taken the German strongholds and we can talk peace on German soil and dictate terms."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, reserved comment on the German note until the official text should be received.

POINDEXTER MOVES TO STOP PEACE NOTES

Resolution Would Forbid Any Government Official to Answer Any from Germany.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Senator Poindexter of Washington offered a resolution today to make it unlawful for "any official of this Government to answer in any way" any note, message or representation from Germany as to peace or an armistice until Germany unconditionally surrenders to the Allied Generals on the field. He made no comment upon the resolution, which was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee. The motive actuating the resolution, Senator Poindexter explained later, is to have the war go on without parleying through prolonged notes. The resolution follows:

Whereas, Congress has the sole and exclusive power to declare war, to make rules concerning captures on land and water, to raise and support armies, to provide and maintain a navy, to make rules for the Government and regulation of the land and naval forces, to levy all taxes, to authorize bonds, to make all appropriations for the conduct of the war and to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by the Constitution in the Government of the United States or in any department or officer thereof; and

Whereas, no treaty of peace can be made without the consent and advice of the Senate, with the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senators present; be it

Resolved, by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

That no officer of the United States shall enter into any discussion with the Government of Germany as to terms of peace; and it is hereby made unlawful for any official of this Government to answer in any way any note, message, or representation from the German Government or the German people or from any official representing or purporting to represent them, or either of them, on the subject of peace, or an armistice between the German Government or the German nation, or people, and the Governments with which they are now at war, until, and before such time as the German armed forces shall have surrendered to the Allied nations in the war in which they are now engaged;

That the war against Germany shall be prosecuted by the United States with the utmost vigor and dispatch possible continuously until the armed forces of Germany shall have laid down their arms and surrendered to the commanding General in the field of the Allied forces, without condition or stipulation;

That German territory shall then be occupied and taken under control by the armed forces of the United States in co-operation with its Allies and that such occupation and control shall be continued until such time as the chosen representatives of the United States and the nations allied with the United States, in a conference appointed for that purpose, shall have formally agreed among themselves upon the specific terms of peace to be imposed by said Allies upon Germany, and a practical application of the same in detail;

That no official of the United States shall agree that any representatives of the German Government shall participate in the said conference, or have a vote therein, or be present thereat, except for the purpose of conveying data or information to said conference when called on by the conference therefor.

Stockholm Paper Wants Germany to Settle Schleswig Question.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19.—The Stockholm Dagblad today in a leader says that even for the strongest German sympathizers in Sweden the treatment of Schleswig has cast shadows and hurt cordial feelings.

The paper maintains that if this question is solved with justice, Germany will win more than she loses. Sweden takes part in Denmark's hopes, and if justice is done, the Germans will be good neighbors not to Denmark alone but to the entire north.

VICTORY DEMANDED BY REPUBLICAN CLU

Vigorous Prosecution of War Until Foe Surrenders, Is Urged in Resolution.

The Republican Club at its monthly meeting last night adopted the following resolution calling for a vigorous prosecution of the war:

"The Republican Club of the City of New York rejoices at the overwhelming evidence of the unity of the American people in the conviction that the war of defense against Prussian militarism and German military and material ambition shall be prosecuted until complete victory is obtained and the foundations laid for a new international order in the world.

"The German Government, eagerly and blindly supported by the German people, has shown itself to be faithless, ruthless and cruel beyond belief. No negotiation nor parley with it is possible until the Germans have been so completely defeated on the field of battle, to which they made appeal, that they come to understand that the forces of freedom, of international good faith and of even-handed justice are strong enough to conquer on the field of battle itself. We insist that the present victorious progress of the Allied Armies be not checked nor halted on any request whatever from our enemies, but that the war be vigorously prosecuted until unconditional surrender of Germany and her remaining allies is demanded and obtained.

"We believe that the outrages against law, against humanity, and against the rules and usages of war that have been perpetrated by the German armed forces on land and sea cry aloud, not for revenge, but for just punishment. Those public criminals who have ordered and those who have executed these lootings, outrages, and murders, should be brought to the bar of international justice and made to answer personally for their crimes.

"We rejoice at the courage, the sacrifice, and the valor of the armies and the peoples of the allied nations. The day is not far distant when they, with the powerful aid of America, will be able to determine the issues of this war so as to offer new opportunities and new cause for rejoicing to free men everywhere."

The resolution was prepared last Saturday by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Francis S. Banks, and Robert W. Bonynge, President of the Republican Club. It was offered by Mr. Bangs, as Vice Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs. The vote on the resolution was unanimous.

RUTHENIANS MAKE PLEA.

Want to be Federal Unit of a Slav Nation If Not Independent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson was asked today by representatives of the American National Council of Uhro-Rusins to take into consideration the national aspirations of their people, the Ruthenians, in any peace discussions with Austria-Hungary.

The members of the delegation, who said they represented 500,000 Ruthenians in the United States, urged the President to use his influence to secure for them opportunity to join one of the other Slavic nations as a federal unit if complete independence is found to be impracticable.

CALLS FOR JUSTICE TO GERMANY'S FOES

Not Until Then, Declares Judge Clayton, Can the Teutons Have Mercy.

AMUSING, SAYS G. G. BATTLE

Note to United States, He Holds, Can Be Safely Left to President Wilson for Action.

How Germany's note to the United States was regarded in this city last night is shown by the following comment:

Judge Henry D. Clayton of the United States Court: "The only part of that note that interests me is that in which the German Government protests against 'the reproach of illegal and inhumane actions, &c.,' and which further on denies the commission of the crimes which all civilization knows the Germans to be guilty of. To my way of thinking the Germans have added to the sum of all of the colossal crimes committed by them the inexcusable crime of colossal lying, and the lie that is now uttered is rendered all the more offensive because all the world knows they are lying, and still they have the effrontery to act as if they believe the world will believe that they are sincere and truthful. The utterance of a falsehood so base is an insult to the intelligence of civilized mankind.

"I am a Judge and I am not talking politics, but I want to say that I want justice done in this matter. I want justice done to Belgium, to France, to England, to Serbia, and to all the rest who have been wronged and outraged, and after this justice has been done, and not until then, should the matter of mercy to the Germans be considered. As yet no justice has been done, and for that reason this is not the time to discuss the question of mercy.

"I want to see these enemies of mankind licked to a frazzle. I would like to see our boys and their allies march down Unter den Linden, and above all things else through that middle panel of the Brandenburg Gate, through which only German royalty is now permitted to pass. And I may add that before marching through that particular part of the gate I would like to see the allied soldiers batter it open with the butts of their guns. This is all I have to say just now. I know that we can trust our President to do the right thing."

Charles Stewart Davison, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society: "Germany's last note is miscalled a reply, since no questions were asked of her by the President. It can only be said that the President is well aware of the temper of this country. He is also well aware that Germany's wish is to lure him into correspondence to the disadvantage of the side he represents. He also well knows the old proverb, 'Who sups with the devil had best use a long spoon.'

"Those who dip in the pot with Germany will have no one but themselves to thank when they burn their fingers. The more we deal with Germany, the more we shall strengthen Germany and injure our allies and ourselves. The so-called reply is preposterous. Germany has had our reply—Unconditional surrender."

George Gordon Battle: "In my opinion the latest piece of official literature from Germany is gratifying, mendacious, and amusing. That part which seeks to give assurance that the activities of the submarines have been ordered discontinued is gratifying. The part which denies German cruelties, practiced in the name of civilized warfare, is false. It will deceive no one, and I do not believe the German people themselves believe it. That part which refers to a revised Constitution is just amusing. I think the document may be safely left to Woodrow Wilson to pass upon."

ITALIANS FIRM ON TERMS.

Demand That Foe Yield Unconditionally, Giving Up Arms.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 21.—With the exception of The Osservatore Romano, the official organ, the press is unanimous in exhorting watchfulness against German treachery and urging that the Central Empires be obliged to surrender unconditionally, giving up their cannon, munitions, and arms. The view is taken that it would be unfair to hundreds of thousands of young, strong lives which have been sacrificed not to conclude a lasting peace.

A typical press view is the following: "An armistice must not be a suspension of hostilities nor a means to enable the Central Empires to reorganize their military forces on their frontier, to accumulate new arms, to resist in the discussions of peace, and eventually to begin the war again. It must be instead a prelude to a just and lasting peace to be attained with mathematical certainty. To obtain this the Allies must take iron resolutions nad ask formidable guarantees. Only in this way the declarations of the Central Empires that they accept peace on the basis of the principles enunciated by President Wilson can be converted into reality."

BRTISH OFFICIAL OPINION.

The View in High Qarters as Reported by Reuter.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—It has been learned by Reuters, Ltd., that the view held in authoritative quarters regarding the situatioi arising out of the German reply to President Wilson's note is as follows:

The German note assumes that the President only demanded the evacuation of occupied territory, and the Germans are still proceeding on that assumption. But that is not so, and this point should be made quite clear.

Freedom of the seas, as understood by the Germans, cannot be accepted by Great Britain at all. There are various other naval questions requiring elucidation.

Other points which have not yet been touched upon include questions of indemnities and reparations.

LONDON CONDEMNS REPLY

way to a peace of justice is considered a subterfuge and an evasion of the greatest issue of the war, the destruction of Prussian militarism. An armistice settled by Foch and the other military and naval advisers of America and the Allies will doubtless be unpleasant for German militarism, but the President throughout has drawn the clearest distinction between German militarism and the German people, and humiliation of the military autocracy, it is held, is not irreconcilable with the honor of the German people, nor does it preclude a peace of justice.

It is believed here that the German note contains an implied threat that the President's rejection of the present proposals will be regarded by the German nation as indicative of a design to destroy it, and will spur the whole people to the uttermost exertions in defense of the Fatherland.

See No Help to Peace.

Within the last hour THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has been enabled to gather a number of views of the note, which may be thus roughly summarized:

"Napoo," said one man, using jargon of the front which is rapidly permeating the English language. Another used the Americanism "Nothing doing." A third view was that the German reply was so palpably unsatisfactory that it was bound to have an excellent influence upon the determination of all the Allies to prosecute the war to its proper end. It gave no chance for pacifist gospel. It encouraged the so-called "never enders" and discouraged the so-called defeatists from believing that Germany had yet become regenefated. It shows no sign of a change of heart. Its voice is that of German militarism, unrepentant and indeed satisfied that it has done no wrong. Its professions in regard to the new Germany are not worth the paper on which they are written.

That the note does not bring peace nearer is practically the universal opinion here, and no doubt is expressed that America will take this identical view. The only question which arouses discussion is whether or not the President will consider it useful or worth while to continue the parley with a Government which so obviously speaks at cross-purposes with its intentions that it must be suspected.

"Threats and Cajolery" Denounced.

H. M. Hyndman, the veteran Socialist leader, said:

"I hope that President Wilson will now see fit to cut this correspondence off short. He has given the Germans a chance to act honestly. They have replied with treachery and trickery. It is time, too, for our leaders to give the nation a firm lead.

"The German reply is a mixture of threats and cajolery. They are hoisting the black flag with the skull and crossbones on one mast and the white flag on the other. I know the German people well, and I am convinced that nothing will come of appealing to them."

Harold Cox, editor of The Edinburgh Review, said:

"I think that the Germans are approaching cautiously, very cautiously, terms which we can accept. It is a real gain they should admit, if only in words, that they will give up the U-boat warfare, that they will suppress depredations, and make their country democratic. But, after all, I put my trust in the fighting man, not the talker.

"I don't care a straw whether Germany becomes democratic or not. They are all beasts. I don't trust their words. We must punish them thoroughly before we make peace."

Sir J. Forbes Robertson said:

See Foe Emboldened by Safe Retreat.

LONDON, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—The view of the German reply to President Wilson held by military circles here is that, having made a more successful retirement from Flanders than they expected to be able to make when they first proposed an armistice, the Germans now feel safer on definite new lines and less eager to get back to their own frontiers. Hence they are inclined to let peace talk drift somewhat, hoping thereby to secure better terms.

All reports concur that the retirement in Flanders was carried out without serious losses in men and material and that it was well organized and in no sense disorderly.

LONDON PRESS SPURNS NOTE.

Impossible to Suppose It Would Be Accepted, Says The Chronicle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 22.—The editorial opinion of the London morning papers is unanimously that the German reply is unacceptable.

The Daily Chronicle says:

"If Solf's present proposal, as it is not improbably, may be only a piece of diplomatic huckstering, a stage along the downward pathway of surrender, which he desires to make gradual, but knows to be inevitable, well and good. We can wait until he reaches the bottom, but nothing should be done to encourage him or his people to think that in any event they can induce us to meet them half way down.

"Reading between the lines of the note as a whole, one is rather disposed to take an inclined plane view of it. With its mixture of legality and deference, it seems a strange blend of pettifogging, abject and consciously unreal. It is impossible to suppose that its author ever expected us to accept it, yet on the other hand, there is nothing in it that suggests a desire to break off the conversation or sound a trumpet call to the German people for further resistance.

"We do not know what procedure Mr. Wilson will follow, whether he will continue the interchange of notes by himself or whether he will prefer at this stage to associate the allied Governments more formally with his future replies. He is not likely to be very easily satisfied by make-believes at democratization."

The Daily Mail says:

"The new Hun note is no reply at all. Quite characteristically, it reaches the world at the very moment of the news of the sinking in the Irish Sea of the steamer Dundalk by a Hun submarine."

The Morning Post says that the statements in the note are far from being in accordance with the known facts, and that something more tangible than the "unshakable determination" of the present Reichstag and its majority is necessary to persuade the Allies that the great gulf fixed between the democratic and Hohenzollernist systems of government has been crossed by Germany. Germany, says The Post, enjoys all the advantages possessed by an unscrupulous liar over an honest man. The Allies, it asserts, demand the unconditional surrender of the armed forces of "this dehumanized people," because until "these enemies of the human race" are compelled openly to take knowledge of their utter defeat there can be no peace in the world.

The Daily News seeks to analyze what may be in the German mind, and, being in doubt, attacks a section of the British press.

The Daily Telegraph says:

"What Germany desires to do is to go on talking. Equally clearly the interest of the Entente Powers lies exactly in the opposite direction. It is time an end was put to negotiations, which, so long as Germany is in her present mood, can obviously lead to no result."

The Daily Express sums up its views in the phrase, "Let Germany go to Foch."

NORTHCLIFFE IS SUSPICIOUS.

Is Berlin Trying to Gain Time—Lansdowne Sees Door Open.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Lord Northcliffe, commenting on Germany's reply, said tonight:

"A hasty perusal of the German note reveals that, with truly Prussian selfishness, no mention is made of Austria-Hungary or Turkey. It seems to me that the document may be read either as a means to gain time or as a confession of a state of affairs militarily and economically worse than we know.

"The German Government may be hoping to exploit the conditions of the armistice as an outrage upon German honor and as a means of rallying the German nation for desperate resistance, or it may simply be trying to put the President in the position of trustee for the German people, which will have thrown itself upon his mercy.

"The least satisfactory feature of the reply is the shameless prevarication with regard to German outrages on land and sea, and the suggestion that this be dealt with by a neutral commission is a mere subterfuge. The arguments employed to prove that a reform of the German Constitution has been accomplished are unworthy of serious consideration.

"The President, who dealt so firmly and shrewdly with the previous German attempts to entangle him in wordy discussions, may be trusted to compel the German Government to show whether it really intends unconditional surrender, which alone can satisfy the demands of the military and naval authorities of the Allies, or whether it simply is playing for time."

The Marquis of Lansdown, leader of the opposition in the House of Lords and noted for his pacifist tendencies, considers that the German reply leaves the door open for a continuation of the discussion, although some passages in it, in his opinion, need elucidation.

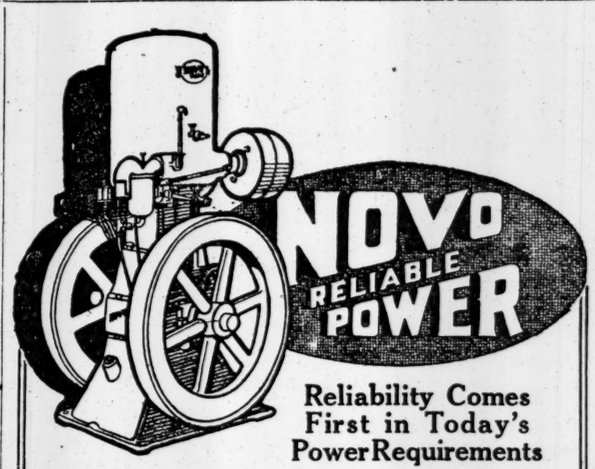
While regarding the situation on the whole as hopeful, his view is that "we must proceed warily, leaving nothing to chance."

"We must trust President Wilson to avoid pitfalls," he said. "Above all, it is necessary that we make no concessions impairing the strength and predominant military position secured for us by the splendid valor of our naval and military forces.

"The passage about the armistice seems suspiciously obscure, while nobody is likely to accept the plea that land and sea outrages can be justified or extenuated by the necessities of war."

Lord Lansdowne agreed with the recently expressed opinion of Viscount Milner, Secretary for War, that there is in progress in Germany a complete transformation in Government, which should not be hurried, and that any attempt to impose upon the German people rulers not of their choice might conceivably lead to a situation where Germany would find herself without a Government.

Viscount Haldane, former Secretary for War, said that he thought Germany had conceded what President Wilson required, but in an indirect and complex manner. The elaboration of peace conditions, he believed, would prove a formidable business.



Reliability Comes First in Today's Power Requirements

THIS is, perhaps, the leading reason why contractors, builders, mining and oil operators are using Novo Power to a greater extent than ever before.

These men have first proved to their satisfaction that Novo Power is Reliable—that it can be depended on to meet almost any condition of service with continuous, efficient power delivery.

They have also learned that Novo Engines and Outfits stand for lowest first cost, lowest fuel cost, lowest labor cost; that they are compact, quickly shipped, quickly shifted from one job to another.

More than 75 types and sizes of Hoists, Pumping Outfits, Air Compressor Outfits and Saw Rigs, all equipped with Novo Engine. Furnished to operate on gasoline, kerosene, distillate, natural or artificial gas.

Comment of This Morning's Newspapers on the Note

NEW YORK CITY.

From The World.

Unsatisfactory as this communication must be regarded, we are bound to admit that it shows progress. As was said in these columns when Germany first entered upon these peace manoeuvres a few weeks ago, Berlin will come again and again with its propositions, and capitulation will be the end of them—perhaps not this month, perhaps not this year, but finally. In the interval, no unnecessary word should be used on our part in such discussions as have recently been in progress.

Events on the battlelines, where everything is sincere, are doing more to settle these controversies than anything that can be done by diplomatic jockeying. Germany is not yet ready to admit its defeat and accept the terms which it begins to fear are to be imposed by its triumphant adversaries. When it presently recognizes that it cannot win in the field and that all its stratagems elsewhere do not involve its adversaries in jealousies and disputes, it will yield, as many another nation as proud if not as powerful has had to yield.

Progress Toward Surrender.

From The Sun.

The great fact that stands forth in the last note of "the present German Government" is to swift progress of that Government in the direction of unconditional surrender.

The apparent intent of these rapidly rising bids for peace by "the present German Government" is to bring the people it has so long deluded, by successive and easy stages, to a state of mind which shall realize and accept the defeat now inevitable without turning upon the dynasty primarily responsible for the national disaster and humiliation and tearing that dynastly violently from the seat of power it has disgraced and forfeited. That is essentially a question between the Hohenzollerns and the German people.

No Peace Until Foe Is Beaten.

From The Herald.

In its talk about armistice autocracy has nothing else in view than its desire to save the harried and battered armies of Germany. Its assertion that it has ordered its U-boats to refrain from torpedoing passenger vessels has the same value as German autocracy's other promises of fair dealing, and that means no value at all.

Today, as on the heels of the American note of Oct. 8, the demand of the American people will be—no armistice, no negotiations, no discussions, no peace until there is open admission of defeat by whatever government Germany may have, and no thought of peace until the German armies have surrendered unconditionally.

On with the war! We have just begun to fight!

Trying to Avert Invasion.

From The Tribune.

They have manoeuvred for an armistice which would save their precious Fatherland from an invasion and lead to a peace conference based upon Mr. Wilson's conditions, which provide for Germany's restoration to free seas and free trade, and omit to mention moral punishment or reparation.

If that is what the American people have been fighting for, let them hold their peace. If not, then now is the time to speak.

Calls For Signal Punishment.

From The Journal of Commerce.

A snivelling appeal to the President of the United States to approve of no demand "irreconcilable with the honor of the German people" cannot change the fixed resolution of the allied Governments and peoples to demand atonement. * * * There can be no security that the long list of German outrages on all that is honorable, compassionate or decent can be finally closed short of a punishment so signal that it will live in the memory of the people for all time.

Sees Sign of a Change.

From the German Herold.

An examination of the wireless version, as it has reached us, seems to show that there is at least some endeavor on the part of Germany to fulfill the basic conditions as enunciated by Mr. Wilson. * * * We trust the German rulers are at last inclined to let reason rule and see things as they are.

PHILADELPHIA.

"Mere Bosh."

From The Inquirer.

The German note is mere bosh. It is a clumsy mixture of special pleading, of hypocrisy, of an effort to prolong discussion, and of downright lying. If any reply is sent to it, that reply should go in precisely two words—unconditional surrender.

Must Trust Our Leaders.

From The Public Ledger.

This is a case in which it is absolutely necessary for a democracy to trust its leaders. * * * It is perfectly obvious that we must be ready to at least dictate peace terms to some sort of a German government; and it is not a matter for casual judgment to decide when that government has appeared.

BOSTON.

For Unconditional Surrender.

From The Herald.

We hope the President will break off these negotiations by proclaiming at once the keynote of the situation. This keynote is unconditional surrender. * * * Unconditional surrender is not alone the sole course for us, but it is the best for our enemies. The German people and their rulers must trust to the magnanimity of the Allies. The hour of reckoning has come, and the reckoning cannot be a matter of bargain and sale.

From The Globe.

The ink and paper of the German reply to President Wilson are new; but it is the same old handwriting. Item by item the note reveals its insincerity. The problem propounded to the President by it is twofold: how to keep the internal front in Germany disunited—German liberals against German militarists—by insistence on genuine democratic reforms, and how to avoid alienating the sympathies of the more extreme popular parties in the Entente who may be (as we were once) disposed to accept the official professions of the present German rulers at their face value.

NEW HAVEN.

From the Journal Courier.

It is a new mask through which Germany looks at her conquering enemies and the voice has been given a new modulation, but behind the mask and the voice there has been no change. There remains but the one answer to make to such a Germany. There continues to be but the one voice which can give that answer in the clear accents which cannot be misunderstood. The voice is the voice of Generalissimo Foch. The answer is, "Down on your knees, Hun, down on your knees!"

HARTFORD.

Decision for Our Allies.

From The Courant.

As to the claim that there has been a fundamental reformation of her Government, we have only the word of a German official; besides, it is not for us to give the deciding word. There are other nations that have suffered far more than we and that have borne the burden through the heat of the day.

SPRINGFIELD.

Peace Not in Sight.

From The Republican.

The outlook is not hopeful for peace.

PROVIDENCE.

War Will Be Settled by Force.

From The Journal.

We get back to the inescapable fact that the war is going to be settled by force, not by words. Marshal Foch is the chief Entente diplomat. He is conducting the only worth-while correspondence with the enemy.

BUFFALO.

Tell Berlin to go to Foch.

From The Express.

If Mr. Wilson replies at all, it should be to the effect that, if the German Government desires an armistice, it should send commissioners to the allied war councils headed by Marshal Foch.

BALTIMORE.

Giving Way Step by Step.

From The American.

There is nothing in this note actually to promote peace; the evident disposition of the German authorities is to give way step by step as they are forced to do. The United States and its allies have yet before them to follow out the prescription of force without stint or limit. And this will be followed until Germany has been brought to a full concession of ally and American demands.

PITTSBURGH.

Designed to Fool the Unwary.

From The Gazette-Times.

Germany again addresses the Government of the United States with the defiance of the unbeaten, thinly disguised by words of promise designed to fool the unwary. * * * The attitude of all the foes of the autocratic Powers must remain unaltered by this latest note from Berlin. The war must go on to victory.

CHICAGO.

Germany's Weakness Shown.

From The Tribune.

From the German response it is apparent that the ruling powers at Berlin now look complete defeat in the face. It is inevitable that Germany's representatives will concede as little as they can without running the danger of bringing the present diplomatic interchanges to a brusque close. * * * There is but one mind in America on this war—that it shall go on to victory, to the utter destruction of Prussian militarism.

ST. LOUIS.

"Wholly Hypocritical."

From The Globe-Democrat.

Whatever it means, it is wholly unsatisfactory and wholly hypocritical. It does not come to the point. It is a mere beating about the bush to gain time, to save the German face. Is it possible that a despotism so strongly established that it has shaken the world to its foundations can be overthrown by a few men whispering in a corner? Can we yet believe that the horns and the spiked tail of the beast are not hidden beneath this lamblike coat? Do we know, upon this ex parte statement, with whom we are dealing "beyond a peradventure"?

INDIANAPOLIS.

Real Object of War Lords.

From The Star.

The war lords may hope to gain time or some military advantage by making a show of doing something to meet our terms, but their real objective is to consolidate sentiment behind their lines.

WASHINGTON.

An Effort to Get Relief.

From The Post.

The communication is nothing else than an effort to obtain relief for the German Army by uttering a series of falsehoods and false promises to President Wilson. * * * There should be only one answer hereafter to anything that Germany may say: "Surrender to Foch."

CINCINNATI.

Who Constitutes German Government?

From The Enquirer.

Until this question of who really constitutes the present German Government is clearly determined it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, seriously to consider the plea that the President "will approve no demand which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the German people and with opening a way to a peace of justice."

KANSAS CITY.

President Should Go On with War.

From The Journal.

If President Wilson is well advised he will ignore this whining, blubbering, lying, and quibbling answer and go on with the war until Germany is well whipped—and confesses it.

DENVER.

Let Marshal Foch Decide.

From The Rocky Mountain News.

Neither statute nor constitution can change the heart of a people, and the German heart is still for the Kaiser, still for war as a means to an end, and still unrepentant of her crimes against humanity. We say again, let Marshal Foch decide.

DULUTH.

No More Talk Before Surrender.

From The News-Tribune.

But one answer should be made this greatest of criminals and liars. It should refer the German Government to the military council for all further parley, and refuse to receive any further communications until the armies have surrendered.

SALT LAKE CITY.

Says Hun Shows No Repentance.

From The Tribune.

Germany's latest note is not such as will justify the hope that the hour of peace has dawned. The Hun shows no remorse, no spirit of repentance.

BOISE, IDAHO.

Time for an Ultimatum.

From The Idaho Statesman.

The time seems to have come when we should tell Germany in as few words as possible that when she is ready to surrender without conditions or reservations we shall be glad to be apprised of the fact and that meanwhile further notes will not be considered nor accorded the recognition of replies.

SAN DIEGO.

Germany Must Plead Guilty.

From The Union.

It won't do. Germany must plead guilty.

LOUISVILLE.

Two Impossible Contentions.

From The Courier-Journal.

In its details and in its phrases the note is unsatisfactory, vague in parts, and controversial in others. Also it persists in the impossible contention that Germany, while the Kaiser lives at Potsdam and the Crown Prince commands in the field, should be treated as an honorable belligerent, and that a peace be concluded according to German ideas of justice. The United States and its allies will reject, with all the force and vigor of their arms, those two contentions.

ATLANTA.

Refer Them Hereafter to Foch.

From The Constitution.

Now let us refer all further communications from Germany to General Foch for his attention. If we are to have peace it will come that way.

GALVESTON.

"Altogether Unsatisfactory."

From The News.

The note is altogether unsatisfactory.

HOUSTON.

The One Step Germany Must Take.

From The Post.

The latest German note indicates the earnest German desire for peace, but not a willingness to take the one necessary step to secure peace, unconditional surrender.

FORT WORTH.

On to Berlin and Finish the Job.

From The Record.

Germany should fish or cut bait. * * * Why continue the correspondence? Why not on to Berlin and finish the job?

MEMPHIS.

What Guarantee?

From The Commercial Appeal.

Solf enters a plea of confession and avoidance. It is vacillating, nebulous, and weak. If the German fundamental law has been changed so as to give the people full representation and the right to veto, what guarantee can Germany give that so soon as the present difficulty is over those rights will not again be taken away from the people?

RALEIGH, N. C.

Better Than Previous Offers.

From The News and Observer.

The answer of the German Government to President Wilson is not satisfactory, yet it is so great an advance over anything Germany has yet proposed that it must be regarded with gratification by every one who wants to see Germany submit to terms that will mean adequate humiliation and punishment for her and will put an end to the war.

TAMPA, FLA.

Monumental Attempt at Deception.

From The Tribune.

The one admission that "the Government formed under Prince Maximilian is responsible to the Reichstag" makes Germany's "acceptance" of Mr. Wilson's terms the most monumental attempt at fooling a wise and sane people that history records.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

No Compromise.

From The Times.

American soldiers went abroad to beat the Huns and not to make a compromise with them. The nation has given its sons and its wealth to win a victory over autocracy, ruthlessness, and inhumanity, and not to compound felonies with criminals.

COLUMBIA, S. C.

No Evidence of Guarantees.

From The State.

The omission of reference to guarantees as demanded by President Wilson in his note of Oct. 14 gives to the German reply the character of deflance.

YANOWIAK,

TANK CORPS LEADER WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Maj. G. S. Patton, Who Helped to Organize That Branch, Hurt in Air Fighting.

OFFICERS OF 27TH NAMED

Capt. G. P. Nichols and Lieut. A. I. Keller of New York Guard Division Included Among Casualties.

Colonel Charles Rees Lloyd, commanding the 10th Field Artillery of the 3d Division of regulars, who has been wounded, is a former officer of the National Guard of Connecticut, who entered the regular army as a Lieutenant of Artillery in July, 1898. He was born in England forty-two years ago and was a Major of Artillery, on duty in the Hawaiian Islands, when Congress declared war. He is a graduate of the Army School of the line, and also of the Army Staff College.

Major George S. Patton of the regular army, one of the officers who organized the American Tank Corps, was wounded on Sept. 25 while directing the advance of American tanks in the Aire Valley. He is a West Point graduate of the class of 1909 and was a troop commander of the 15th Cavalry when Congress declared war. He was for a time the Commandant of the American Tank School in France. He is 33 years of age.

Captain Alan Frederick Waite, the youngest son of Judge Byron S. Waite of Yonkers, who was a member of the Federal Board of Appraisers in this city, was killed in the Argonne fighting on Sept. 29. Captain Waite was with the 372d Infantry and was promoted to be a Captain a few days before he was killed. When Congress declared war he was a law student at Columbia. He was a graduate of Dartmouth College and was 23 years of age. Judge Waite has two other sons in France, both of them officers.

Lieut. Arthur I. Keeler, Jr., a veteran of the Seventh Regiment, who went to France with the 107th Infantry of the New York Division, has been killed in action. A few weeks before he was killed he was transferred to the 12th Infantry of the 31st Guard Division. Lieutenant Keeler was the son of Arthur I. Keller, Chairman of the Society of Illustrators, of 215 West Fifty-seventh Street. Mrs. Keller said yesterday that the news of her son's death was contained in a letter from Lieutenant E. J. O'Rourke, who served with Lieutenant Keller in Company E of the 107th Regiment.

Captain George P. Nichols, commanding Company F of the 107th Infantry, has been wounded and is now in a military hospital near London. Captain Nichols is a 7th Regiment veteran, whose career in that command goes back fifteen years. He was wounded on Sept. 28, while fighting before Cambrai. In a letter to his wife, whose home is at 237 West Seventy-ninth Street, he wrote that he was wounded just as his company was going "over the top." "If you want to see some game sports," he added, "you should spend half an hour in one of these hospitals. Not a quitter in the lot." Captain Nichols is a member of the insurance brokerage firm of Frederick E. Driggs & Co. of 115 Pearl Street.

Lieut. Herbert A. Cohn, formerly of the business staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES, has been wounded in action a third time. He is now in an American base hospital.

Lieut. Gilbert Doolittle, formerly of the New York Engineers, who went to France with the 305th Regiment of Engineers of the Camp Dix Division, has been killed in action. He was a son of Dr. Charles L. Doolittle of Philadelphia and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

Captain William Walter Jones, killed in action, was a Newark lawyer who went overseas as a company commander of the 118th Infantry. He was a graduate of the New Jersey Law School, and was 26 years of age. His parents live at 188 Johnson Avenue, Newark.

Major Henry Wise Hobson, a grandson of the late Governor Henry A. Wise of Virginia, and a nephew of ex-United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise of this city, was twice wounded on Sept. 12, during the advance against the Germans in the St. Mihiel sector. Major Hobson is a graduate of Yale of the class of 1917, and managed the Yale crew in his senior year. He was trained at Fort Riley and went to France with the 356th Infantry. He is 27 years of age, and recently received the American Distinguished Service Cross.

Major William J. Bland, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford and the first American elected President of the Oxford Union Society, was killed during the St. Mihiel action of Sept. 12. He was trained at Fort Riley, and went to France with the 89th Division. He was a native of Kansas City.

Captain Alfred J. L'Heureux, teacher in the Newman High School, Hackensack, when this country entered the war, has been wounded. He was trained at Plattsburg and is with the 79th Division.

Lieut. William John Macheski, of 177 Woodruff Avenue, Brooklyn, has been wounded and gassed and is now convalescing in an American base hospital in France. He was a traveling salesman before he entered the service. He was born in Georgia and went overseas with the 128th Infantry. His wife and four-year-old daughter are living in Brooklyn. He is a graduate of the first Plattsburg camp.

Richard Bue, dead of disease in France, was one of the first Chinamen to enlist in the army after Congress declared war. He was in the Upton Division and died on Sept. 15. His home was at 25 Pell Street.

Thomas F. King, a son of Police Lieutenant James King of the Canarsie Station, has been killed while fighting with the Sixth Regiment of Engineers. Lieutenant King has received a letter from Captain F. A. McCarroll, who was his son's commander, in which that officer wrote, "Your son died with his face to the enemy. He was every inch a soldier."

Sergeant Edward F. Gries, killed on Sept. 25, was a nephew of Michael Kehoe of 620 Lafayette Street, Brooklyn. Sergeant Gries was a member of Battery D of the 19th Field Artillery.

John F. Jones, reported killed Sept. 14, is alive, according to letters which have been received by his parents, who live at 764 McDonough Street, Brooklyn. One letter from their son, which was written from an American hospital in France, is dated Sept. 20 and another Sept. 28. Private Jones went overseas as a member of Co. B of the 305th Infantry.

Corporal Harold C. Voorhees, a veteran of the 1st New York Cavalry, who went to France as a member of the 106th Machine Gun Battalion of the New York Division, has been wounded. He is 28 years of age, and was an engineer in the employ of the Edison Company when Congress declared war. He was wounded on Sept. 2. His home is at 8,678 Bay Parkway, Brooklyn.

Sergeant William J. Francis, killed, was in the New York Division. His home was at 393 Baltic Street, Brooklyn.

Ferdinand Kinzell, killed on Sept. 25, was a landscape gardener of 53 Ashland Avenue, Orange. He was in Company G of the 312th Infantry.

Henry R. Meyer, killed, was the son of Henry R. Meyer of Cedar Manor, L. I. Private Meyer, who was in the Upton Division, was killed five months ago, but the parents were informed only a few days ago.

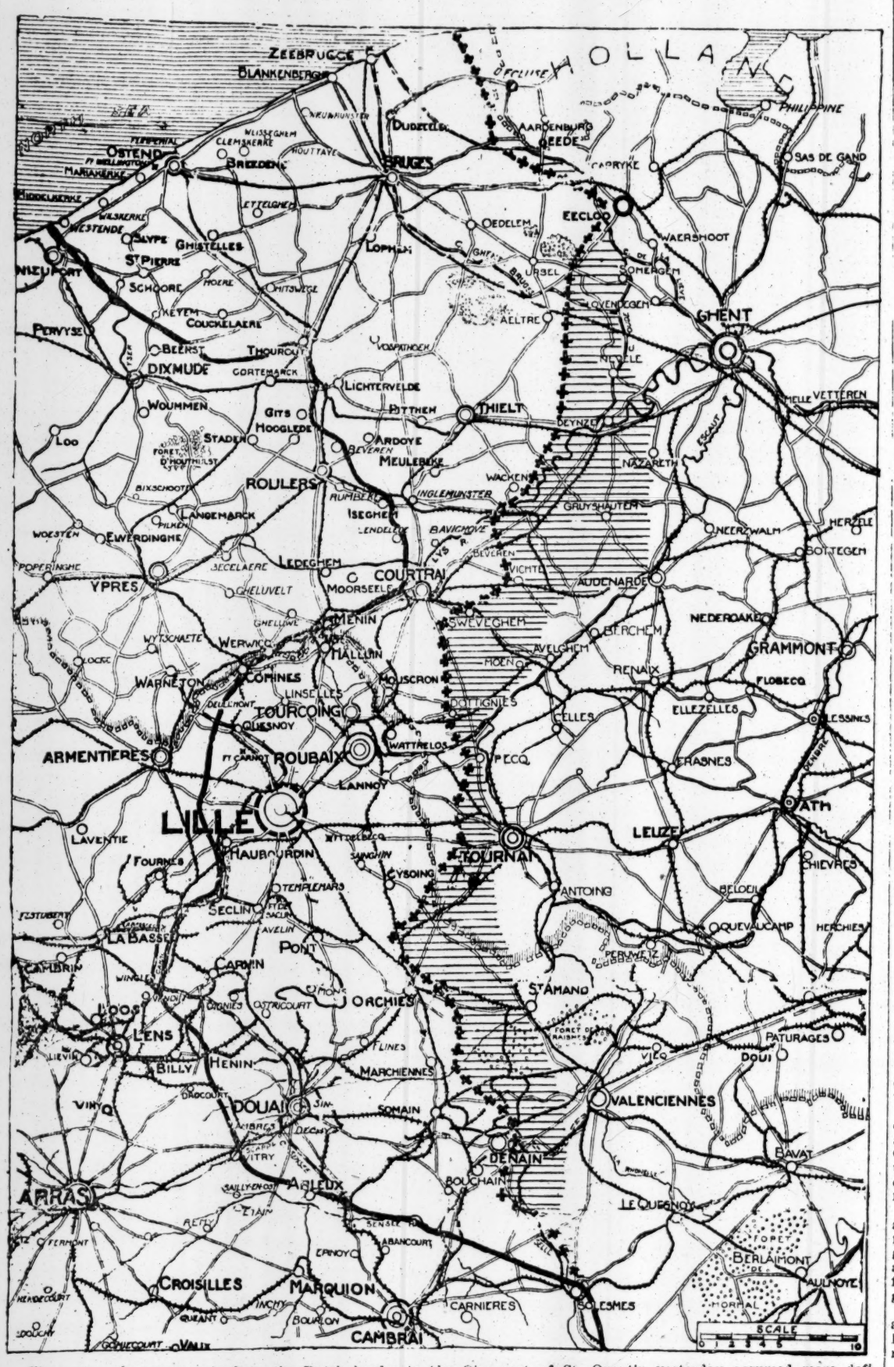
Robert Stowe Emery, killed, was the son of Mrs. J. J. Emery of 1,636 Van Wyck Avenue, Jamaica. He was in Company D of the 306th Infantry.

Frank C. Schell, wounded, is in Company L of the 301st Infantry. His home is at 549 Boud Avenue, Woodhaven, L. I.

Ralph E. Kerk, wounded, is a son of Policeman Frank Kerk of Hackensack. He is with the engineers and has a brother in the same command.

A. G. Olher, dead of wounds, formerly ran a store at 340 Quincy Street, Brooklyn. He came to the United States thirteen years ago from Germany. He was a member of Company D of the 307th Infantry.

Where Allies are Executing Their 90-mile Drive.



The series of engagements from the Dutch border to the Oise east of St. Quentin yesterday assumed more definitely the aspect of a single gigantic battle, in the course of which the Germans, though stiffening their resistance, were forced to give ground on most sectors.

The shaded areas indicate approximately the gains made yesterday by the allied armies. The line of crosses shows the battlefront as reported in the bulletins issued up to Sunday night, and the unbroken black line the front from which the present general offensive started.

CAPTAIN "EDDIE" GRANT KILLED IN FRANCE

Ex-Third Baseman of the Giants Slain in Attempt to Rescue "Lost Battalion."

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—Captain Edward Grant, former third baseman of the New York National League Club, and attached to the 307th Infantry, was killed by a shell when leading a unit to the aid of the famous "lost battalion."

The battalion was surrounded for five days in the Argonne Forest and Captain Grant was killed in one of the attempts to reach it.

"Eddie" Grant first came into athletic prominence when he was at Harvard. He played third base on the 'Varsity baseball team and was one of the best all-around college players of his day. After leaving college he played with an independent baseball team in Lynn, Mass., and in 1905 he signed with the Cleveland American League Club. He stayed in Cleveland only a short time, and was sent to the Jersey City Club of the old Eastern League. In 1907 he was purchased by the Philadelphia National League Club and played there under Manager Billy Murray until 1911, when he was traded to the Cincinnati Club.

Grant was purchased by Manager McGraw of the Giants in 1913 and played at third base and shortstop for two years. He was a handy utility player and could fill in any position on the infield. While never a heavy batsman, he was a skillful fielder and a smart base runner. Grant retired from baseball in 1915, and, until America entered the war, practiced law. He attended the first Plattsburg Camp. He is the first of the major league ball players to give his life for his country. Grant was born in Franklin, Mass., in 1883.

FRENCH GAIN IN LAON REGION.

Occupy Two Villages—Artillery Active Between the Oise and Serre.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Northwest of Laon the French today occupied the villages of Mesbrecourt and Richecourt.

The War Office reported only artillery activity between the Serre and the Oise.

The situation is without change on the Oise front.

Between the Oise and the Serre our troops resumed their progress this morning. On the right we occupied Mesbrecourt and Richecourt, taking about fifty prisoners. On the left, between Lucy and Villers-le-Sec, we gained ground despite the enemy's spirited resistance. The battle was stubborn.

On the plateaux east of Vouziers the Germans counterattacked several times with large effectives. Our troops resisted all the assaults and maintained their positions.

The day statement reads:

The night was marked by rather heavy artillery activity between the Serre and the Aisne. In Lorraine and Alsace incursions into the German lines enabled the French to take prisoners.

2,300,000 PERSONS RESCUED.

Hoover Gets Estimate of Population in Recaptured Territory.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Cablegrams received today by Herbert Hoover, Chairman of the Belgian Relief Commission, indicate that the population of reoccupied territory in northern France is more than 1,500,000 and that of reoccupied Belgium about 800,000.

SWEEP NORTHERN BELGIUM

large quantities of supplies have been captured.

In the centre of the battle area the British kept thrusting out everywhere, and gradually during the day moved forward toward the west bank of the Scheldt with increasing celerity. The Germans have taken advantage of the natural protection offered by the width of this stream and its canal and marshy borders. They are hiding behind it in shallow trenches, and are showing nervousness as the Allies approach. Back of them their artillery, the strength of which has been greatly depleted, is giving some support.

German Guns Turned on Old Owners.

The Germans have their cannon close to the roads and on them, so that when it becomes necessary to withdraw the guns they can get them away in a hurry. In their retreat the Germans have resorted to every known means to delay the bringing up of the Allies' artillery, but without effect. At the present time, however, the Allies are not hampered in the least, for the Germans were put to such hurried flight that they had little time to take their artillery and vast stores of ammunition with them. These fell into the hands of the allied troops, and the guns were promptly turned around and shells made in Germany were sent eastward as fast as they could be fired against their original owners. Infantrymen thus had a novel experience in serving artillery.

In the northern part of the battle area allied cavalry is moving ahead of the infantry, clearing out the Germans, and all the while the Allies are getting nearer and nearer to Ghent.

Belgian artillery has been moved up rapidly behind the infantry, and is pounding the enemy constantly. Shrapnel is breaking continuously on the German rear, and high explosives are reaching out for transport and men on the roads.

The fighting is going on in rain and mud. To some extent the allied troops have left behind the ground which turns into marsh, and have not been hampered greatly.

Americans Cross the Oise Canal.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN NORTHERN FRANCE, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—Cyclists have reached Haulchin, on the Scheldt, less than three miles southwest of the important city of Valenciennes. The infantry is pouring on after them.

The Oise Canal has been crossed on a wide front from Etreux southward against the heaviest resistance. [Etreux is about nine miles southeast of Le Cateau.] Here, as elsewhere all along this part of the battle area, the Germans are fighting with the realization that every foot of ground lost increases the menace to their comrades for many miles to the north and south.

American troops participating in this action crossed the canal under heavy fire. They and the British killed a great number of Germans who were attempting to hold the east bank and fought to stop them after they had gained it.

The River Selle has been crossed all along its course from a point north of Le Cateau to the Scheldt, and is being rapidly left behind.

In this region the River Ecaillon has been reached and probably crossed.

The Germans have delivered a number of counterattacks, but in every case they have broken down under the hot fire of the allied troops. The German dead are on the battlefield in great numbers.

In scores of the towns which have been won from the enemy Germans have been found hiding in cellars waiting to surrender. It is reported that not a few of them have taken advantage of the proximity of the Dutch frontier to cross to the other side, where they have been interned.

Enemy Resistance Stiffens.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 21, (Reuter.)—It is the general impression that the resistance of the enemy is everywhere stiffening. Apparently the rapidity of the British drive in Flanders and Northern France has caused the enemy to realize that the allied forces are approaching the Fatherland at a rate that, if not checked, might before long find their long range guns pitching shells across the Rhine. Therefore the enemy is pulling himself together with a view to delaying the advance to the utmost.

The British attacked again this morning east of Courtrai and made satisfactory progress. West of Tournai the enemy has grouped a great deal of artillery, which the British guns are heavily engaging in order to clear the approach to the town for the infantry.

The civil population of Flanders continues to be liberated at the rate of tens of thousands daily, now that the Germans have ceased to drive out the civilian occupants of the places they evacuate. Arrangements for ministering to the needs of these long suffering people are being admirably worked out by the armies engaged.

Haig's Report of Progress.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Reporting on the progress achieved on that part of the front under his immediate command, Field Marshal Haig telegraphs tonight:

During the night and early morning there was sharp fighting for possession of the Village of Amerval, which we captured during our attack yesterday. Determined attacks to regain the village were repulsed.

Early this morning the enemy made an unsuccessful attempt to drive in our advanced troops in the neighborhood of the Cambrai-Bavay road. We secured a few prisoners. East and north of Denain our progress has continued in the face of considerable opposition.

We are less than two miles from Valenciennes, and have reached the general line La Sentinelle-St. Amand-Hongy-Taintegnies. We hold the west bank of the Scheldt at and several miles north of Pont-à-Chin, northwest of Tournai.

The text of the British day report is as follows:

The number of prisoners captured by us in the operation yesterday north of Le Cateau now exceeds 3,000. The enemy positions along the River Selle were of great natural strength and were held with resolution.

The attack was launched by English, Scottish, and Welsh divisions at 2 o'clock in the morning, under most unfavorable weather conditions, a continuous rain rendering the advance extremely difficult. The fighting was heavy throughout the day, the enemy offering strong resistance in the villages and along the line of the railway. In overcoming this resistance great assistance was rendered at certain points by tanks, which, despite the flooded state of the river, succeeded in passing to the east bank at an early hour.

As soon as the line of the river was secured a number of bridges were rapidly constructed under a heavy fire from the hostile artillery and machine guns, enabling our guns to push forward close behind the advancing infantry, and to afford them effective support at short range.

During the evening certain points at which parties of the enemy were still resisting were cleared up by local operations, and a counterattack from the region of Romeries was beaten off with heavy losses.

North of Denain our advance troops continued to push forward in contact with the enemy, and are approaching the village of St. Amand and the line of the Scheldt north of Tournai.

Belated British Report for Sunday.

The text of last night's supplementary bulletin follows:

The advance of the army groups in Flanders, under command of King Albert, continued throughout today. After vainly trying to arrest our progress toward the western bank of the Lys, along the Deynze-Eecloo Canal, and near the Dutch frontier, the Germans have been forced to withdraw over the whole front.

The Belgian Army has established itself along the canal. Its left flank is on the Dutch frontier, and the army has occupied the important centres of Aeltre, Aeghem, Bellem, and Ursel (about ten miles west of Ghent).

French forces have thrown the enemy rear guards back over the Lys, and, notwithstanding floods brought about by the Germans, have crossed the river and established bridgeheads. One of these is between Grammene and Petegem, and another is east of Oyghem.

The Second British Army, in spite of strong resistance and the difficulties arising from destroyed communications, has crossed the Lys along the whole of its front, and advanced its right flank to the western outskirts of Deeq, in the valley of the Escaut [Schelelt]. The line now runs west of Deeq, and through St. Leger, Dottignies, Rollegnem, Vichte, Deerlyck, and Driesch.

Since Oct. 14 the Second Army has captured 6,209 prisoners and 169 guns.

Forcing Germans to Dutch Frontier.

HAVRE, Oct. 21.—The official communication from Belgian Headquarters tonight says:

We continued to press back the enemy and drove him to the east of the Canal de Derivation de la Lys, between the Dutch frontier, near Ecke, and south of Meerenure. We took 200 prisoners.

BERLIN ADMITS MORE LOSSES.

But Insists Troops Are Holding East of Le Chteau.

BERLIN, (via London,) Oct. 21.—The day bulletin from Army Headquarters notes allied progress at several points on the Flanders front, but asserts that the Germans have maintained their positions on a twelve-and-a-half-mile front east of Le Cateau.

The text of the statement follows:

In Flanders there has been violent fighting before and on the Lys sector between Ursel and Courtrai. We threw back the enemy, who had temporarily penetrated into Somegnem, by a counterattack.

On both sides of Deynze the enemy has obtained a firm footing on the west bank of the Lys. Detachments which had advanced across the river to the south of the town were for the most part taken prisoner. A nest of French soldiers remained on the east bank.

East of Courtrai the enemy has advanced beyond Deerl Yck and Sweveghem. On the heights west and southwest of Vichte we brought his attacks to a standstill. North of the Scheldt we repulsed the enemy before our lines. North of Tournai the enemy has reached the Scheldt.

South of Tournai we have been in fighting contact with the enemy on the line of St. Amand, east of Denain and on the heights east and northeast of Haspres.

On both sides of Solesmes and Le Cateau the British attacked with strong forces in order to extend their attacks launched between Le Cateau and the Oise on Oct. 17 and 18. Between Sommaing and Vertain his attacks were held up by our defensive fire on the heights west of the lowlands of the Harpies. On both sides of Solesmes the enemy, advancing beyond our front lines, was brought to a standstill.

On both sides of Le Cateau we maintained our positions in general after hard and fluctuating fighting. Here the 46th Brandenburg Reserve Division especially distinguished itself. Owing to the stubbornness of our infantry, effectively supported by the artillery, the enemy attack, which was delivered with large effectives in men and material, has thus failed on the whole of the front of twenty kilometers (twelve and a half miles,) with the exception of limited local gains of ground.

North of the Serre fresh enemy attacks were repulsed. On both sides of the Laon-Marle road we made a counterattack and cleared such parts of our lines as were still in the hands of the enemy, and also repulsed strong counterattacks.

To the west of the Aisne East Prussian battalions and the 231s Reserve Infantry Regiment also recaptured their positions by a counterattack and repulsed enemy attacks.

To the east of Vouziers the enemy attempted by means of a continuation of his attacks to extend the local successes which he obtained on Oct. 19. His attacks failed, owing chiefly to a counterattack by the 411th Infantry Regiment and the stubborn defense of the 7th Company of the 24th Bavarian Infantry Regiment.

To the east of Bantheville partial attacks delivered by Americans were repulsed.

For the rest, the fighting activity on both sides of the Meuse remained within moderate bounds.

The statement issued tonight from general headquarters says:

"Our counterattack against the heights on the Aisne on both sides of Vouziers, which have been occupied by the enemy, progresses favorably.

Buy Buy Show-Me, Not Show-Window; Compare Clothes!

WILY woman never buys by show-window, but by the show-me of quality and price, sifted, searched and scrutinized with telescopic and microscopic care.

Easy-going man too often buys by glance, by habit, by impluse, by hear-say. He saves steps, but he does not save money.

I never tire of urging comparison of Stein-Bloch Clothes with others, for I know their pre-eminence in quality and fashion is self-evident to any pair of straight-seeing eyes.

War time imposes an added burden upon every man's money. Get the most out of yours, by getting out and around. Buy clothes by show-me, not show-window!

German Army's Skill in Retreating Is Being More Heavily Taxed.

FOE SAVING MAN-POWER

A Formidable War Machine Is Still In Being to Resist the Allies' Advance.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Oct. 20.—I said a week ago that the German armies were in a grave position, but were not broken, and that, soberly viewed, militarily viewed, their situation did not seem to be as serious as the internal dislocation and distress of the enemy after the most brilliant week of the allied campaign. This opinion is confirmed, and may be repeated.

To say this is not in the least to depreciate the wonderful results secured in these thrilling days by the superior numbers and material power, the immeasurable valor and endurance, and superb leadership of the allied armies. The week that has given back to Belgium Ostend, Bruges, and Zeebrugge, and to France Lille, Roubaix, Douai, La Fère, Laon, Sissonne, and Vouziers, with scores of lesser places and hundreds of thousands of people long exiled, is indeed memorable. There is no falling off in Marshal Foch's ingenuity and force of manoeuvre, to which in the first place these results are attributable.

Victory is as certain as anything human can be. An early decision is very probable, but it cannot be denied that the German armies have held together remarkably well under a succession of terrible blows; that where they have been ordered to stand firm, as on either side of the gap of Grand Pré and on the Oise-Sambre front, they have fought with desperate courage, and that where a rapid retreat has become necessary, as in the Western Belgium and the St. Gobain-Laon corner, it has been effectively carried out.

I have heard soldiers who speak with authority say that it was a great mistake to hold on to the last moment, that a long retirement months ago would have saved heavy losses of all sorts. It may be so, though it is not clear at what time the enemy could have thus evaded our grasp. In any case, the armies have preserved their discipline under an unparalleled series of defeats, have maintained their alignment without disastrous losses, and continue to be a formidable war machine.

The question now is whether this cohesion will continue. The general reserve is exhausted, but the front is being constantly shortened, and already one army, that of von der Marwitz, has been taken out of the line. Perhaps there is another also from which a new reserve of sorts may be figured.

Can the line of the Scheldt be held long enough to permit the forces further south to fall back on Maubeuge and Hirson? Can the Americans be held back on either side of the Meuse long enough for the northern force to get back at least as far as Antwerp and Namur? The front Gheut-Valenciennes-Hirson-Stenay is not an unfavorable one, and if the German centre can be withdrawn rapidly and the Meuse pivot can be held, the Belgian rivers offer an advantage for a regular eastward retreat.

These conditions are, however, absolute; and behind them is the question whether the disappointment of the hopes raised by the request for an armistice would not provoke an explosion beyond the Rhine that would break the fighting spirit of the armies. We shall soon know this, and meanwhile we may rest confident under the strategy which has risen to the height of its immense task, and whose victories have all been won by sound reasoning and relentless energy.

Philip Gibbs's Dispatches from the British Battlefront

BRITISH ARMIES IN WIDE ASSAULT

defended their positions stubbornly. Nevertheless, the British troops broke down this opposition and have taken many hundreds of prisoners.

The German casualties have been heavy and on one part of the Third Army front 526 German dead were counted last night. The enemy made a strong counterattack against the Third Army last evening between 5 and 8 o'clock, debouching from the town of Romeries, but the British shattered it by machine gun and rifle fire, supported by field artillery.

East of Courtrai the Second Army resumed its advance this morning and is pushing forward steadily toward the Scheldt Canal and taking many little Flemish villages still inhabited by civilians crouching in their cellars while machine guns sweep their streets and shells plow up their fields.

That is a pitiful side of this fighting, and this morning around Courtrai I passed many groups of Flemish peasants with their babies and old people passing the guns, trekking with wheelbarrows from one village to another in search of greater safety or standing in the fields where the British artillery was just getting into action and where new shell craters should have warned them away if they had had more knowledge of war.

I went into Courtrai itself this morning. It has now been freed from the enemy, but it was not wholly a joyous entry like that into Lille or Bruges or other towns where civilian crowds have greeted any Englishman with cheers or embraces.

The people here, 25,000 to 30,000 of them, have suffered too much to have any complete reaction, yet some of them called out "Good morning," and all their men doffed their hats to us, but with gravity and a kind of dullness like people who had long been stunned by misery.

I could not wonder at that. I was chilled by the sinister spirit of this old city, so beautiful in time of peace, with its tall belfry of St. Martin's Church high above its gabled houses and the Flemish Town Hall and broad market place, where six centuries ago English merchants came to buy their cloth from Flemish burghers, and where after the battle of spurs many knights with broken armor and tattered plumes were brought in as prisoners of Flemish craftsmen who had fought against them for their liberties.

Through many centuries of history Courtrai has been a famous town in Flanders with a rich trade in cloth and wool, and from the windows of houses still standing silken banners were hung to welcome Kings like the fourth Edward of England or on the last days of the Guilds.

I remembered these things today when I went into the city across the canal with broken bridges where two days ago there was bloody fighting and where today new pits were dug by German shells, and when I went into the grand place and saw people standing in their doorways or hurrying to their vaults to escape from shell fire, I thought of these contrasts of history.

Fear was still on the faces of men and women and the remembrance of frightful days, only one day old.

I have already told how to the end of last week the British troops were fighting on one side of the canal which cuts off part of the town, while the enemy was strong in the other and larger part beyond the canal, where 25,000 people or more were shut up with them.

That lasted until Friday night, with a roar of gunfire from gardens and courtyards and neighboring fields and an incessant sweep of machine-gun fire down the streets leading to the canal side.

Late on Friday night this fire slackened off, and on Saturday some of the British patrols pushed across the river and were met by civilians, who said that the Germans were on their way back.

Seven of the British soldiers went forward alone and were the first to enter the Grande Place, and they took the first welcome of the people, who then were full of enthusiasm and joy at their liberation. They had suffered terrible things, but they thought they were safe now.

For several days while the fighting lasted they had lived in their cellars, men, women, and children herded together in the dark and narrow vaults, waiting there, sleeping there, eating there, until the air became foul.

Some people, eager to escape from this confinement, went up into the streets and were killed and wounded; others stayed below, with the cry of shells overhead and the frightful explosions shaking the earth about them. When at last that had passed and the Germans had left, they came up into the fresh air to greet the British troops.

But a new phase of fear began Saturday. The enemy was still close about Courtrai with his guns and men and, not respecting the town, full of women and children, as he had done in Lille and Turcoing and Bruges and other towns which he had been forced to deliver, he opened a bombbardment of the city. He fired all through Saturday and all yesterday, and when I went in there today he had not ceased.

I had hardly reached the Grande Place before a big shell arrived, bursting somewhere in the streets with a frightful crash, and this was followed by other high velocities.

The German bombardment has damaged many houses, pierced holes in many walls and roofs, and scarred the noble old Church of St. Martin and broken most of the windows, but so far no great ruin has been made, and the town is still standing with these wounds, and I hope the enemy will desist from this useless brutality, which is only harmful to noncombatants, as the British have no soldiers in the city and all their men are beyond it and around it.

Most of the inhabitants speak only Flemish, but I had a conversation with one man who speaks good French. I have heard many passionate things said by people who have undergone four years of oppression under German rule, but never have I seen so much fire or passion as was in this man's eyes or heard a voice so vibrant with it.

He tried to check his emotion, but at every sentence his voice rose and thrilled, and he made a terrible denunciation of the German race as he had seen it in Courtrai.

It was the same story as in other towns of France and Belgium. Courtrai had been robbed of all its copper and all its wool down to the mattresses of the beds, and the enemy had loaded it with requisitions and fines and destroyed all its industrial machinery for clothmaking. They did not take all the machines away. They took hammers and broke them to bits.

German officers were arrogant and brutal to people even who had received them with courtesy, hiding their hatred and coercing themselves to scrupulous politeness. They robbed houses of their furniture and valuables. They seized food sent for the citizens by the International Relief Committee. They were abominable with women.

The last commandant of Courtrai was von Richthofen, father of the famous German aviator, and he was a hard man and kept the city under iron rule. "But that, thank God, is finished now," said my informant. As he spoke a monstrous shell came overhead, but he took no notice of it, and said:

"All that is finished. We are safe from the enemy's evil ways at last."

I confess that I was not so sure of it, hearing those beastly crashes in Courtrai.

I found one old English lady in the city, or rather an Irish lady, named Miss Mary Cunningham. She is over 70 and has lived in Courtrai for twelve years, at first in well-to-do circumstances, her father being a flax spinner, but afterward she was obliged to earn her living by teaching French and English to Flemish pupils.

Even that failed here after awhile, because English and French did not seem much good to people surrounded by Germans. So Miss Cunningham is poor now and lives in a tiny house opposite the Cathedral, with a cooking stove in her parlor and not much to cook on it, poor soul! But she received us as a great lady of the old school with the most beautiful dignity, undisturbed by the noises without, ominous crashes close at hand and sounds of breaking glass. She made only one remark showing that she noticed these things.

"Do you mind shutting the door?" she said. "I don't like those bombs coming in."

I noticed that the bombs, as she called the German shells, had already broken the front part of her little parlor, and she was very close to the danger point of hostile shell fire, ranged by the belfry of Courtrai. She did not say much about the war except when she spoke of the Germans as highway robbers, but her mind went back to Ireland and old friends there and her old people.

Her grandmother was a Miss Kimmins, sister of President Wilson's great-grandmother. She told us that as a passing thought, but I was startled by her words and thought how queer it was that I should be sitting with President Wilson's cousin in a little front parlor of Courtrai, with the Germans not far away, and under their shellfire.

I do not know President Wilson, but I should be glad if he could hear of this old lady, so brave, so gracious in her poverty and danger, with such a gallant spirit.

Courtrai was sinister today, and I hated the sight of the women and children there still in grave danger. They were going to their cellars again as I left, and the streets were nearly empty and not a soul passed through the public gardens, where the trees have shed many of their leaves, so that the ground is carpeted with red foliage.

It has Old World beauty, this city, and perhaps in a day or two it will be beyond the range of hostile guns, so that there will be a spirit of peace there again. The British are thrusting the enemy further away, and other cities are awaiting liberation with such pent-up emotion as we found in Lille.

Evacuation Arranged Before Note of Oct. 12, Prisoners Tell Americans.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 21, (Associated Press.)—When the German Government on Oct. 12 told President Wilson that it was ready to comply with the proposition of the President concerning evacuation, the German Army had completed arrangements for a withdrawal from France. This assertion is made by German prisoners captured by the Americans Sunday in the region of Grand Pré.

The prisoners agreed that the German command had started making estimates of the transportation facilities required in the evacuation of French territory.

Canadian General Killed by Sniper.

LONDON, Oct. 21, (via Montreal.)—Major Gen. L. J. Lipsett, C. B., C. M. He came overseas as a brigade commander in the first Canadian contingent, later being transferred to the 4d Division.

Militants Seized at Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Three militants of the Woman's party were arrested today when they undertook to make a demonstration in front of the Capitol. As the Senate was in session only a few minutes, they were quickly released, and with other banner bearers they spent several hours in front of the Senate office building. There crowds destroyed most of the banners.

Trading a Fox Skin

THIS lucky Indian has a fine silver fox for which he is trying to get the best price the trader will pay. He will probably spend the money for a phonograph, or a fine new gun, adding a pair of checked trousers and a plaid shawl for his squaw.

The post trader is as much pleased as the Indian. The fur trader likes to have a fine collection of skins to turn in, as this indicates the prosperity of his post and adds to his own profits. The next sale of this silver fox will probably be at the New York store, where again its unusual beauty will command the admiration of both the seller and the purchaser.

EXHIBIT CAPTURED U-BOAT

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Paris, in a glow of patriotic fervor, which not even a drizzling rain could lessen, celebrated by a veritable fête the opening of the subscription lists for the Fourth French War Loan and the calling up of the 1920 class of recruits for the armies.

In preparation for the festival the Champs Elysées, the Place de la Concorde, and the Gardens of the Tuileries during the past day or two have been transformed into a colossal museum of war trophies. More than 500 captured German guns, from great 10-inchers down to humble machine guns, have been parked in the Place de la Concorde, where the public has been allowed every opportunity to inspect them at close range, operate their elevating gear, and play at sighting them.

Twenty German airplanes, including Gothas, Fokkers, and other types, line the terrace of the Tuileries and look down on a captured German tank, which has a position of honor near the central fountain. In the gardens further back are German sausage balloons and dozens of other guns, while hundreds of foe trench helmets adorn the spikes of the various iron fences. An endless series of other trophies lines the greensward of the Champs Elysées.

But the prize of the whole exhibition is a captured German submarine, which is anchored off the Concorde Bridge, facing the Chamber of Deputies. This attracted an enormous crowd from 7 o'clock in the morning until after nightfall.

The program of the festival began with an athletic meeting in the Tuileries Gardens, in which Georges Carpentier, the boxing champion, was the most eagerly looked for competitor. Carpentier had the bad luck to be beaten in a sprint by an Italian champion, Orobona.

Americans in Big Parade.

In the Place outside, delegation after delegation from the naval schools, the Polytechnic, St. Cyr, and other French military training institutions, made pilgrimages to the statue of Lille and that of Strassburg, which stands next to it. When strong detachments of Boy Scouts arrived they passed in review before General Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement, who presented to them a flag of honor. Soon after midday a great procession of troops, representative of all the allied nations, formed on the Place des Invalides, in the shadow of the great dome under which Napoleon's ashes lie, to do honor to their young comrades of the 1920 class, who will shortly shoulder their rifles and march to the defense of their motherland. The whole plan of the great procession was typical of the French instinct for patriotic manifestations.

The first to move off was a detachment of troops of the various Allied nations. These marched in alphabetical order, with the Americans, headed by the flag of their infantry regiment, leading the way. Next came the Belgians, who received an enormous welcome in view of last week's victory, followed by Brazilians, impeccably gloved, British, Greeks straight from Macedonia, Italian Arditi, the dare devils of King Victor's army, every man with poniard between his teeth, Poles, Portuguese, Serbs who looked very familiar in their horizon blue uniforms, and lastly the men from the Twenty-third Czechslovak Regiment, proud of their newly won nationality.

France sent into the procession a strong detachment of her 1919 class who are now helping to drive the Germans back to the Rhine.

Behind their immediate predecessors, fittingly enough, came the representatives of the new class, who mostly wore uniforms of the various societies for military preparation. The rear was brought up by lads who will form part of the next classes and Boy Scouts, ranging from boys of fifteen and sixteen years down to lads of five or six; and lastly five French tanks, fresh from the front, which excited enormous cheers.

Over the river and up the Grand Boulevard the great procession swung along, amid deafening cheers from the enormous crowds which lined the streets in spite of the pouring rain. The rendezvous was the Hotel de Ville, where the President of the Republic and Father Victory, as everybody now calls Clemenceau, awaited them to pass the new class in review.

President Poincaré, who was accompanied by most of the Ministers and allied Ambassadors, watched the march past with deep interest.

Immediately after the procession had passed the President and members of the Government made their way to a specially erected stand in front of the Hotel de Ville, where they formally subscribed for substantial amounts of the new war loan, which, after all, was the main object of the day's festival. In order to give the loan a good send-off, every banking institution in Paris opened especially today, and many of them were besieged by people anxious to be among the first to offer their money to help press home the victory.

The bad weather undoubtedly had a detrimental effect on the total of the first day's subscriptions, but this effect will be only momentary. France at present holds an enormous amount of surplus capital which has vainly been seeking investment for many months. The terms of the new loan, which, although nominally a 4 per cent. issue, really yields very nearly 5¾ per cent., from the fact that the issue price is 70.80 francs per 100-franc bond, are admittedly extremely attractive.

Like last year's loan, no limit has been placed on the amount to be issued, while the facts that the minimum amount that may be subscribed is as low as $20, and that the subscriptions may be paid by installments between now and April next, enable everybody to participate.

Apart from these attractive features, the wave of patriotism and the sense of the certainty of victory is so universally strong among all classes that experts are confidently predicting that the total of the new loan, which will remain open to subscription until Nov. 24, will be a revelation to the whole world.

FRENCH AT DANUBE, NEARING AUSTRIA

the field. All five nationalities that make up the allied army here agree that General Franchet d'Esperey acted with clear-sightedness, decision, and wisdom in imposing upon the Bulgarian envoys a purely military capitulation, from which all the delicate political questions that must arise in connection with the conclusion of a final treaty of peace with Bulgaria were rigidly excluded.

The allied commander in chief was confronted with the following position: His troops—and above all, the Serbs, who had the strongest personal interest in the defeat of the Bulgars—were advancing in an extraordinary burst of irresistible enthusiasm. If Franchet d'Esperey had consented, as the Bulgars wished, to a peace conference, and if, afterward, these negotiations thus begun had had to be broken off, it would have been hard again to rouse the allied troops to such ardor. He determined, therefore, not to stop advancing until he could give his armies definite news that Bulgaria had surrendered.

I have heard on good authority that America, whose Consular representative at Sofia had done much to convince the Bulgars of the wisdom of recognizing their inevitable defeat, would not have been hostile to the suggestion of a peace conference in Rome, but that the French insistence on military capitulation first, leaving political conditions of the Bulgarian submission to be settled later, prevailed with the Allies as a whole. There was allowed no discussion of the terms of surrender.

Bulgar Envoys Received.

The Bulgars first sent a parliamentaire to the British lines on Thursday, Sept. 26, and envoys presented themselves in our Strumnitza sector on Saturday the 28th. They were passed back through a brigade divisional corps and general headquarters to the French general headquarters in Saloniki. There were three of them, accompanied by the American Consul in Sofia. One was General Loukof, the youngest Bulgarian army commander, representing the military Government; the other plenipotentiary was Andre Liaptcheff, Finance Minister, representing the civil Government; the third Bulgar, Radeff, came as an expert adviser. He is considered the most astute man in his country.

The envoys were lodged in a house near the Serbian Crown Prince's palace. Here they made no secret of the hopeless state of their country.

"Look at this coat," said Radeff, to the French Colonel, escorting him. "It cost 800 francs in Sofia today. In peace time it might have been worth forty."

The envoys met General Franchet d'Esperey Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. They received simply a list of military terms of surrender. These, originally three in number, were afterward increased to seven. They have been published. The Bulgars were told they had till evening to accept them. They were left alone with the schedule of conditions, and at 5 o'clock met the French Commander in Chief again. There was a final meeting at 10:30, and just before midnight on Sept. 29 the convention was signed. The Bulgarian envoys left the next afternoon on the return journey. It was significant that Radeff, who was once a great figure in the ranks of the revolutionary liberation movement in Macedonia against the Turk, was asked if he would like to meet one of his old Serbian colleagues in that work. He had no wish to face the meeting.

The extraordinary ignorance as to the real facts of the war in which the German General Staff has contrived to keep the troops of its allies is instanced by the positiveness with which quite intelligent Bulgarian prisoners maintain that Paris is in the hands of the Germans, and that the German invading army is besieging London. Uskub was officially beflagged some time ago, they say, for the Kaiser's entry into Paris. The sudden disastrous turn which events on their own front have taken leaves them consequently in a state of bewilderment.

It is not only much of invaded Serbia that has been freed from the devastating grasp of the Bulgar, but a great tract of Greek territory in Eastern Macedonia too. This victory has been the crowning triumph of Venizelos's great career as a statesman. He has justified himself and his far-sighted policy even to those obstinately blind fellow-countrymen of his who opposed him and clung to their German-hypnotized King Constantine.

Venizelos has visited Serres, the principal Greek town which the Allies have released. He was accompanied by General Fairholme, British Military Attaché in Athens. They were at Serres when the last of the retiring Bulgars were only five miles from the town, and this is what they found:

Out of the original 24,000 inhabitants no fewer than 5,000 have died, mostly of starvation, for the Bulgars would not allow them to till the ground, lest the British on the Struma should advance and seize the crops. Thirteen thousand have been deported at various times for forced labor in Bulgaria. Only 6,000 half-starved survivors remain. At Kavalla, they say, 17,000 out of 40,000 inhabitants died under Bulgar rule.

The gallant fighting of the Greek rank and file has aroused the admiration of all the Allies. A new division, drawn from the once disaffected Peloponnesus and thrown into the attack while its training was yet incomplete, covered itself with distinction.

Transport Service Taxed.

In giving well-earned glory to the fighting men who have won this great victory in the Balkans it should not be forgotten how much is due to the hard-working transport services which helped to procure it. These are still laboring to the limit of their power to keep the rapidly advancing allied forces supplied with food and ammunition. The length of the lines of communication has increased enormously at a bound. The Bulgars blew up railway bridges as they fell back and the Allies have to depend on the roads, which are in terrible condition owing to heavy and constant rain.

Meanwhile the enemy, with an intact railway system behind him, is falling back on to his own empty dumps and destroying everything he leaves behind that might be of use to the Allies. These next weeks will strain the supply and transport services as they have never, even here, been strained before.

GERMAN ARMY LEADERS AT ODDS

HINDENBURG WITH CABINET

Commander in Chief Says That It Is Necessary to Seek the Best Terms Possible.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 21.—Information comes from Germany to the effect that Ludendorff takes the viewpoint that an army which is carrying out a necessary retreat in good order cannot by any means be regarded as a beaten army. He told the Government he was certain that on a new line the army would be in such a favorable position that it would be able to influence events, and that there was no reason to regard the military situation as one which dictated surrender.

There appears to be good foundation for the belief that Hindenburg and Ludendorff are at variance. Hindenburg, it is believed, fully approved the peace move, and is convinced of the necessity of making the best peace posible now.

At first Ludendorff gave only half-hearted support to this view, and he has now taken up the attitude referred to. He is said to be playing a strong hand, with considerable military support and the threat of a coup d'état, with Hindenburg as rather a weak opponent. "The strong German Army will winter in its new lines. The country can easily hold out until Spring, when things may happen," is the Ludendorff view.

Despite the failure of his big March-July military gamble, and it was very largely his, he still appears to be inclined to place everything on a hazard again. This attitude finds support in flaming appeals issued by various organizations, from the Navy League to the Socialist trade unions, all of which condemn peace at any price.

TABULATE GERMANY'S DEBT TO BELGIUM

Bill Which King Albert's Government Will Render to Berlin Nearly $2,000,000,000.

LONDON, Oct. 21. (Via Montreal.)—Some of the items which figure on Germany's bill in Belgium are given as follows from an official Belgian source:

Local contributions and fines levied by Germany on Belgium in 1914—£8,000,000.

War contributions from November, 1914, to October, 1916—£38,400,000.

War contributions, seven months, to May, 1918—£23,000,000.

War contributions from May, 1917, to May, 1918—£28,000,000.

War contributions from June to October of the current year—£15,000,000.

Raw materials and machinery taken by the Germans were reckoned by them in January, 1915, at £80,000,000. The damage to December, 1914, estimated by the North German Gazette, amounted to £200,000,000. This makes a grand total of £384,200,000.

These items do not include material destruction and requisitions since January, 1915, which alone must be reckoned at several hundred million pounds.

During the Winter of 1916, Belgian workingmen to the number of 1,750,000 were reported to Germany. The future production of these men was thus totally lost to their country.

not entirely eliminated by the brief preparatory shelling. Despite every effort of the Germans, however, the Americans steadily forced their way ahead, driving the enemy before them, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon were in complete possession of the wood.

Hill 299 fell almost simultaneously with the Bois de Rappe, which outflanked it. The Germans consequently retired hastily from the height when it appeared that the Americans had been successful in forcing their passage through the wood, but 150 Germans were taken prisoner.

Another minor success for the Americans was the expulsion of the enemy from his last positions in Bantheville Wood. He had hung on to the northern edges of this machine gun stronghold, from which it was possible to direct a harassing enfilading fire.

It was the purpose of the German command to dispute every foot of the American advance on the line west of the Meuse and to inflict the heaviest possible losses, German prisoners captured Sunday declared. They added that the Americans in taking over this sector would find more formidable opposition than any place else on the front and would suffer accordingly.

A strong German defense was necessary on this sector, they said, because it was necessary to stand firm while the German lines northward to the North Sea were being readjusted.

Prisoners taken today said they believed peace would come soon.

There was considerable enemy troop movement today on both sides of the Meuse.

GAINS REPORTED BY PERSHING

More Than 250 Germans Captured in Yesterday's Fighting.

"American Official Communiqué, No. 160—Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Oct. 21, 1918:

"In the course of stubborn fighting north of Verdun we have advanced our lines at several points. This morning our troops took Hill 297 and drove the enemy from the Bois des Rappes, capturing in this operation six officers, 255 men and a number of machine guns. Further west they have improved their positions on the northern edge of the Bois de Bantheville and have made progress northeast of St. Juvin. East of the Meuse the enemy violently bombarded our positions in the Bois Caures."

"Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Oct. 20.

"West of the Meuse our troops have continued their pressure on the enemy. East of Bantheville in the course of local fighting in the Bois des Rappes they captured over 100 prisoners. On the entire front north of Verdun there has been heavy artillery and machine gun fire. Several counterattacks have been thrown back with heavy losses to the enemy.

"During the heavy fighting of the last week north of Verdun we have drawn from other parts of the western front a constantly increasing number of German divisions which are bitterly contesting every foot against our strong attacks in order to secure the retreat of the German Army, the position of which has been compromised by the attacks from the south and west."

HAIG PRAISES OUR TROOPS.

"Irresistible" in 13-Mile Advance in Six Days East of Le Cateau.

WITH THE ANGLO-AMERICAN FORCES EAST OF LE CATEAU, Oct. 20.—(Associated Press.)—American forces fighting beside the British armies have made a total advance of thirteen miles in the last six days of battle in this sector.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, Commander in Chief of the British Armies in France, has sent the following letter to the General commanding the American troops:

I wish to express to you personally, and to all officers and soldiers serving under you, my warm appreciation of the very valuable assistance and gallant services rendered throught the operations of the Fourth British Army.

Called upon to attack positions of the greatest strength held by a determined enemy, all ranks of the Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth Divisions under your command have displayed an energy, courage and determination in attack which has proved irresistible.

It does not need me to tell you that under heavy fighting of the last three weeks you have earned the lasting esteem and admiration of your British comrades in the army whose successes you have so nobly shared.

HUGE MINE BARRAGE BUILT BY OUR NAVY

Many Other Anti-U-Boat Activities by Our Sea Forces Told by Secretary Roosevelt.

OIL PIPE ACROSS SCOTLAND

Score of Aviation Bases Protect the French Coast—Flotilla of Chasers in the Adriatic.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Construction of the North Sea mine barrage against submarines, laying of an oil pipe line across Scotland, establishment of naval aviation stations from the Spanish border to the English Channel, and other details of the work of the American Navy in foreign waters were given to the public today by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who recently returned from a visit to Europe.

"The American people seem to have very little idea of the extent of our naval activities abroad," said Secretary Roosevelt. "The tendency is to think merely of the convoying and patrol work our destroyers and other vessels are doing and the presence of our battleships with the British fleet. But important as this is, it is only a part of our activities, and there are dozens of other things of importance of which little has been said."

The building of the northern mine barrage was one of the biggest things ever accomplished in ordnance work, Mr. Roosevelt said. In turning out material for it a number of plants in this country were kept busy for months. Several American bases were established on the British coast to lay and handle the mines. To save haulage of oil, the American Navy has undertaken to construct a pipe line across Scotland.

"All the way from the Spanish border clear around to the English Channel," said Mr. Roosevelt, "we have established aviation stations so spaced that the entire coast line is covered by seaplanes and dirigibles. These stations were built almost entirely by our sailors. At each station there is an average of from 200 to 300 men. This aviation force and our patrol vessels have been doing such splendid work that for the last six months there have been practically no sinkings within fifty miles of the French coast. We hope to extend this patrol zone to a hundred miles."

In northern France in co-operation with the British and Belgians, Secretary Roosevelt said, there had been established what is known as the northern bombing group, composed of a number of aviation units which did much to prevent the Germans from again using Zeebrugge and Ostend as submarine bases.

An American naval force co-operating with the British at Gibraltar is patrolling the Atlantic in that vicinity and is acting as convoy to vessels going to and from Italy, Greece and Egypt. There is a flying school with several naval aviation units on duty in Italy, while in the Adriatic is a large group of submarine chasers.

Each naval base has its hospital, and in Scotland an entire watering place has been taken over by the Americans for use as a hospital.

"Conditions have vastly improved from what they were last year," said the Secretary in refering to the submarine menace, "but we cannot afford to let up in our activities for one single second. In regard to the respect which U-boats have shown for international law, you have but to ask any officer or man in our own or in the British or French navies. They will tell you of, and prove to you, great numbers of actual cases where the Hun has violated every rule and every principle of humanity."

BAIRNSFATHER GOES HOME.

Trench Artist Obliged by Wound to Give Up His Tour.

Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, the British artist of the trenches, who has been stopping at the Hotel Astor for the last two weeks, has been forced to abandon his visit to Australia and will return to England because of ill-health.

When he was wounded at Ypres in 1915, the Captain suffered severely from shell shock that burst the drum of his left ear. Since his arrival in New York Captain Bairnsfather has experienced trouble with this ear, becoming almost deaf in the last few days. He consulted a specialist, who advised him to return to England for treatment.

MLLE. DE VALLETTE KILLED BY GRENADE

Was Head of American Press Section in Paris—Miss Elizabeth Thornton Wounded.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Mlle. de Vallette, head of the American Section of the Press Department of the Foreign Office, was killed instantly Saturday when a hand grenade which she picked up in reoccupied territory near the front exploded. She had been conducting a party of American women on a visit to the reoccupied territory.

Miss Elizabeth Shirley Thornton of The New Republic of New York was wounded and a French officer with the party was injured seriously, an arm being blown off. Miss Thornton, who was struck in the face and other parts of the body by bits of grenade, was taken to a hospital near the front. The officer had warned the members of the party to touch nothing.

Among the American women was Miss Cecil Dorrian of Newark, N. J., who was not hurt. Mlle. de Vallette had been most useful to American women writers visiting France.

New Loans to France and Italy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—New credits of $200,000,000 for Italy and $100,000,000 for France were established today by the Treasury, making the total loans to Italy $1,090,000,000 and to France $2,165,000,000. For all the allies American loans amount to $7,520,476,666.

American troops with heavy artillery have been observed in this neighborhood.

GAFFNEY UP ON NEW CHARGE

Must Answer In Court for Escape from the Tombs.

An additional penalty may be added today to the 20-year sentence already imposed upon Vincent Gaffney, who will be arraigned in General Sessions to answer a felony indictment based on his escape from the Tombs. Sheriff Knott had arranged to hurry Gaffney to Sing Sing yesterday, but was ordered by the court to produce the prisoner under the indictment. Gaffney was again locked up in the Tombs last night.

District Attorney Swann questioned Gaffney concerning his statement to Inspector Cray, in which he said a North Bergen policeman had passed a revolver to him through the cell door a few minutes before the New York detectives arrived to bring him here. Mr. Swann wrote a letter to Governor Edge of New Jersey, requesting him to order an investigation.

GIVE A RECITAL OF DUETS.

Maria Gimbrere, Soprano, and Gerard Duberta, Baritone, Heard.

Maria Gimbrère, soprano, born in Holland of French descent, and Gerard Duberta, a fine baritone singer, also native there and trained by the teachers Wullner and Van Rooy, made a joint first appearance at Carnegie Hall last night in a recital of duets, a constant blending of voices in music largely unfamiliar. With Kurt Schindler and Pietro Yon at the piano and organ, they gave Latin hymns of Sweelinck and the old Netherland school.

They added later pieces in French and English from Tschaikovsky, Rubinstein, Cornelius and Sinding, Kjerulf, Henschel, Schindler, and Cadman. Their interpretations laid stress on the emotional content of these songs, and their English was clear enough to reveal a foreign accent, as is inevitable in the present effort of many European artists to meet American audiences halfway at least in the matter of singing our language.

Hartridge Whipp, a baritone from the West, who established his claim to a New York hearing last season, reappeared last night in Aeolian Hall. He sang airs of Handel and Bach, Massenet's legend from the "Jongleur," and a cycle "Of Mountain and Fiord," by Grieg. Among a half dozen by present composers, Walter Kramer's "We Two" was encored.

SWISS NIP GERMAN PLOT.

Terrorism for Italy Carried on from Kaiser's Consulate.

ZURICH, Oct. 21, (British Wireless Service.)—Linot Andrei, a deserter from the Italian Army, and Rudolf Engelemann, a German consular agent, have been found guilty in the Swiss courts of having in their possession bombs, infernal machines, and revolutionary pamphlets for use in Italy. Engelemann was sentenced to two and a half years' imprisonment, to pay a fine of 5,000 francs, and expulsion from Switzerland for life. Andrei received a sentence of twenty months in prison, a fine of 1,000 francs, and expulsion.

It was brought out at the trial that the Italian had conducted what was ostensibly a green grocer's shop in Zurich. The shop, however, was headquarters for the "Terrorist section" of the German Foreign Office. Bombs, revolvers, and pamphlets found in the shop were traced to Engelemann's bureau in the German Consulate at Zurich.

The revolutionary pamphlets found in the shop were printed at the office of La Paix in Berlin. La Paix is a pacifist organ directed by Herr Erzberger, the German Centrist leader, recently appointed Minister Without Portfolio in the Cabinet of Prince Maximilian.

INFLUENZA SHOWS A DECREASE IN CITY

STIR LANDLORDS FOR HEAT

Sanitary Police Investigating Complaints of Tenants with Full Support of Mayor Hylan.

There was a decrease of 908 in the number of new cases of Spanish influenza reported yesterday as against the report of the preceding twenty-four hours, and a decrease of 20 in pneumonia cases; a decrease of 91 in deaths from influenza and a decrease of 3 in pneumonia deaths. The Health Department's figures for eight days follow:

	New Cases.		Deaths.
	Inf.	Pneu.	Inf.	Pneu.
Oct. 14	4,217	400	222	235
Oct. 15	4,025	479	322	356
Oct. 16	5,113	585	317	316
Oct. 17	4,733	646	336	287
Oct. 18	4,930	588	383	313
Oct. 19	4,875	645	408	358
Oct. 20	4,570	675	405	241
Oct. 21	3,662	314	655	258
Total	37,025	4,332	3,048	2,324

Members of the medical profession hold that there are still a large number of unreported cases, and that the only way to approximate actual conditions is by a study of death statistics which are accurate. The system employed by Dr. E. H. L. Corwin, executive secretary of the Public Health Committee of the Academy of Medicine, is based on the fact that at army camps reports show that 3 per cent. of those afflicted die. Dr. Corwin took the statistics in this city for the week of Oct. 12, when there were 2,121 deaths, and the week of Oct. 19, with 4,217, and by multiplying the total by thirty-three he got approximately 209,000 new cases on Oct. 19.

Dr. Copeland is giving personal care to affairs in Richmond, where the epidemic is said to have lowered the working efficiency in the three shipyards there by 40 per cent. Borough President Van Name, after receipt of a bulletin from the United States Shipping Board yesterday, announced that very careful precautions are to be taken to protect shipworkers of Staten Island from the Spanish influenza scourge. Committees have been appointed to look into conditions in the shipyards, to do educational work among the workers, and to obtain from them pledges to avoid all public gatherings and to take the necessary precautions to prevent the spread of the disease. The services of each worker are to be obtained as an unofficial member of the Sanitary Squad to see also that others observe the rules of sanitation.

The Public Health Committee of the Academy of Medicine, at its meeting yesterday, called upon Governor Whitman to appoint a commission to study the epidemic in the hope of discovering means by which future epidemics might be averted or controlled. The committee also recommended that no surgical operations be performed at this time unless urgent. A call was also issued to the public and to physicians by the academy requesting that as few nurses as possible be employed, especially in one case, and to dismiss them as soon as a family is able to take care of its own sick. The academy also recommends that nurses be engaged on a part-time system instead of for their full time. If this is followed nurses will be able to look after other patients in their off times.

The entire sanitary police of the Health Department went out yesterday to investigate the action of certain landlords who have refused to furnish heat to tenants. The Mayor told Dr. Copeland that he indorsed his action and that he could depend upon the fullest co-operation from the other city departments. The Mayor sent a letter to Commissioner Enright telling him to give co-operation and added: "The negligence on the part of landlords to furnish heat, to my mind, has caused a great deal of illness." No arrests or summons were served yesterday, but the landlords were warned.

The Henry Street Settlement sent out yesterday a reply to a letter written by Louis H. Frank, Superintendent of Beth Israel Hospital, to Commissioner Copeland suggesting that the city be districted and that all nurses be mobilized. The statement calls attention to the fact that nurses are mobilized through the Nurses' Emergency Council, which was organized by Commissioner Copeland. The Henry Street Settlement now has 189 nurses and is enrolling more daily. The statement said:

"Sunday night the experiment was made in two sections of the city of having nurses go on duty at 5 o'clock and work until midnight, going from home to home as during the day. Automobiles were provided to convey these nurses, the one used uptown belonging to Jacob H. Schiff and that used in the downtown section, lent by Miss Alice Lewisohn. Whenever a doctor pronounces the need for nursing care, families are urged to call Orchard 8200 at once that a visiting nurse may call upon the case."

Hospital conditions have improved with the increase in the enrollment of nurses and Dr. Copeland said yesterday that it was intended to close the emergency hospital in the Municipal Lodging House, though that institution will be held in readiness if the disease should spread. The opening of Polyclinic as a city hospital and the opening of additional beds in Willard Parker Hospital have made it possible to close the Municipal Lodging House.

CASES DROP IN ARMY CAMPS.

Lowest Figures Reported Yesterday Since Epidemic Became General.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Improvement in the influenza situation in six States was shown by reports received today by the Public Health Service, but twenty-seven other States reported the disease still spreading, with many additional cities and rural districts affected. Conditions apparently were worse in Pennsylvania, where it is estimated 350,000 cases have occurred, with probably 150,000 in Philadelphia. For the first eighteen days of October 14,805 deaths are reported in this State.

In army camps a slight increase in both influenza and pneumonia was reported Sunday, but a decrease was shown today, with 3,007 influenza cases and 768 pneumonia cases, the lowest figures reported since the epidemic became general in the camps. For the forty-eight hours ending today at noon new influenza cases totaled 6,666, pneumonia 2,079, and deaths 919. These figures brought the total of influenza cases since Sept. 13 to 290,447, pneumonia cases to 6,055, and deaths from all cases to 15,072.

Normal Conditions in Boston Again.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Normal conditions were resumed in this city today, when schools, theatres, motion picture houses, dance halls, billiard and pool rooms, bowling alleys, liquor saloons, soda fountains, and other places of public assembly were allowed to reopen by health officials. These places had been closed for nearly three weeks because of the epidemic of influenza, which caused nearly 4,000 deaths in Boston, although a considerable number of deaths were still being reported daily, health officials believed the disease was under control.

TAKE SACRAMENT FOR MARSHAL FOCH

Example of Catholic Children in Britain Commended to Those in America.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—Speaking at the celebration today in honor of Cardinal Gibbons's fiftieth anniversary as a Bishop, Mgr. William Barnes, Catholic Chaplain of Oxford University, England, asked the Cardinal to appeal to the Catholic children of America to receive communion on behalf of Marshal Foch, and told how that had been done by the English children when things looked darkest for the allied cause.

He said that Marshal Foch had written him as follows:

"The act of faith which the children of Great Britain have made for my intention has profoundly touched me. Please express my gratitude to them and beg them to continue their prayers for the victory of our just cause."

Since that, said Mgr. Barnes, Marshal Foch had sent the following:

"I am still depending on the prayers of the children. Ask them to go to communion for me again and again."

Bishop Keating of Northampton, England, said that the Catholics of both America and England had been further united by their work in the common cause in the war.

M. de Cartier, Belgian Minister to the United States, was among the guests, as was also Mgr. Baudrillart of the French Academy and rector of the Catholic University of Paris.

The British and French delegations expect to call at the White House in Washington tomorrow.

MANY JOIN TANK CORPS.

Recruiting for Land Navy Booms Under Call for 20,000 Men.

Hundreds of recruits applied at the headquarters, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday to the United States Tank Corps as a result of the campaign for 20,000 men which the corps recently inaugurated.

On account of the extensive development of the use of tanks, many of them are being built for chasing the Germans out of France, and men with special qualifications are needed for these machines. Before the recent fighting showed the use to which tanks might be put, they were operated singly or in small numbers. Now they are sent out in formation, as naval ships issue for an attack, and their manoeuvers are worked out as carefully as the movements of a fleet. The small tanks, with a speed of eight miles an hour, are used to follow the retreating Germans and destroy the machine gun nests before the advancing infantry.

Soon the recruiting will stop and all branches of the service will be made up through the draft. Officials of the Tank Corps want to fill their ranks before recruiting ceases.

Lost Enamel is Lost Forever

The only tissue in the body which does not renew itself is the enamel of the teeth. It is also the hardest substance and if properly cared for should last a lifetime.

"Acid-Mouth"—an unnatural condition—breaks down the enamel, exposing the softer part of the teeth and decay sets in.

95 people out of every 100 are said to have "Acid-Mouth."

To preserve the teeth two things are necessary—keep them clean and keep up a constant fight against "Acid-Mouth."

The dentifrice that accomplishes both of these results is

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

In addition to cleansing the teeth it contains elements that counteract "Acid-Mouth." A single trial will give such a refreshing sense of cleanliness in the mouth that you will be convinced of its wonderful cleansing properties.

Do You Think There is No Competition?

If anyone thinks there is no competition amongst the big packers he ought to go through a day's work with Swift & Company.

Let him begin at the pens when the live stock comes in; let him try to buy a nice bunch of fat steers quietly and at his own price, without somebody's bidding against him.

Let him realize the scrupulous care taken at the plant that not one thing is lost or wasted in order that costs may be held to a minimum.

Let him go up into the office where market reports are coming in,—and reports of what other concerns are doing.

Let him watch the director of the Swift Refrigerator fleet, maneuvering it over the face of the country like a fleet of battleships at sea.

Let him take a trip with a Swift & Company salesman and try to sell a few orders of meat.

Let him stay at a branch house for an hour or two and see the retail meat dealers drive their bargains to the last penny as they shop around among the packers' branch houses, the wholesale dealers, and the local packing plants.

And then, when the day is over, let him have half an hour in the accounting department, where he can see for himself on what small profits the business is done. (Less than 4 cents on each dollar of sales.)

If he still thinks there is no competition in the meat business it will be because he wants to think so.

SHAW-WALKER

THERE are three great railroads, now a part of the big Government system—the Erie Railroad, New York Central, and Central Railroad of New Jersey—equipped with Shaw-Walker Built-like-a-Skyscraper Steel Files.

Shipbuilders, munition manufacturers, food producers and various departments of the Government are all calling for Shaw-Walker filing equipment.

Thus it is that the following Shaw-Walker policy must be adhered to as long as the war lasts. Preference in filling orders will be given—

First—to the Government; Second—to all concerns working on Government contracts or furnishing practically their entire output to the Government; Third—to the general commercial trade.

If we are unable to fill your orders for Shaw-Walker steel or wood files promptly, you will know that it is for the reasons stated above. And we know you will willingly and cheerfully wait, since it is in the interest which you yourselves have most at heart—the winning of the war.

BOLSHEVIST WITNESS CURBED BY COURT

Abrahams Admits, When Questioned by Judge Clayton, That He Assailed the President.

CHECK PUT TO SPEECHES

References to American and French Revolutions, Rockefeller, and Russia Are Ruled Out.

Jacob Abrahams, who says that he is both a Bolshevik and an anarchist, one of six local followers of Trotzky and Lenine now on trial before Judge Henry D. Clayton in the Federal District Court, went on the witness stand yesterday and tried to justify what he had written about President Wilson and the United States. Among other things, he wrote that the President was a coward, denounced allied intervention in Russia, and said that the United States was run by a few capitalists. The other defendants are charged with making and circulating similar statements. If convicted on all counts the prisoners may be sent to the Federal penitentiary for eighty years each.

The courtroom was fairly well filled with Bolshevist agitators, anarchists, and other radicals when Judge Clayton ascended the bench yesterday morning. The Alabama judge lost no time in making it plain that the defense must stick to the points in issue.

H. Weinberger, a lawyer who represented Emma Goldman and Berkman, and now appears for the Bolshevist agitators, tried repeatedly to get in evidence what the defendants thought of John D. Rockefeller and other wealthy Americans, but Judge Clayton would have none of it.

Abrahams, a long-haired, soft-voiced Russian, tried to make a speech in answer to every question, but Judge Clayton cut him short. Mr. Weinberger became so persistent that Judge Clayton threatened to hold him in contempt if he did not desist.

Court Rules Out Russia.

"What may or may not have happened in Russia," said Judge Clayton, "is not in issue here. We are only interested in what these defendants are alleged to have done here in the United States."

The witness kept referring to producers of wealth, and said that these producers—he called them the proletariat—should rule the United States.

"You keep talking about producers," said Judge Clayton. "Now may I ask you why you don t go out and do some producing? There is plenty of untilled land needing attention in this country."

In reply to a question the witness said that he was an anarchist and added that Christ was an anarchist.

"Our Lord is not on trial here. You are," said Judge Clayton as he instructed the lawyer for the defense to take another tack.

At another point the witness began some remarks about John D. Rockefeller.

"Now," said Judge Clayton, "suppose we eliminate Mr. Rockefeller. He is not on trial. However, I will say that it is quite true that Mr. Rockefeller is a man of considerable wealth and he has done a great deal of good. He has eliminated the hookworm, which was the curse of childhood in large sections of our country; he has established and maintained a great research hospital, and in other ways used his wealth to better the condition of his fellows. We will now proceed with the case."

"We will now," said Mr. Weinberger, "ask the witness about his other writings. The Holy Alliance—"

"Cut out the Holy Alliance. That is not in the issue," said Judge Clayton.

Admits Assailing the President.

Weinberger then asked the witness concerning that part of the anarchist document in which President Wilson was referred to as the "coward of the White House."

"Did you write that?" demanded Judge Clayton.

"Yes, Sir, and, and—" the witness started to reply.

"That will do for that, and we will proceed along some other line," said the Judge.

Failing to get the French Revolution into the evidence, an effort was made by counsel for the Bolsheviki to turn to the American Revolution.

"When our forefathers of the American Revolution"—the witness began, but that was as far as he got.

"Your what?" asked Judge Clayton.

"My forefathers," replied the defendant.

"Do you mean to refer to the fathers of this nation as your forefathers? Well, I guess we can leave that out, too, for Washington and the others are not on trial here."

Mr. Weinberger endeavored to get into evidence something about Russia and Siberia.

"We are not interested," said Judge Clayton, "in what this man did in Russia or Siberia. We are only interested in what he has been doing over here."

Near the end of the afternoon session the witness tried to tell about what he had written in Russia. He said he served three months in jail for what he had written in that country.

"And," interjected Mr. Weinberger, "they may get eighty years apiece for writing the same thing here."

"We will settle that when the time comes," Judge Clayton said, and he then adjourned the case until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

PLEA TO AID DEMOCRACY.

Morgenthau Tells War Work Speakers We Must End Militarism.

In preparation for the United War Work campaign for $170,500,000 which begins on Nov. 11, 300 of the speakers who will wage the campaign in the metropolitan district were addressed last night at a meeting held at the Waldorf-Astoria. Henry Morgenthau, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, urged the extreme importance of raising the money, even if peace were to be declared within a short time. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., outlined the purposes of the campaign, and Sherwood Eddy, who has just returned from the Y. M. C. A. in France and before the war was Y. M. C. A. Secretary for Asia, told of the spirit of the American soldiers, whose morale must be sustained in every possible way by the seven organizations for which the money is to be raised. Other speakers were Knowles Cooper, head of the United National Speakers' Bureau, and Henrietta Roelofs, formerly executive officer of the Y. W. C. A. in France. Mrs. C. F. Tiffany presided.

Mr. Morgenthau warned the speakers of the argument they would have to meet from many people, namely that the war would soon be over and therefore money would not be necessary. "In the first place," he said, "the war is not over, and we must do our share to see that it is not over until the great object for which it is being fought is attained. We must see that our great strength is not exhibited merely as a physical phenomenon, but as a great moral force. France has been maintaining a great force of soldiers for years simply to ward off the great menace which Germany presented on her borders. We must see that the war is decided in such a manner that that menace shall exist no more. The great question of democracy is to be tested; are we simply going to destroy others or are we to be altruistic? This country has great resources and they must be used to democratize the world."

The benefits to be derived from a united campaign were emphasized by Mr. Rockefeller, who has assumed the leadership of the Executive Committee in New York. He pointed out that from an accounting point of view the arrangement was the only businesslike procedure.

"The budget," continued the speaker, "was prepared by the War Department on the basis of the needs as foreseen last Spring when the second draft was not contemplated. As a result $170,000,000 will not meet the actual needs of the organizations, and an oversubscription will be necessary, or else more money will have to be raised in some other way."

Assurance from Lord Reading, British High Commissioner to Washington, that with the aid of American troops the Allies cannot fail is contained in a letter to Sir Arthur K. Yapp, head of the British Y. M. C. A., made public yesterday at the United War Work Campaign headquarters. Lord Reading conveys wishes for the success of the campaign, to continue the service, which has made our fighters so confident.

O'LEARY'S TRIAL BEGINS.

Prisoner Examines Veniremen and Hints He Is Being Railroaded.

The trial of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, charged with conspiracy to obstruct the military laws, through articles in the monthly publication called Bull, was begun before Judge Cushman in the United States District Court yesterday. After this case is finished O'Leary will be put on trial on the charge of conspiracy with German spies and others to commit treason against the United States, the penalty for which may be death.

O'Leary examined the veniremen himself. He asked them if they knew Colonel Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan, and James W. Gerard. He intimated that he was being "railroaded" by the Government and said that if found guilty on all counts the Judge could sentence him to 160 years in prison. He also wanted to know if the talesmen had known the late Mayor Mitchel, and asked them if fear of "newspaper persecution" would make it impossible for them to acquit him.

Not a juror had been obtained when court adjourned at 5 P. M. The case will be continued at 10 o'clock this morning.

Porto Rican Refugees Here.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 21.—Among passengers who arrived today from Porto Rico were 200 refugees from the part of the island devastated by earthquake on Oct. 10 and 11, when several hundred were killed. The refugees were brought here by the State Department and will be employed in war industries. Most of them carried their worldly belongings in bundles on their backs when they stepped ashore.

SEIZE MORE FIRMS AS ENEMY-OWNED

TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES

Palmer Named American Directors in International Subsidiary of Hamburg Co., Now Liquidated.

Gerstendorfer Brothers, Inc., a $1,000,000 concern, dealing in bronze paints, varnishes, and enamels, at 331 East Forty-second Street, has been taken over by the Alien Property Custodian, it was announced yesterday by A. Mitchell Palmer, on the discovery that 90 per cent. of its stock was enemy owned. The concern reported only 30 per cent. enemy owned.

Mr. Palmer's investigator, Francis P. Garvin, found that Albert Gerstendorfer, now in Germany, was the principal stockholder, having 1,849 shares, and that three days before Ambassador von Bernstorff received his passports an alleged transfer of sufficient enemy-owned stock was made to give control of the corporation to residents in this country.

New certificates were issued, Mr. Palmer said, for 1,200 shares to Edmund Echart, President, and 100 shares to John Raabe, Secretary of the company. Echart explained, according to the Alien Property Custodian, that in making the transfer he was carrying out the wishes of his uncle, Albert Gerstendorfer, but no record that the German owner authorized or agreed to such transfer could be produced.

Mr. Palmer has named Joseph H. Choate, Jackson E. Reynolds, and Mortimer M. Buckner of this city, and Antoine Bournonville of Philadelphia as Directors of the firm. William M. Clark has been named as counsel and Aaron J. Colnon as assistant counsel.

The Alien Property Custodian also announced yesterday that he had taken over the Hamburg Assurance Company of Hamburg, Germany, which has been doing business in this country since March, 1914, and in 1916 had a premium income here of $4,604,000. The statement from the office of the Alien Property Custodian said that the Hamburg Assurance Company owned all of the stock of the International Insurance Company of New York, which has also been taken over and American Directors installed.

The International Insurance Company is capitalized at only $200,000. In 1917 its premium income was $7,888,413. The affairs of the Hamburg Assurance Company have been fully liquidated and, after paying all liabilities, approximately $500,000 of net assets remained, which has been taken over by the Alien Property Custodian.

Mr. Palmer announced that the International Insurance Company will be operated under control of the Alien Property Custodian until it can be disposed of with the advice of the Advisory Committee recently appointed, of which Jesse S. Phillips, Superintendent of Insurance for the State of New York, is the Chairman.

Directors named by Mr. Palmer for the International Insurance Company are John Anderson, William H. English, Frederick J. Horne, Morgan M. Mann, Albert E. Marling, James W. McCullach, Harrison Nesbitt, William G. Willcox, Sumner Ballard, Fritz Kortenbeutel, all of New York, and Alfred H. Townley of Pittsburgh. Mr. Ballard was President of the Company and Mr. Kortenbeutel was Secretary.

No More Comfort Kits.

The Red Cross announced yesterday that chapters throughout the country had been asked to discontinue direct distribution of knitted articles among soldiers and sailors and that comfort kits would no longer be provided directly by the Red Cross for soldiers. Comfort kits are now barred from the baggage of soldiers because of the limited shipping space.

LIGGETT PROMOTED, BULLARD ALSO

Commanders of First and Second Field Armies to be Lieutenant Generals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Major Generals Hunter Liggett and Robert L. Bullard were nominated by President Wilson today to be Lieutenant Generals. General Liggett commands the First American Field Army in France and General Bullard commands the Second. They become the only Lieutenant Generals on the active list, their new rank being for the war period, like that of General Pershing. General Liggett is a Major General in the regular establishment, and General Bullard is a Brigadier.

When General Liggett arrived in France General Pershing was at work on the formation of the First Army Corps, and this task was promptly assigned to him. General Pershing was so well satisfied with the result that General Liggett received direct command of the First Field Army when it was organized, and he led it into action when, in the first major offensive, the St. Mihiel salient was wiped out in a day.

Major Generals Hunter Liggett and Robert Lee Bullard will be the eleventh and twelfth officers of the United States Army to hold the rank of Lieutenant General. Their predecessors were George Washington, Ulysses S. Grant, William T. Sherman, Philip H. Sheridan, John M. Schofield, Nelson A. Miles, Samuel M. B. Young, Adna R. Chaffee, Henry C. Corbin, and Arthur MacArthur. Washington, Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan were subsequently promoted to General.

General Liggett is a Pennsylvanian. General Bullard is from Alabama. Both are West Pointers, Liggett being a member of the class of 1879 and Bullard of the class of 1885. Liggett was a Brigadier General and Bullard a Colonel when this country entered the war. General Liggett was in command of the American troops which stopped the Germans at Château-Thierry, while Bullard commanded in the first big action in which Americans took part as separate units, namely, at Cantigny. Both are infantrymen, and have been for years among the best-known officers of that arm of the regular service.

Judge Henry D. Clayton of the Federal Courts of Alabama, from whose district Bullard was appointed to West Point, told something of the private and hitherto unpublished history of the famous Alabama soldier last night.

"General Bullard," said Judge Clayton "is a native of Chambers County, Alabama, and is the son of a private soldier of the Confederacy. He was born in 1861, and, though he is registered in the military records as Robert Lee Bullard, his name is Robert Edward Lee Bullard. He was at West Point with Pershing. My brother, Colonel Clayton, who was the first regular army Colonel killed in France, was on Bullard's division staff when Bullard was in command of the First Division of regulars. General Bullard comes of the finest Southern stock and is one of a long of gallant fighters."

A World's Championship Again Decided

Each year for twelve years the relative qualities of typewriters in speed and accuracy have been proved by contests held in New York City for an International Thousand Dollar Trophy Cup.

Champions have changed as the years have passed, but this cup has always been won by an operator using the Underwood Typewriter.

Once more, and for the Thirteenth time has this contest been held, and once more has the supremacy of the Underwood been established.

On October 21st, at the Exposition of Modern Office Equipment and Methods, in New York City, George Hossfeld, operating an Underwood at the rate of 143 perfect words a minute for one hour, defeating all contestants, became the World's Champion Typist for the ensuing year.

NATION WAS A UNIT IN WORK FOR LOAN

AWAIT THE FINAL FIGURES

Officials and Employes of 97 Shipyards Took $35,386,800 in Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—After reading a number of late reports on the outcome of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, which closed on Saturday, Treasury officials said tonight there was little certainty at this time either regarding the total volume of subscriptions or the number of subscribers. They still had no doubt that the loan had been oversubscribed, but explained that many earlier messages appeared too optimistic in the light of actual figures now being compiled by every bank and local committee in the country.

Some cities which at first reported that they were heavily oversubscribed now discover that they barely went over their marks. There was good ground, however, for the estimate that 22,000,000 or more individuals had subscribed to the greatest war loan ever floated by any Government. The fact that many of these represented lump subscriptions by corporations which later would resell bonds to their employes led to belief that the number of actual bondholders would be considerably higher.

Definite Figures Awaited.

Owing to the present uncertainty, the Treasury expects to make no further announcement concerning the results of the loan until definite and official figures are received from each Federal Reserve bank. The first of these reports is hardly looked for before next Monday, and the final compilations may be delayed for two weeks.

Stories of self-sacrifice by individuals and business interests, of fine records of loan workers, of unceasing effort throughout the two weeks' period, of clever methods and efficient salesmanship, of enthusiastic determination, which stopped at neither moral discouragements nor physical handicaps from influenza illness, are reaching the Treasury in every mail.

"Words of thanks seem paltry in the face of the deeds now being reported," said one official.

The navy subscribed more than $40,000,000, according to an announcement made by Rear Admiral Cowie, the navy Liberty Loan officer, and this figure will be raised by later reports. The army also made a fine record, but the figures are yet incomplete. General Pershing reported that up to Oct. 14 members of the American Expeditionary Force had subscribed to $1,200,000, and that this probably would run to two millions or more.

Millions Taken by Shipyards.

Officials and employes of 97 shipyards subscribed $35,386,800, the Shipping Board announced. If the other 106 yards maintain the same ratio the grand total for the industry will be about $75,000,000, an average of more than $750 for each man.

Plants reporting large subscriptions were: American Shipbuilding Company, Cleveland, $5,900,000; Cramp Shipbuilding Company, Philadelphia, $5,100,000; Log Canoe, $5,000,000; Skinner & Eddy, Seattle, $2,000,000; Submarine Boat Corporation, New York, $1,900,000; Fore River plant, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, $1,600,000; Union plant, Bethlehem Corporation, $1,750,500; New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J., $1,500,000.

Shipping Board employes subscribed more than $1,649,650, while Emergency Fleet Corporation employes in Philadelphia bought more than $1,500,000.

NEW YORK DISTRICT ABOVE ITS QUOTA

Only the Final Tabulations Will Show the Excess Over the $1,800,000,000 Goal.

Reports received at Liberty Loan Headquarters yesterday, based on incomplete returns of subscriptions during the closing hours of the campaign, indicated that New York had passed its quota of $1,800,000,000, although it was doubtful whether the margin was narrow or substantial.

The work of tabulating the subscriptions received on the last day proved to be of such magnitude that the banks and trust companies are expected to take all the time allowed in making their complete returns, so that New York's total probably will not be known definitely before Thursday night.

All of the other sub-districts included with New York City in the Second Federal Reserve district have oversubscribed their quotas, the excess ranging from five to fifty per cent. The best showing has apparently been made by Sub-District No. 6, which comprises Suffolk and Nassau Counties, and the Borough of Nassau and Queens. This district is apparently nearly 50 per cent. over its quota. One of the best exhibitions of pluck was that of South Amboy, N. J., which oversubscribed its quota, notwithstanding the fact that the town was partially demolished and nearly all of its inhabitants made refugees in the middle of the campaign by the TNT explosion at the adjoining town of Morgan, N. J.

The Rainbow Division, which canvassed the trades of New York City and reported on Sunday a total of $985,-200,450, exceeding its quota by $119,-341,450, announced the following additional individual subscriptions yesterday:

The Western Union Telegraph Company announced yesterday that the subscriptions of its employes in this city totaled more than $500,000. Of its 3,718 employes in this city, 2,630 took bonds.

In celebration of its success in exceeding its quota of $79,000,000 in the Loan campaign Brooklyn yesterday raised an honor flag over the Borough Hall. Preceding the flag raising there was a parade, in which the members of the Brooklyn Liberty Loan Committee and a detachment of sailors from the Navy Yard took part. At the Borough Hall there was speechmaking by Borough President Riegelmann, Edwin P. Maynard, chairman of the local committee, and others.

Air Mail to Denver After the War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Postmaster General Burleson today wrote Senator Shafroth of Colorado, that the aerial mail service would be extended to Denver immediately after the war. The line will connect with the proposed New York-San Francisco aerial mail route, which also is being held in abeyance until peace comes.

CONFESSION, NOT COMPLIANCE.

The Germans have not yet learned to understand, much less to speak, our language of agreement. We may regard their latest note as a German effort to meet the President's demands. In part it does move toward them, but haltingly and with evasions, notably in respect to the abandonment of inhumane practices contrary to the laws of war on sea and land; but in other parts it rings false, it is colored with those deceptions and hypocrisies which we have come to regard as inseparable from the processes of the German mind. If we go back a little more than three months and try to imagine what sort of note the German Government would have drawn up in respect to peace discussions before July 18, we shall see at once that in this note it has gone far toward those admissions and compliances which have been set up by President WILSON and the allied Governments as the conditions which must precede the consideration of peace proposals. But Germany has not yet traversed the whole of the wide space between her position and that of the allied Governments. The most we can say is that she is on the way and that she will be forced to complete her hard journey to the point of full surrender.

While the note is not a compliance with the demands of Mr. WILSON, it is an avowal of defeat, it is a confession that Germany has conducted the war, not, like a civilized nation, but with brutal savagery. She does not confess gracefully, or like a penitent—that was not to be expected. The condemned criminal winces under the harsh terms of the Judge's sentence, and we suppose the authors of this note had to take into account the present much disturbed public opinion in the empire. But when it is avowed that the "German Government has "caused orders to be dispatched to "all submarine commanders precluding the torpedoing of passenger "ships," and much more explicitly when it is added that "for technical reasons" that Government is unable "to guarantee that these orders will "reach every single submarine at sea "before its return," no room is left for denial that the commanders of submarines had orders to torpedo passenger ships, any kind of ships they might encounter. The German Government has the hardihood to deny that its navy "in sinking ships has "ever purposely destroyed lifeboats "with their passengers," and it suggests the appointment of a neutral commission to "clear up" the facts involved in that charge. No neutral commission is necessary, the facts are notorious and supported by ample testimony.

In his note of Oct. 14, the President declared that "cities and villages, if "not destroyed, are being stripped of "all they contain not only, but often "of their very inhabitants," by the retreating Germans. He did not speak without definite knowledge of the facts. Military necessity can never require that private houses be pillaged, that the equipment of factories be carried away, that thousands of the people of a city be driven off like slaves as captives of the invading army. In making denial of these crimes the German Government merely calls upon us to record another flagrant falsehood. If, however, the German troops are now under "strict instruction to spare "property and to exercise care for the "population to the best of their abili"ty," something has been gained. If German officers and soldiers guilty of these transgressions "are being punished," the names of the offenders and the nature of the penalty inflicted have not yet transpired.

The note is perversely evasive in respect to President WILSON'S "decition" that the process and the conditions of an armistice "must be left to "the judgment and advice of the military advisers of the Government of "the United States and the allied "Governments," and that the conditions must "provide absolutely satisfactory safeguards and guarantees "of the maintenance of the present "military supremacy of the armies of "the United States and of the Allies "in the field." What the German note means in its obscure reference to the "actual standard of power" on both sides as the basis of the arrangement will doubtless have to be explained to Marshal FOCH and his Generals, who alone will impose conditions of armistice. The maintenance of the present military supremacy of the allied armies is an indispensable condition. With that Germany will have to comply.

The authors of this note labor the point of intended changes in the Constitution of the German Empire which will require representation of the people in decisions of war and peace, and they seem to imagine that this meets the President's demand for the "de"struction of every arbitrary power "that can separately, secretly, and of "its own single choice disturb the "peace of the world." It does nothing of the kind. The amendment of Article XI. of the Constitution does not destroy the arbitrary power of the Kaiser, it merely admits to seeming participation in the exercise of that power of an unrepresentative body always easily within the control of him and his cabal of sabre-rattlers. To say that the "new Government" rests upon "the representation of the "people, based on equal, universal, "secret, direct franchise," is an impudent, false pretense that might seem too rank even for a German to make. If we look beyond the pretense to the actual thing, we shall see that the arbitrary power of that disturber of the peace of the world has not been destroyed. When we consider the supine spirit of the German people we must feel that it has not even been curbed.

The change we note in Germany is not in her Constitution, not in her form of Government, not in making her people masters of their own affairs, but in her attitude toward the war. She is hopeless of victory, she has lost confidence in her powers of resistance. She almost throws herself on the mercy of President WILSON, practically begging him not to approve of demands "which would be irreconcilable with the honor of the Ger"man people." As they long ago parted with the last vestiges of their honor, that plea in extenuation will avail little. The terms of peace will be just to the rest of the world, however harsh Germany and the German people may deem them to be. It remains for them not to choose the terms, but to accept whatever terms may be imposed. The armies of Marshal FOCH will give them no respite until they come to that conclusion.

TWILIGHT OF THE DEMONS.

Teutonic mythology is getting as hard raps as the Teuton heathen who have named so many pregnable "impregnable" lines after their divinities. HINDENBURG, the war-god, into whose wooden idol in the Thiergarten the worshippers no longer drive their votive nails, couldn't protect his line, nor can he long protect any line. Wotan, a kindlier deity than the German Gott, who seems to be a union of Thor and HINDENBURG, cannot save himself or the faithful. Siegfried is helpless. Why did the Germans name a line after him? True, he was faithless, but only in love. Loge, habitual liar and traitor, would have been a better choice. The Americans have reached and crossed "the Freya defense position." After the unspeakable abominations done by the Germans, the choice of the goddess of marriage as a tutelary divinity is as curious as most things German.

"The Ring of the Nibelungen" is a prophecy of the fate of Germany. World-power is to come to him who is master of the enchanted gold-store of the Rhine Maidens. A promise treated as "a scrap of paper" brings on a curse. Murder and ruin follow. Valhalla is burned as pitilessly as if it were a French or a Belgian city.

The Curse of the Ring is near its fulfillment. Only it is not the Twilight of the Gods that is come. It is the Twilight of the Demons.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER AS THE GERMANS SEE HIM.

The American soldier in France will find in an official document captured from the Germans some excellent reasons for thinking very well of himself. It was signed by the chief intelligence officer of the 19th Division, and the purpose of it was to give the German rank and file information about the Americans as fighting men. The order seems to have had a wide distribution. A copy fell into the hands of an American unit fighting on the British front. A wise commander does not despise the enemy. The Germans take very good care not to do so. They methodically acquaint their soldiers with the tactics of the Allies and with the behavior of the enemy on the field, giving credit for efficiency but not sparing criticism.

In making war the Germans are always practical; the education of the soldier never ceases, even on the field of combat. One of the most instructive reports issued by the German high command during the war was that of General SIXT VON ARNIM, which dealt with the experiences of the 4th Corps in the battle of the Somme. It had a good deal to say about the British infantry and artillery, admitting merits in their tactics and, praisin; their soldierly qualities. General VON ARNIM held that even the Germans had something to learn from British methods.

Reading between the lines of the order prepared by the intelligence officer of the 19th Division, it may be gathered that the American soldier had been a surprise to him. This sentence reveals the German's state of mind before contact with the new enemy: "The "bearing of the infantry indicates "slight military training." That is the worst thing said of the American soldier in the report, and he can endure it when he reads some other things, as, for instance, the admission that when the Americans reached Thiaucourt the entire St. Mihiel salient had to be evacuated. The "doughboy" had a great deal to do with the operation, in spite of his "slight military training." Every American at the front will find a certain relish in the following observation:

> He [the American soldier] is obviously very much afraid of being taken prisoner. He defends himself violently to the last against this danger and does not surrender.

But in attributing this tenacity of defense to a fear on the part of the Americans that, if captured, they would be treated with cruelty by the Germans the intelligence officer was in part, but only in small part, right; the American fighting spirit is indomitable; it is dour like the Scot's, stubborn like the Englishman's; at Cantigny and at Château-Thierry the Americans proved their invincibility and that surrender was never in their minds when hard pressed. "The American," says the German report, "is expert in handling machine "guns." The artillery is admitted to be formidable: "within a minimum "period the Americans were able to "furnish a well-directed fire." And here is a solid appreciation: "Liaison "between the infantry and artillery "was perfect." Perhaps the finest, certainly the most sincere, comment by the German officer is this: "In "general, it should be noted the Amer"ican is quite honorable—he does not "fire on stretcher bearers." In short, the American soldier is a brave fighter, an effective fighter, and a humane fighter in the estimation of an enemy who at first was inclined to despise him.

THE LOAN AND THE COUNTRY.

To those desponding souls who felt and said with each recurring loan that the country could not raise money in billions the American people now return their fourth contradiction even more emphatically than the first. There was ample forewarning. St. Louis, Minneapolis, and other rural centres led in the daily reports of the country's support of the Government and the war. The country took up the load as joyously as the soldiers rush to battle. The country knew the loan to be less than the profits of the war. All four loans are less than the worth of a single year's crops, and there have been four crops during the war. No loan which we have floated has been equal to the credits we have run up on the balance of our foreign trade. Speaking only in the language of finance, disregarding all moral considerations which underlie the amazing success of our loans, these transactions would have been worth incurring merely to transform ourselves into a creditor nation. And the country has done this as easily as an athlete juggles with weights. We were amazed at the wealth of England, but now we are discovering the wealth of the United States, in money as well as men.

The result of the loan goes overseas to our allies not only as the redemption of the pledge of the President, but as proof of the worth of the pledge. We have the courage of our ideals. We not only have the cash, we also have the character, which we should have forfeited if we had not given this great response. Our moral and financial redemption is disclosed, not in the taking of this loan any more than its predecessors, but in the revelation that all that we have and all that we are is at the service of the world on any issue that justifies it, and cannot be had for any other purpose. We have found our soul where the Germans lost theirs under the temptation of the blasphemous Kaiser. Never again will the world doubt either our wealth or our manhood, or deem our loyalty to democracy lip service. Never will or can the world say that we did these things for profit, or for fear lest a worse thing happen.

Liberty's flame, indeed, would have burned low if the country had not risen to the emergency as it will rise to others, if they shall come. But we have not needed to relight a smoldering flame from the blazing torch carried by brave Belgium, determined England, revivified France, and restored Italy. We are worthy of such allies, and they are worthy of our loyalty. The amount of wealth and manhood which is forthcoming from this country in defense of liberty has not yet been counted, and will be counted worthless unless the cause to which we have pledged it is won. We are strengthened by this loan, not weakened. The world has nothing to fear from wealth and power like ours. Our wealth is honest wealth, our ambitions are those of the world's common people as expressed in their common law and universal morality. The six billion loan is more than a financial triumph. It is a guarantee of the world's deliverance from a fate worse than death.

A POEM OF OCCASION.

Somebody has said that every great poem is a poem of occasion. Not always, not often, does inspiration come. In some happy hour a fit theme stirs the poet, and the poem writes itself. Such was the case when Mr. ALFRED NOYES celebrated in THE SUNDAY TIMES "The Avenue of the Allies." The beauty, the splendor, the national and international symbolism of those miles of many colored flags, each one a token of the history, the achievement, the valor and the hopes of a nation, all of them together a token of the determination of the united free nations to save free civilization, have struck every eye that has seen them. Mr. NOYES has made a poem of this poem, and has uttered clearly and strongly the thoughts that this long procession of friendly flags has raised, consciously or unconsciously, in all of us.

The free sweep and healing vigor of the wind are in this

> Song of the wind as it came
> Tossing the flags of the nations to flame.

He shows us the composite American people made one, and now fighting as one in America, the harmony in national sentiment and purpose here of men of races that are fighting against one another in Europe:

> Over this continent, wholly united,
> They that were foemen in Europe are plighted.
> Here in a league that our blindness and pride
> Doubted and flouted and mocked and denied,
> Dawns the Republic, the laughing, gigantic
> Europe, united, beyond the Atlantic.
> That is America, speaking one tongue,
> Acting her epics before they are sung,
> Through States that are greater than Emperors know.

As an Englishman, Mr. NOYES declares his pride in, and the right of England to be proud of, the Republic. He has painted a noble and lasting picture of a noble spectacle. Fifty years hence old men and women, calling from their memories that bright army of banners on "the lordliest street of the world," will read with delight and a recovered sense of that long-past sight as vivid as hallucination, Mr. NOYES'S vision of that Flag Week of democracy:

> Thousands of Tricolors laughing for France,
> Ripple and whisper and thunder and dance;
> Thousands of flags for Great Britain aflame
> Answer their sisters in Liberty's name.
> Belgium is burning in pride overhead,
> Nippon is near, and her sunrise is red.
> Under and over and fluttering between
> Italy burgeons in red, white and green.
> See, how they climb like adventurous flowers,
> Over the tops of the terrible towers.

HELP FOR RUSSIA.

Events on the western front and in the Balkans have been going so well of late that less attention has been given to Russia, where progress has been slow and where several times events have taken a discouraging turn. The task of redeeming Russia is going to be long and difficult, and it will not do to expect too much all at once; but it is reassuring to find in yesterday's news several indications that the allied program of relieving distress, rebuilding shattered economic life, and conveying the truth to the people of Russia is making progress, for success in these activities is likely to make much easier the overthrow of the military forces of Germans and Bolsheviki.

The first of these tokens of a better time is the news cabled by Mr. ACKERMAN, THE TIMES special correspondent at Vladivostok, of a credit of $5,000,000 in cash and $3,000,000 in supplies to the Czechoslovak Government for the use of the army in Russia and Siberia. The Czechoslovaks are now numbered among the allied nations, and have the same claim to a share of allied credit that the others have; and the direct and immediate need of the supplies and money is likely to be considerable. A Red Cross train has already started across Siberia with doctors, nurses, medical equipment, and supplies for the relief of the army which is still holding the front between the Volga and the Urals; at the same time our Government has assigned $5,000,000 for the economic relief of the civilian population.

The arrival of these supplies will serve as an invaluable counter-propaganda against the enemy agents who are arguing that America is going to leave the Czechoslovak army and the Russian people in the lurch. The establishment of an interallied information bureau at Vladivostok ought to further this work of enlightenment, and particularly to shut off that favorite pastime of Germans and Bolsheviki, trying to draw distinctions between the different nations of the alliance.

In the meantime the Government at Archangel has again been reorganized, with NICHOLAS TSCHAIKOVSKY, the veteran revolutionist, once more its head, and Colonel DUTOFF, who was lately appointed Governor General by the newly formed Central Government, will have the military command. We do not know as yet what interests and opinions lie behind these various movements, but the result seems to be that representative government has been re-established in the north on a firmer basis than before, and in the hands of men whose love of liberty cannot be disputed. With honest government backed up by economic relief, the contrast between those parts of Russia and Siberia where the Bolsheviki rule and those where the Allies have come in is going to be plainly visible during the coming Winter.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Amusing, But Not Impolite.

It is no wonder that Sweden's representative in Washington was puzzled when, on reading the Austro-Hungarian note of Oct. 7, which came to him in French, he saw the word "Monseigneur," used to introduce the all-important reference to the President of the United States. And though his translation of the word into "his Lordship" strikes us as something more than slightly surprising in a man who certainly knew that Americans never by any possibility think, speak, or write about their President as "his Lordship," as a faithful translator he could hardly have done anything except what he did. It was not his duty or his right to correct the mistake of the Austrian diplomat, and "Monseigneur" does mean "my Lord"—there's no doubt about that.

As for the Austrian, he probably did the best he could, and it is unnecessary to suspect him of an intention to be sarcastic or in any way disrespectful in selecting the title he did. An American, an Englishman, or even a Frenchman who called President WILSON "Monseigneur" would be open, indeed, to some such suspicion, but an Austrian who has never been in this country is hardly chargeable with the knowledge that by law and custom we go no further in addressing our Chief Executive than to call him plain "Mr. President" or the still plainer "Sir" that we would give to any of his fellow-citizens to whom we wanted to be courteously respectful.

The formulae of democracy are unknown and perhaps almost unthinkable in a country where the sovereign has a wealth of titles indicative of his unlikeness to ordinary mortals and where something of his superiority is reflected on those whom he chooses to be the representatives of his power in positions of various grades. That we have no deep hatred, however, for high-sounding honorifics is shown plainly enough by our habitual choice of them for the officers of our secret and other societies. But there they are a sort of joke, or at any rate they are not taken at all seriously, and the wearers of them never venture to exercise the prerogatives implied by their titular grandeur.

And Belgians Are Good Accountants.

While the great majority of the Belgian cities just freed from—German rule are alternately weeping and cheering for joy at the termination of a bitter slavery extending over four years, as has been so affectingly told in the dispatches of PHILIP GIBBS, others of that persecuted people are engaged in a sterner task. They are sitting down at tables with pen and paper and making out a bill which they are going to present to Germany for payment.

In it they are jotting down what promises to be an almost endless list of items which, when added up, will make a colossal total, and they are compiling it from what is evidently a carefully kept account of damages inflicted, of thefts committed, and of ruthless extortions practiced.

As creditors, the position of the Belgians is in essential respects different from that of their co-belligerents, for the Germans entered their country, not as soldiers waging war, but as outlaws and bandits—deliberate violators of a solemn treaty and precluded from appealing there, as they can elsewhere, to "military necessity" as an internationally recognized excuse for the destruction of life and property. It is a suit under what amounts to criminal, as distinguished from either civil or military, law that they can bring against the Germans, and they are privileged to demand punitive and exemplary damages as well as mere remuneration.

How much of their bill will be paid depends, more or less, of course, on Germany's ability to pay, but of her legal and moral liability to undo as much as possible of the harm she has done in Belgium there can be no question. Not a little of it as regards property, and all as regards life, is irreparable by the delivery of money, but it is none the less well that the full score should be formally made out and presented for the inspection of the world, as well as that of Germany.

A Difference With a Distinction.

A German who was described as "open-minded," at least in comparison with most Germans, is quoted in an Amsterdam dispatch as denying that his countrymen, in the conduct of war, had been guilty of more or greater cruelties than are inevitable in war, no matter by whom waged. "You talk about Captain FRYATT and EDITH CAVELL," he said, "but how about the Baralong case?" And he actually could see no difference between those cases!

The first element of unlikeness lies in this, that the facts in the Fryatt and Cavell cases are known and undisputed, while "the Baralong case" consists merely of accusations, supported only by evidence of the most suspicious sort, and never admitted to be true by those against whom they were brought. Even if it were admitted, however, that German sailors swimming in the sea after their vessel had been sunk were shot by the British, the Baralong case would still be far from similar to those against which it was adduced by the German who was credited with an open mind. For, if such shooting was done, not only was it utterly out of harmony with British behavior at sea, as displayed through more centuries than Germany has owned a navy, but it would not be justified or excused by the British Government or by British public sentiment in any expression thereof that a reasonable critic would think of holding representative of the national morals.

In Germany, on the other hand, "frightfulness" of just the kind that the murders alleged in the Baralong case would have been, if committed, has been a policy deliberately adopted and followed by the German Government. It has been justified and commended by innumerable Germans, and its results have been cheered and celebrated publicly as a means of winning the war. The difference is enormous. It is exactly the difference between an American lynching in a State or community where approval of lynching is general and those guilty of it are immune from punishment, and another like crime committed where it is generally reprehended and sternly punished.

HAVERSTRAW DIDN'T HEAR SMITH SPEECH

Only the Open Air Was Available Because of the Influenza.

WILL NOW TRY AT ITHACA

Abram I. Elkus Says Poll on Train Must Have Been Made of Whitman Officeholders.

What one Democratic leader characterized as the "Republican quarantine against Democratic campaign speeches" still remained in force yesterday. Alfred E. Smith had been set down for a speech in Haverstraw last night, but received word during the day that he would not be permitted to address a meeting there, except in the open air. Upon receiving this message he got in touch with Democratic leaders in the Rockland County town and asked them whether a meeting in the open air could be successfully arranged on such short notice. What they told him was not encouraging. Then he threw up his hands and gave instructions that his Haverstraw speaking engagement be canceled.

Mr. Smith was plainly angry, but declined to make any comment. The Democratic candidate was laboring under all the emotion of a man who had a dozen campaign speeches prepared and no place to deliver them. Some of the material, it was stated last night, will be put in shape where it can be used as full-page Democratic broadsides, published as advertisements during the final week of the campaign, with a statement showing why it had become necessary for the Democratic candidate to resort to that means of getting his views on the campaign issues before the voters.

Originally Mr. Smith had been scheduled to speak in Hornell last night. A couple of hours after the Democratic leaders in that city had closed a contract for a hall, the local health board which, according to Chairman Kellogg of the Democratic State Committee, happens to be all-Republican, met and established a ban against public meetings, although, according to a statement made by the committee, churches, schools, saloons and places of amusement were permitted to remain open.

Mr. Smith announced last night that he would make an early start today for Ithaca, where he is scheduled for a campaign speech this evening. His campaign managers say that Ithaca, of all cities in the State, is the one least affected by the Spanish influenza epidemic. At Republican State headquarters one offical who heard of the projected meeting there said he doubted whether the local authorities would sanction it.

A speaking program for the present week, taking in the cities of Binghamton, Elmira, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany, Troy, Schenectady and Utica, had been arranged for Mr. Smith. All those dates have had to be abandoned and Mr. Smith's entire up State speaking program has been knocked in the head. After his speech in Ithaca this evening he intends to go to Syracuse for conferences with Chairman Kellogg of the Democratic Campaign Committee.

Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Alfred E. Smith, made merry yesterday with some straw votes taken on the Empire State Express and made public by the Whitman White Book Committee, all of which indicated overwhelming Whitman pluralities.

"If you are not satisfied with impartial polls and straw votes conducted by the newspapers which show that Alfred E. Smith will receive a majority of 245,000 in New York City, that the women in the city are with him and that he will receive a substantial majority of their votes, and run about even with the Republican nominee up State," said Mr. Elkus. "They must have taken their train polls on the way from Albany to this city Friday afternoon, when it is loaded down with Whitman office holders on their way to speak during the week end in this city at the expense of the State."

Mr. Elkus added that the Republican leaders were in despair, but George A. Glynn, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, laughed this to scorn. He said the Republican leaders never felt more hopeful and handed out a bunch of registration figures from up State cities where there is personal registration and which he declared demonstrated beyond doubt a heavy Republican vote outside of New York City. In many places, Mr. Glynn said, the women who are supposed to lean toward Governor Whitman have registered in as large numbers as have the men. Here are Mr. Glynn's registration figures, as compared with the vote for Governor in 1916:

Albany	42,332	28,843
Auburn	9,696	5,895
Binghamton	17,000	12,389
Cohoes	8,095	5,011
Green Island	2,433	1,157
Gouverneur	8,658	7,192
Mechanicsville	2,583	1,603
Rochester	73,000	48,267
Rome	6,575	4,604
Saratoga	4,916	2,972
Syracuse	50,731	34,319
Troy	24,579	16,757
Union	6,000	3,677
Waterford	5,608	1,302

It was announced last night at the Republican Club that Colonel Roosevelt would make the one speech he has promised to deliver in the present State campaign at a meeting to be held in Carnegie Hall next Monday evening under the auspices of the club. Robert W. Bonynge, president of the club, will preside, and the other speakers will be State Tax Commissioner Ralph W. Thomas and Miss Mary Wood, a suffragist. The Governor will not be at the meeting.

Alfred E. Smith, in an interview published in The Evening Post yesterday, was asked what his attitude would be toward Tammany Hall, if elected Governor. He replied:

"I shall not be subservient to any political faction if elected Governor, nor shall I make any appointments for political purposes. Fitness to hold these positions will be the sole requirement considered in making appointments."

Governor Whitman was in Albany yesterday catching up with official business. He will return to the city this afternoon, and tonight will address four meetings in Manhattan, at Carleton Hall, 103 East 127th Street; Lexington Hall, 109 East 116th Street; Yorkville Casino, 210 East Eighty-sixth Street, and Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Avenue.

TANNER TO OPPOSE KITCHIN

Republican Candidate Makes Issue of Ways and Means Chairman.

Frederick G. Tanner, formerly Chairman of the Republican State Committee and at present candidate for the House of Representatives from the Seventeenth District, sent a letter to his Democratic opponent, Herbert G. Pell, Jr., pledging that if elected he would vote against Claude Kitchin of North Carolina for Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and S. Hubert Dent, Jr., of Alabama as head of the Military Affairs Committee. He asked Mr. Pell if he would make a like pledge. Here is Mr. Tanner's letter in part:

"New York City has a vital interest in the organization of the House of Representatives. Our district has furnished its full quota of men, and pays probably more taxes and has purchased more bonds than any other three districts in the United States combined. Two committees of the House are particularly important to New York—the Committee on Ways and Means, which frames the measures for taxation, and the Committee on Military Affairs, which provides for the soldiers.

"The Democratic Party has permitted Claude Kitchin of North Carolina and S. Hubert Dent, Jr., of Alabama, to remain Chairmen of these committees since we entered the war. In spite of their long record of unpatriotic and obstructive acts.

"Mr. Kitchin voted against the declaration of a state of war, against the selective draft, and repeatedly against measures to increase the army and navy. In addition, he has shown himself unable to cope with business and financial questions on a large scale.

"Mr. Dent, although his committee was charged with the prime duty of raising an army, voted against the selective draft law, the only means of raising an army effectively and with justice. He even voted repeatedly against increasing the army and navy under the old system.

"New York City is willing to bear its full share of taxation, but it objects to a Chairman who raises the issue of sectionalism, and who displays more vigor in punishing some people, and some parts of our own country through the power of taxation, than he does in carrying on the war. New York City demands for the Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs a man who supports war measures and who can be relied on to impose an inconclusive peace which would make our sacrifice a vain thing."

Mr. Tanner wrote that the question he had proposed to his Democratic rival was the acid test of a candidate's willingness to throw aside political considerations in the interest of pushing the war to a speedy and successful termination.

The National Security League sent out an urgent appeal to the voters of the Tenth District in Brooklyn yesterday to insist upon a Democratic-Republican fusion against Abraham I. Shipkacoff, present Socialist leader of the Assembly and candidate for Congress. Shipkacoff has been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of sedition.

The Tenth District was the only one in this city where the Democratic and Republican leaders failed to act on the earlier suggestion of the league for anti-Socialist fusion. Reuben N. Haskell, the present Representative, was named by the Republicans and the Democrats named ex-Assistant District Attorney George Martin.

The league points out the danger of a Socialist victory indicated by last year's vote in the district. This was as follows: Democratic, 8,290; Republican, 9,881; Socialist, 9,028.

"It thus plainly seen how real and immediate is the danger that your district will find itself represented in the next Congress by Shipkacoff, unless loyal citizens take action to prevent it," the appeal continues. "It is to be regretted that the district has not one Fusion candidate, but it is not too late to repair the damage if you will rise above partizanship and take measures between now and Election Day to decide which of the two candidates opposing Shipkacoff the citizens will unite upon to elect. To make effective this suggestion we urge the immediate formation of a representative committee, composed of Democrats and Republicans, who will, after a complete canvass of the district, place the matter before the organization party leaders and the candidates in vigorous form."

HYLAN ASSAILS SERVICE BOARD

It Neglects to Prosecute Transit Corporations, Says Mayor.

Mayor Hylan made an address last night before the Business Men's League, at 15 East Fortieth Street, in favor of the election of Alfred E. Smith. Preston P. Lynn, chairman of the league, presided. The Mayor said that Mr. Smith was entitled to the active support of the league, as well as all civic organizations of the city and State that have for their object the betterment of civic conditions. The Mayor also made an attack upon the local Public Service Commission, which he declared has been a shameful failure.

"The transit corporations," he said, "ignore the Commission's orders, and the commission neglects to prosecute them in accordance with the law. The Public Service Commission has been so long used by the corporations to obtain valuable rights and privileges from the people that there is now no respect anywhere for the commission or its orders. We need a Governor who will immediately remove the Public Service Commissioners if they do not enforce the law.

"The last report of the rapid transit lines to the Public Service Commission showed that more than 39,000,000 more passengers were carried than the year before on the transit lines in this city, and during the same period the companies operated less cars and gave poorer accommodations. Notwithstanding this the rapid transit companies are asking for an increased fare."

TO MASTER FUCHS—AT BERLIN

There's nothing novel—only change of name!
The lion's teeth are drawn; his blatant roar
Awakens no such terror as before;
Then, what to do. . . . There is a little beast
Whose tawny skin, together neatly pieced,
On with the fox's skin—no time to lose—

Oh, feckless art—oh, vulpine trick supreme—
We still discern you thro' this last thin scheme!
You are Democracy—so bright and new,
(Your "shining sword" half thrust from view!)
You are Democracy—and It is You!
You seek an armistice, (you need it, too!)
The world's vast sorrow moves you much to ruth.
And peace you seek, (a "German peace," forsooth!)
No, no, we cannot be deceived by "looks."
For we too long have known you, Master Fuchs—
The pricked-up ear, the sleek and crafty smile,
The prayerful plea—of Hohenzollern guile!
Off with disguise, and down upon your knees;

EDITH M. THOMAS.

$9,984,728 INCREASE IN 1919 CITY BUDGET

Schools Call for $45,121,163 in a Total of $248,108,478, the Largest in City's History.

THE MAYOR ASKS $68,320

Wants Secretary's Salary, Which He Cut, Restored, and a Chauffeur All to Himself.

The city's budget for 1919 will show an increase of nearly $10,000,000 over this year's budget, according to figures made public yesterday by Controller Craig. The proposed budget, which will be adopted by the Board of Estimate next week, calls for an expenditure next year of $248,108,487.38, by far the largest amount in the history of the city. The increase is just $9,984,728.18, over the Mitchel Administration's for 1918, which furnished the basis for charges of extravagance by Tammany during the Mayoralty campaign last fall.

Had the requests from all the departments been allowed, the budget would have been slightly over $8,000,000 more, for the departmental estimates put the figures at $256,114,105.55. The largest increase in the proposed budget is for the Department of Education, which calls for the expenditure of $45,121,163.26, or an increase over this year of $2,620,007.22. A considerable part of the increase is due to the increase in teachers' salaries, while increases in other departments are represented by wage increases for employees. Practically every department in the city shows an increase over this year's allowance.

The Mayor's own office calls for an appropriation of $68,320, an increase of $1,970. Part of this is for the restoration of the salary of the Mayor's Secretary, Grover Whalen, to $6,500. Shortly after the Mayor took office he had the salary reduced to $5,000. He makes no explanation of why he now wants it restored. The Mayor also has asked for a chauffeur at $1,680 to be a permanent attaché of his office. During his term Mayor Mitchel used a police automobile, which is now used by Mayor Hylan's secretary. The estimate of his department shows that there are nineteen employes in the Mayor's office.

The appropriation for debt service amounts to $77,931,938, an increase of $2,341,478.08. The direct State tax also accounts for $8,522,629.61, a slight increase over last year. The county appropriations amount to $7,537,676.50. Appropriations for some of the larger departments as compared with 1918 amounts, follow:

Board of Elections	$1,726,095.00	$1,242,177.00
Dept. Education	45,121,163.26	42,501,156.04
Police Dept.	20,671,579.50	19,394,613.00
Fire Dept.	10,814,685.30	10,251,145.00
Dept. Health	3,932,292.15	3,711,376.50
Dept. Charities	5,794,063.18	5,111,440.71
Bellevue and Allied Hospitals	2,415,233.69	2,089,625.65
Dept. St. Cleaning	11,240,668.32	9,033,349.28
Water Dept.	6,884,792.22	6,869,417.75
Plant and Structures	2,785,440.68	754,000.01
Borough Presidents	10,540,791.10	9,686,454.32

Controller Craig issued a statement in connection with the Board of Education appropriation in which he said:

"For the first time in the history of the present City of New York the appropriations for educational purposes have been the subject of joint conferences and discussions between the members of the Board of Education and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. On Thursday, the 17th, these two bodies were in continuous joint session from 11 o'clock in the morning until midnight. Never before has a Board of Education sat down with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to discuss budget requirements.

"The appropriations for the 1919 budget were the result of this harmonious co-operation. Substantial reductions were made in the amounts originally requested by the Board of Education; but in every instance this was done by the voluntary and spontaneous action of the members of the Board of Education.

"The appropriation provided in the proposed budget for the Board of Education is $45,121,163.26. This is $3,025,000 in excess of 4.9 mills on taxable values required by law.

"Numerous attempts have been made to create the impression that this appropriation is for the year of 1918. Such attempts are founded upon sheer manipulation of the figures involved and careful avoidance of the facts.

"Last year the Board of Education requested appropriations of $49,599,834.79. This was cut by the former Board of Estimate and Apportionment to $43,330,363.02 in the proposed budget. An examination of the newspaper files of last year will disclose that no one of the mischief makers now active uttered one word of protest against this reduction of more than six and one-quarter millions. The amount thus allowed for 1918 was $829,206.98 in excess of the 4.9 mills required by law.

"The appropriation proposed by the present Board of Estimate and Apportionment for 1919 is $3,025,000 in excess of that mandatorily required, and is $2,620,007.22 above the appropriation for 1918."

The Controller, who said, when the tentative budget was announced, that it was unlikely the tax rate for 1919 would be increased, admitted yesterday that the rate may be raised because of the increased appropriations for the Board of Education.

"This is a very serious matter," he said, "for the slightest increase in taxes has invariably been seized upon by landlords to raise rents throughout the city to an oppressive degree. Whether rents are increased next year depends very largely upon the requirements of the Board of Education."

MURPHY GIVES $5,000.

Tammany Leader Breaks His Record for Alfred E. Smith's Campaign

Charles F. Murphy, at a meeting of the Tammany Campaign Committee at the Democratic Club last night, contributed $5,000 toward a fund of $40,000 raised to help the campaign of Alfred E. Smith. This is the largest campaign contribution ever made by Mr. Murphy, as far as records show. Here is a list of the other contributors and the amounts they gave:

SECOND BILL AT THE VIEUX COLOMBIER

JACQUES COPEAU AS FIGARO

LE MARIAGE DE FIGARO, a drama by Pierre Carren de Beaumarchais. At the Theatre du Vieux Colombier.

La Comte Almaviva	Robert Bogaert
La Comtesse	Lucien Bogaert
Figaro	Jacques Copeau
Suzanne	Valentine Tessier
Marceline	Jane Lory
Antonio	Romain Bouquet
Fanchette	Renee Bouquet
Cherubin	Suzanne Bing
Bartholo	Robert Casa
Basile	Marcel Millet
Brideloon	Lucis Jouvet
Double-Main	Lucien Weber
L'Hussier	Henri Bart

Une Jeune Fille	Jessamin
Une Jeune Fille	Jeannine Bresanges
Une Paysanne	Mercelle France

They have a wine in France that comes in champagne bottles and bubbles blondly in the glass, but can be bought for three francs and drunk interminably without getting at all forward. It is called Saumur and is said to be made of the second pressing of the grape. "Le Mariage de Figaro" is the second pressing of the vintage that produced "Le Barbier de Seville."

Like its predecessor it is a comedy of intrigue in the Spanish manner. But it has the fatal defect of a poor subject. The Count of Almaviva is getting bored with the romantic marriage to which Figaro assisted him and lets his eye wander toward his lady's maid, with whom Figaro is in love. It is a struggle between man and master for the honor of a virtuous woman. Early in the play the comic possibilities of this situation are exhausted. Thereafter, the inexorable five acts of classical French comedy are made up of one intrigue after another, lively and diverting in themselves, but loosely joined and coming to a conclusion which is foreseen from the start.

The production is really beautiful, in the best manner of the Vieux Colombier. The costumes are richly gay and the lighting of the stage a varied delight. M. Copeau's Figaro is alert and abounding in vitality, but it somehow seems rather a physical than a mental conception of the man.

Robert and Lucinne Bogaert are picturesque and delightful as the Count and Countess of Almaviva. Suzanne Bing gives a clever rendering of the page, and Louis Jouvet as Don Guaman has only to appear on the scene to send a chuckle through the audience.

EVERY ATHLETE OF NATION TO BE MOBILIZED IN AID OF UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

CARNIVAL OF SPORT TO BE NATION-WIDE

Coffroth Here to Supervise Fistic Efforts Planned for All Sections of the Country.

The general committee which has charge of the sporting activities of the United War Work Campaign settled down to real business yesterday and started the executive machinery which is expected to result in an athletic carnival during the week of Nov. 11 to 18, which will bring a large amount of money to the United War Work Fund.

The Sports Committee intends to promote and arrange athletic contests and exhibitions in the following games and sports: Golf, track and field athletics, boxing, football, racing, billiards and pool, soccer football, bowling, trapshooting, automobile racing, and motor cycle and bicycle racing. The entire proceeds realized from the various exhibitions and games are to be given to the United War Work Campaign Fund. No participant in any athletic contest is to receive a cent of remuneration. The team or individual will be asked to donate his services to the cause as a patriotic contribution. Traveling expenses will be allowed out of the proceeds of any contest or exhibition when necessary. No war tax will be charged at any of the sporting events which are to be held for the fund.

Secretary William W. Roper announced that 500 letters had been sent to as many colleges, asking co-operation in playing games for the fund. The committee will visit the prominent colleges personally and encourage important intercollegiate games. All colleges have been asked to hold special games during the sport week. Mr. Roper expects that most of the big games for the cause will be played on Nov. 9, 16, and 23. Games between camps and naval stations are now being arranged by Walter Camp and Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft.

Victory Medals for Golfers.

The committee announced that the movement among the golf clubs will be countrywide. John D. Rockefeller has offered 1,200 Victory Medals, which will be competed for by clubs. On these medals will be a likeness of Marshal Foch, who is an ardent golfer.

The golf tournament will be in charge of Cornelius J. Sullivan of Garden City, representing the U. S. G. A. The entrance fee to the tournaments will be at least $1, but golfers can contribute any amount they wish.

Willie Hoppe, the champion billiard player, will play exhibition matches, but reserves the right to choose his own opponents. It is expected that during the drive Hoppe will meet Welker Cochran, who is the best of the professional players, outside of the champion. The American Amateur Billiard Association and the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players will also arrange matches among amateurs.

Martin McVoy of the New York A. C. will have charge of the trapshooting activities. A tournament is being considered between trapshooters of the East and West to be held at the Polo Grounds. Thomas W. Cahill, who has charge of the soccer football program, expects that a Belgian team will be sent here in answer to a cable which was recently sent by the committee.

If the Belgian eleven comes here, W. G. Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Works has offered to finance a tour of the Belgian team and the Bethlehem eleven which won the national championship last season.

Coffroth Here to Aid Boxing.

The boxing program will give this country its biggest fistic carnival in history, according to the plans of James W. Coffroth, San Francisco promoter, who arrived here yesterday. Coffroth has been selected to direct a nationwide boxing campaign. Coffroth's first move was to set at rest any inference that he has come to this city for the purpose of promoting bouts.

"I would make this very plain for me," said Coffroth in explaining his status with regard to the drive. "I have not come to New York to promote boxing shows in connection with the fund. There are plenty of New York promoters as capable as I to do this, as has been demonstrated before. I will not, directly, be the promoter for any bout. My position is a sort of national supervisor for the work, and I wish you would make that plain. I want the promoters of this city and other cities to promote bouts in their own particular localities, for they are accustomed to the conditions under which the bouts will be held, and are, therefore, better suited to handle the shows.

"I will make suggestions to the promoters as to how the bouts can be best conducted so that the fund will receive the greatest attention. Where there are differences or tangles between promoters I will do my best to keep everything moving harmoniously. Unless there is co-operation in this matter it cannot be a success. And I need the help of promoters throughout the country."

Coffroth had no news of matches yesterday. He had just completed a hurricane trip, and did not have an opportunity to review the situation. He was in conference with officials of the drive, and later discussed his tentative plans. Until the drive is completed Coffroth will make this city his headquarters.

Efforts are to be made to secure matches between all the leading boxers, from Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, down to the titleholder in the bantamweight division, all will be asked to perform. This includes Mike Gibbons, Ted Kid Lewis, Benny Leonard, Johnny Kilbane, and Pete Herman.

In the realm of possibilities is a match between Willard and Jack Dempsey, but further than to say that Willard will be consulted Coffroth had nothing definite on this match. If this bout is arranged it will be held in New York.

When reminded of the fact that Madison Square Garden will be occupied with the horse show during the week of the drive Coffroth declared he was not averse to holding the local boxing carnival slightly ahead of or after the stipulated week. Wrestling also will come under Coffroth's supervision, and he predicts a number of important mat bouts.

The program for local amateur athletics which will be conducted by the Metropolitan A. A. U., will be adopted at a meeting tomorrow night. Prominnet speakers will address delegates of all local athletic clubs at this meeting, and a course of action will be decided upon. Among the speakers will be Dr. George J. Fischer of the Y. M. C. A., JusticeBartow S. Weeks, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert, Dr. Robert J. Bell, and W. W. Roper. General George W. Wingate also has been invited to address the delegates.

AIRPLANE MEET ARRANGED.

Many Events to be Decided at Belmont Park.

When the army aviation carnival takes place at Belmont Park next Saturday afternoon, given by the First Provisional Wing, United States Air Service, there will be in addition to spectacular stunts in the air, numerous competitions on earth as well. The New York Athletic Club is giving the prizes for the land events and the Aero Club of America is offering the prizes for the air events.

Inasmuch as the various squadrons of more than one hundred airplanes will arrive in battle formation at Belmont Park in command of Lieut. Col. Rhinehardt at 1:45 o'clock sharp, the public is advised to be at the track at that time, as this arrival will be one of the most inspiring and interesting spectacles of the entire carnival. The gates will be opened at 1 P. M.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the track and field events will begin and these will be interspersed between the varied events on the aerial program which includes all sorts of aerial acrobatics, sham combats between "aces," battle maneuvres, &c., also a race between Ralph De Palma in his Packard racer, against an army flier in a fast airplane.

WOMEN PLAY CLOSE MATCH.

Three Sets Needed to Decide Red Cross Doubles Final.

Three sharply contested sets were necessary to decide the winner in the women's Red Cross tennis doubles competition at the Westchester Tennis Club yesterday. In the final match Mrs. Ingo F. Hartman and Miss Marie Wagner gained the laurels from Mrs. Albert Humphries and Miss Bessie Holden, but not until the vanquished had all but reversed the decision.

After taking the first set at 6—0 Mrs. Humphries and Miss Holden got a lead of 5—3 in the second set, and had 30—0 on the match game, with Mrs. Humphries serving. Here Mrs. Hartman asserted herself, and, with the aid of Miss Wagner, the match was brought to deuce, and finally Mrs. Hartman and Miss Wagner pulled out the set. The early effort told on the losers, and they finally succumbed at 4—6, 8—6, 6—3.

COLUMBIA TO LOSE 'VARSITY PLAYERS

Shaw, Kraus, and Robson All Slated for Officers' Training School.

Further losses of football players at Columbia are expected within the next few days, for an announcement was posted for the S. A. T. C. men yesterday that Charley Shaw, the half back, and Kraus and Robson, tackles of the 'Varsity eleven had been recommended for transfer to an officer's training school. Greene, who was a fixture at right guard until last week, when he was taken down with influenza, has been appointed to West Point, leaving Coach Dawson with four holes to fill in the 'Varsity lineup and the first game only five days away.

It is not known just when Shaw, Kraus, and Robson will leave Columbia, but it is presumed that they will go within the coming week because Columbia is remarkably free from influenza and the post has not been placed under quarantine. Their departure will just about wreck the first team, and Dawson is in a quandary as to how to fill the gaps. There is talk that Parkes, an end, will also be selected to go to one of the naval training stations. He is in the Naval Unit on Morningside Heights.

Practice for the 'Varsity squad was restricted to a workout for the line yesterday. Coach Dawson was none too well pleased with the showing of the line in Saturday's game with the scrub, and he spent the whole afternoon yesterday with the forwards. There was a short scrimmage at the end, in which the 'Varsity tore big holes in the scrub line.

No further word has been heard from Cornell relative to a game between the Columbia and Cornell teams on Nov. 30, but the New York athletic officials will make no attempt to schedule another game until the final word comes from Ithaca.

CAMP MERRITT ELEVEN FIT.

Officers' Team to Play Columbia at South Field.

The Camp Merritt officers' football eleven, after a period of hard training, will spend the present week putting the finishing touches on the plays they expect to use against Columbia at South Field on Saturday. Owing to the quarantine regulations, the team was unable to play last week, and the schedule will have to be revised.

On November 9 Camp Merritt will play the strong Camp Devens team at Braves' Field in Boston. The Merritt team has Nov. 2, 16 and 23 open, but expects to schedule games with service teams. An effort is being made to get a game with the Great Lakes team of Chicago.

Isaacs Victor at Balkline.

M. Isaacs, playing for 200 points, defeated John Lang, 150, last night in the Riverside Handicap 18.2 balk line tournament at Fuller's Academy, by the score of 200 to 133 in thirty-four innings. Isaacs had a high run of 35, with an average of 5 30-34. Lang's highest run was 17.

The male line of the house frequently traces its Rogers Peet connection back to the time when great-grand-daddy bought his clothes at Broadway, corner of Broome!

To keep pace with so many descendants it was only natural that we should have grown from one little store to four great ones, all devoted exclusively to outfitting men and boys.

Pretty substantial testimony for folks who've yet to learn how good our stuff really is.

HIGH RUNS AT BILLIARDS.

Ferguson and Trow Are Victors in Straight Rail Tourney.

Play in the final round of the A. A. B. A.'s Class D straight rail championship tournament at Cranfield's Academy last night brought out two well played games. In both contests the victors made unusual averages. The best average was credited to E. C. Trow, playing for Thum's, who defeated Nelson Mayo of Doyle's by a score of 150 to 22. Trow completed his string in nineteen innings, for an average of 7 17-19. He had a high run of 46.

In the other game, James Ferguson of Cranfield's, a twenty-year-old player, who has only competed for the past two years, had an average of 6 18-22 in defeating P. Gross of the Morningside Academy, 150 to 46. Ferguson had a high run of 24 as his best effort, although in several other turns at the table his consistency gave him double figures. Ferguson holds the high average record of the tournament, which he made last week when he averaged 9 6-16.

GOLFERS REACH SEMI-FINAL.

Newspaper Tournament Nearing Finish at Van Cortlandt.

Members of the New York Newspaper Golf Club continued their play for the Cooper Trophy at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday, and as a result the final stage has been reached on one side of the draw. A. P. Roth defeated Peter Campbell in the third round by 6 up and 5 to play, and Roth will now meet Ruhlander in the semi-final. The winner of this match will be paired against A. F. Poinsette, who defeated Teague 3 up and 2 to play in the semi-final tilt.

Levy Wins Another Match.

Phillip Levy will represent Gruhn's Broadway Academy in the final round for the novice straight rail championship tournament of the N. A. A. B. P. Levy defeated A. Wickers in the final elimination game last night by a score of 100 to 81 in thirty-three innings. The victor averaged 3 1-33 and had a high run of 13. Wickers had a high run of 12. Levy won five victories in as many games.

STAR REALM FIRST IN SELLING STAKE

Ably Guided by Robinson, Two-Year-Old Takes Empire City Feature Race.

Star Realm, which has been racing all season for W. R. Coe, made his first appearance in the colors of David Gledon yesterday, and, admirably ridden by Frank Robinson, captured the Rainbow Selling Stakes for two-year-olds, which was the feature of the Empire City card.

It was a close call for Star Realm as after he had raced Thistledon into submission L. F. Wagner's Osgood challenged in the stretch. With a stronger rider up Osgood might have passed the favorite, but Erickson was unable to drive his mount as hard as Robinson did his, and the result was that Star Realm just lasted to win by a head. Thistledon weakened in the last furlong and Blairgowrie took third money, three lengths ahead of Osgood.

Though only three came out for the handicap at a mile and seventy yards, the weights had been adjusted so nicely that the Cleveland Stable's Dorcas had only a slight call in the betting over Salvestra and Daddy's Choice. The race proved as close as indicated by speculation. Daddy's Choice and Dorcas set out to make the running, while Taplin held Salvestra in restraint and was four lengths behind the leaders in the back stretch. Going around the far turn Salvestra made her run and came so fast that she headed Dorcas at the sixteenth pole. Dorcas was game, however, and in the battle to the finish came again to gain the decision by a nose.

BASEBALL AIDS WAR RELIEF.

World's Series Contribution Sent to Secretary of War Baker.

The total amount contributed by the major leagues to war charities as the result of the world series was $18,349.59. Of this sum, $2,315.17 was paid direct to the members of the Boston American League Club, who applied their share to charities of their individual selection. The balance, $16,034.32, was sent yesterday to Secretary of War Newton D. Baker by August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission, to be distributed as the Secretary deems best.

Daniel Webster and his Razor

BEFORE his great debate with Hayne—before ever his commanding tones rose from any rostrum, Daniel Webster always dressed himself with particular care—and very carefully shaved. Dress coat of blue with brass buttons, buff waistcoat, lawn tie of many folds, fastidiously arranged—to this impressive picture, the great orator—of whom Europe said, "There goes a King"—invariably added the crowning touch of a perfect shave.

And the razor which Webster was so particular to use was as sound in principle as his own views on our Constitution—perfectly balanced, long-bladed, even tempered. All that Webster's razor lacked was the safety—the extra convenience of the guarded two-edged

DURHAM-DUPLEX
A Real Razor—made Safe

A razor that enables you to shave once more at the one-and-only right shaving angle—with absolute safety—with comfort—with the sensible economy of a double-edged blade—with the luxury of a fresh edge or fresh-stropped edge at a moment's notice and with the longest, strongest, best-tempered blade on earth. Don't discard this blade when dulled. You can strop it, you can hone it—why throw good steel away? Add all these extra conveniences to your old-time razor and you'll see why seven million men have changed from other razors to this real razor made safe.

ONE DOLLAR COMPLETE
The Greatest Shaving Mileage at Any Price

This set contains a Durham-Duplex Razor with an attractive white handle, safety guard, stropping attachment and package of 3 Durham-Duplex double-edged blades (6 shaving edges) all in a handsome leather kit. Get it from your dealer or from us direct.

To Use Less Brass.

In order to conserve brass for Government use the manufacturers of upholstery hardware have reduced their output by more than 50 per cent. This affects the manufacture of curtain poles, curtain rods, brass knobs for dressers, &c. Another important action taken was to standardize all of the articles, so as to make the manufacturing end of the business as simple as possible while the war lasts.

Where Prices Do Not Count.

Conditions in the upholstery trade are now at a point where the matter of prices is of little importance. It is a question of obtaining the goods, regardless of cost. Importers are receiving a good supply of English materials, particularly cretonnes, which are very much in demand. Some of the firms report that brocades are rapidly taking the place of tapestries for furniture coverings.

Ribbons Used in Millinery.

Not only are narrow ribbons—usually half an inch to an inch wide—being used more or less here in making hats for women, but on both popular-priced and expensive models gold or silver ribbons of the same widths are employed as trimmings. Either they are drawn around the crown and finished off in soft bows or streamers or they are fashioned into flowers laid flat on the brims or around the crown. These trimmings are said to be especially effective when worn on dark hats.

Bordered Veils Selling Well.

Good business in bordered veils of one kind or another is being done locally at retail, and the demand is reflected in the wholesale trade in the duplicate orders received for them. Veils of this type for holiday giving are very well thought of. Especially good are fine mesh veils heavily dotted with chenille, these dots often forming the border. Veils of this type are worn either tight at the neck or hanging loose. Borders of velvet and fur also are seen, these being drawn close about the neck in a collar effect. A general line of colors is in demand.

Burlaps Prices Sustained.

Burlaps prices in the local market for the most part continue sustained at the levels recently set at the instance of the War Industries Board, in spite of the fact that the expected improvement in demand has not yet materialized. Here and there quotations are being shaded a few points in an endeavor to encourage buyers, but the latter appear unwilling to trade unless they have orders calling for the goods in the manufactured state. Even the assurance of the authorities that present values will remain until Feb. 1 has not helped trading, which had been summarily checked by the expectation on the part of many buyers of still lower prices before very long.

More Gray Goods Contracts Sold.

While additional business for delivery early in 1919 was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday, the aggregate volume of goods disposed of was not large. The bulk of the sales called for shipments in the first quarter of the coming year, and they for the most part involved wide printcloths, such as 39-inch 68-72s, 38½-inch 64-60s, and 38½-inch 60-48s. There was some movement in sheetings, but it was without feature. Sateens and other special cloths were let out for shipment in the next several months. Buyers of fine-yarn cloths continued apathetic, despite the quite liberal concessions offered.

Fur Withdrawals Were Large.

Yesterday was "Prompt Day" for the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, following its Fall auction, and it was announced late in the afternoon that the amount of goods withdrawn by buyers exceeded that of any previous sale. At the close of business only about 10 per cent. of the approximately $3,250,000 worth of raw furs recently sold here remained in the warehouse of the corporation. Although the best demand in the general trade at present is for muskrat, skunk, and other staple furs, the withdrawals were large in all the varieties disposed of at the sale. An improving demand for long-haired furs, such as red fox, wolf, and lynx, was reflected to some extent.

Mens Straw Hats to Cost More.

Men's straw hats are going to cost more during the Spring, 1919, season, whether the war ends soon or not. The extent of the rise may be gauged from the fact that in the finer goods the average wholesale transaction for the coming season has involved merchandise costing $24 a dozen, whereas in the 1918 wholesale season the average sale was made at $13.50 a dozen. The same goods were involved each time. The rise is not only due to the sharply increased cost of braids, but, among other things, to the scarcity of shoe and the higher prices paid for it. Production for the 1919 season shows reductions running as high as 50 per cent. Cancellations growing out of the amended draft law, while very few locally, are said to be quite marked on the part of dealers in many of the smaller cities and towns.

China Lines Concentrated.

Because the shortages of material and labor had so sharply curtailed its production as to prevent satisfactory deliveries of a general line of wares, one of the best-known of the French manufacturers of fine china has concentrated on twenty-five patterns. Old shapes have been suspended for the present, and decorations will be discontinued in cases where they are produced in such limited quantities that chromo sheets cannot be made. The patterns chosen are those that have the widest appeal to the general trade, and they will be made in quantity. The concentration scheme is expected to increase deliveries by about 25 per cent. and to avoid many delays. Stocks of the new patterns will be ready at the factory for delivery in from six to twelve weeks.

MUST KEEP GERMAN NAMES.

Justice Benedict Says Loyalty Is a Better Remedy.

Justice Russel Benedict in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday decried the practice of persons bearing German surnames having them changed by process of law to names usually borne by persons of American and English ancestry. The Justice denied the application of Robert Louis Weitz, an employe of the Fire Department, who lives at 126 Jerome Street, to change his name to Robert Louis "Weeks." The petitioner asserted that the name Weitz caused embarrassment and disadvantage by its suggestion of German origin whereas he was of French descent. Justice Benedict said:

"There is no good reason why persons of German extraction should be permitted to conceal the fact by adopting through the aid of the court names of American or English origin. It may involve some moral courage to bear German surnames or patronymics in these days, but the discomfort can best be borne by a display of genuine loyalty to this country, even to the extent of sacrificing life in the support of its institutions, as so many splendid examples of heroism have made manifest, rather than by seeking to hide the fact of German extraction or parentage by a change of name. Carl Schurz and Dr. Francis Lieber and other distinguished Germans set an example of the highest type of loyalty to this adopted land which required no change of names to emphasize."

Blaes Pays $410 for Rare Burns.

The Anderson Galleries began their season yesterday by the sale of the library of the late William Temple Emmet. The highest price was $410, paid by W. R. Blaes for Catalogue No. 124, a defective copy of the extremely rare Kilmarnock, or first, edition, of Robert Burns's "Poems Chiefly in the Scottish Dialect." Inserted in the volume was a seven-line fragment of an original manuscript in the poet's autograph, from his "New Psalm for the Chapel of Kilmarnock."

"King" Coal

"King" Coal is the one autocrat whose throne is in no danger. It is essential to mine as much as possible of America's supply to feed the factories and forges that are furnishing the sinews of war.

Operating through property leases assuring a liberal income over its interest charges, the Hartland Colliery Company owns approximately 13,000 acres of valuable coal lands in a famous coal section.

ARE LONG TERM BONDS SATISFACTORY?

YES, especially at present, when high-class seasoned bonds may be purchased at prices seemingly all out of proportion to their value when considered from the standpoint of stability, growth and earnings of the company issuing them.

When by the purchase one is assured of a satisfactory yield for the future, no matter how low interest rates may be.

To those intent upon establishing now a yearly income for a period of years, Circular T-34 will be of interest.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Uncertainly After Strong Start—U. S. Rubber Note Offering.

The main features of the German note, as distributed by wireless, reached the financial district early yesterday afternoon and aroused conflicting opinions. The apparent willingness of the German Government to accede to the vital demands of President Wilson, speaking for the Allies, was discussed with evident mental reservation by bankers. The trend of sentiment indicated a feeling that the face of the note seemed too good to be altogether true. The communication was not received in its complete form during the business day, but the parts which were made public had weight in bringing about mixed movements in the stock market and left prices in an irregular condition, reflection of uncertainty among the traders in regard to the outlook for an early peace.

Prior to the publication of the note, stocks had generally displayed a firm to strong tone, with particular issues buoyant. Afterward there were moments when the war stocks advanced sharply, and other periods when these ceded and the peace stocks moved forward. At the start of business there was a broad advance, in which a number of issues were subject to as heavy a wave of buying as had been seen during the year. Bonds on the Stock Exchange continued in demand throughout the day, particularly convertible securities which were dominated by the rise of stocks for which they could be exchanged. Again, the volume of dealings was in excess of 1,000,000 shares, and the supply of money in the Street did not appear to be any more restricted than in the closing days of last week.

The news of a positive character received during the day was on the same favorable tenor as the items which had strengthened market optimism for a fortnight. Military developments were possible of complete interpretation, what ever the man in the street might think of the probable results of the German note. They showed the further retirement of German forces, and the steady, determined progress of Allied troops in vital parts of the battle line. The successful conclusion of the Liberty Loan appeared to have influence in early operations in securities, and thoughts were turned in banking quarters to the work of new domestic financing which has been pressing for some time. The first issue to be announced appeared late in the day, the sale of $6 000 000 five-year 7 per cent. notes of the United States Rubber Company. The probability that a large part of the issue will be exchanged for maturing debentures makes it seem likely that not enough of the notes will come upon the market at one time to test the underlying investment strength, but other offerings are to follow. The American Tobacco Company is expected to be one of the earliest to borrow. The basis proposed for the exchange of General Rubber debentures for the new notes insures a yield of 7.35 per cent. on the latter.

Call money rates were firm at 6 per cent. Movements of exchange rates were nominal.

TRADING FIRM IN LONDON.

Business Expands in Places,, Notably in Home Rails.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Trading on the Stock Exchange today was firm. Business expanded in places, notably in connection with home rails. Gilt edged shares were unsteady. Profit-taking sales, however, found ready buyers.

French rentes and the Montenegrin loan were strong features. Brazilian shares hardened despite the temporary stoppage of business in Brazil owing to the influenza.

Salt mine shares were weak in consequence of the prohibition of the export of salt. Other groups were steady. The money market was quiet.

Trading Calm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Trading on the Bourse was calm today. Three per cent. rentes were quoted at 62 francs for cash; exchange on London, 26 francs 7 centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 88 francs 60 centimes.

NEW FOOD RULES WORK SMOOTHLY

SEES END OF PROFITEERING

Williams Asserts Publicity Has Already Stopped Overcharging by Some Trades.

The Federal Food Administration's new orders governing food saving in public eating houses became effective yesterday in every part of the country. According to Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator for New York, proprietors of the city's restaurants, hotels, and boarding houses gave assurances that the new rules had been put into effect in their establishments without causing dissatisfaction among patrons.

While the local food authorities sent out inspectors to all parts of the city to see that the latest regulations were obeyed, no reports were made public yesterday by the board. Mr. Williams said that it was desired to give all interests a full day to try out the new rules before checking up the eating places affected by the rules.

Mr. Williams sent out last night large placards containing the new rules to all restaurants and dining room proprietors in this city, with instructions that they be posted in conspicuous places in their establishments. The placards will also be sent to boarding-house proprietors. The new home food card will also be distributed as soon as possible. The home card contains no regulations concerning wheatless or meatless days, but is expected to aid in the conservation campaign by bringing home to housewives the urgent need for care in the purchase and use of the staple food articles.

Hearings in the cases of retail butchers rounded up last week for profiteering in the sale of lamb were continued yesterday at the headquarters of the Food Administration, 6 West Fifty-seventh Street. A statement given out by the board yesterday said in part:

Fifty Butchers Tried.

"Fifty retail butchers charged with profiteering in the sale of lamb were summoned to the Federal Food Board today for trial. These butchers were among the 234 summoned last week. At that time they declined to accept the voluntary penalty and demanded individual hearings of their cases.

"The majority of the defendants who agreed to accept the voluntary penalty rather than have their supplies cut off for two weeks, or have their cases referred to the District Attorney for prosecution, were permitted to contribute $100 each to the Red Cross or some other charity."

The board said that a list of the names and addresses of the butchers who must display signs in their windows was forwarded to Police Commissioner Enright with the request that the Police Department see that the orders of the Federal Food Board in regard to the posting of these signs were obeyed. The signs will be distributed today and must be displayed for one week, beginning with midnight tonight. It was announced that fifty more butchers who demanded separate trials would appear before the board today for hearings.

"Publicity has practically killed profiteering by butchers," Administrator Williams said. "For example, a story came to me today which illustrates the power of publicity. A little boy, the son of a butcher found guilty of profiteering, came home from school weeping, and declared to his parents that all the other children in the school boycotted him because it was known father had charged unfair prices.

"I hope the public will co-operate with the Food Board to the fullest possible extent. If the people who are overcharged in the food line will communicate with the board, we will send our investigators out at once, and will not cause informers inconvenience or undue publicity. I believe the grocery trade is free of profiteering at the present time. It is proposed to look into conditions in the fish, egg, butter and cheese trades shortly. I think it a safe prediction to make that within a short space of time New York will be a profiteerless market."

Cut Down Candy Makers.

Mr. Williams stated that he understood that the management of the Childs restaurants in New York had advised Federal Administrator Hoover that the concern was willing to forego profits in order to keep prices on a reasonable basis during the period of the war, if that was deemed necessary. The Food Board's report on price conditions in the Childs restaurants will probably be made public soon.

The Food Board announced that the Eye Brand Confectionery Company, wholesale candy manufacturers, 239 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn, had been required to surrender sugar certificates amounting to 39,000 pounds and that their allotment of sugar for the first three months of 1919 had been cut down to one-sixth as a penalty for making incorrect statements in their application for sugar.

It was estimated yesterday that the new rules affected throughout the country 9,000,000 patrons of clubs, hotels, cafes, and restaurants, as well as travelers by land and water. The rules are intended to bring about a saving of wheat, meat, and sugar, so that the United States may fulfill its program of shipping 17,500,000 tons of food to the Allies during the coming year. The object to be attained by the enforced saving is set forth on the placards to be distributed in dining places today. The Food Board yesterday served notice upon the management of all eating places that violators of the new rules would be punished severely.

NO SHOE CASE REHEARING.

Government Motions in Trust Case Denied by Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Government motions for a rehearing of the dissolution suit against the United Shoe Machinery Company, the so-called shoe machinery trust, which was decided in favor of the company, were denied today by the Supreme Court.

In asking for a rehearing the Government contended that, if the Supreme Court's opinion holding the company not to be an organization in restraint of trade should stand, it would offer similar organizations an avenue of escape from the prohibition of the Sherman law and reopen questions as to the limits of the patent grant.

JURORS PRAISE PODELL.

Join Judge in Signing Certificate of Honor and Patriotism.

David L. Podell, the lawyer who was indicted and tried jointly with Felix Gouled in the army contract fraud cases, was not only acquitted by the jury which convicted Gouled last Friday night, but received a certificate yesterday from the jury and the judge in the case, in which they exonerated him of any complicity in the crimes of Gouled.

"The jury is unanimously of the opinion, after the trial lasting six days, that not only are the charges made against Mr. Podell without foundation, but that his conduct from the beginning of the transaction complained of, up to the announcement of the verdict, was all that could have been expected of an honorable member of the Bar and truly patriotic American citizen."

The statement was signed by all the jurors and by Judge Edward E. Cushman, who presided at the trial.

Telephone Company Explains the Need of Curtailing Service.

Officials of the New York Telephone Company explained yesterday that the curtailment of the company's service at public stations, in hotels, and elsewhere was a necessity, in view of the depletion of its working force due to the Spanish influenza epidemic.

"We are short 2,000 operators," H. W. Casler, an official of the company said. "Under normal conditions the New York Telephone Company has 6,402 operators at the switchboards in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx. With practically one-third of our force laid up with influenza, it is, of course, impossible to handle the usual volume of business. While training schools are maintained by the company, it has not been found possible to fill the places of the absent operators. It should be borne in mind by the public that the telephone switchboard operator is a highly trained worker and cannot easily be replaced.

"The present epidemic is responsible for a 15 per cent. cut in the regular service given in Brooklyn, while the service in Manhattan has been reduced 5 per cent. Calls from public stations or booths have been cut 50 per cent. Cards have been sent to subscribers asking them to limit their calls to urgent messages only, as the operating force now on duty is very much overworked, while managers of hotels have agreed to discourage unnecessary calls. We are obliged to ask the aid of the general public in reducing calls. Thus far the public has shown a disposition to bear with the present inconvenience and make the best of the situation which which the telephone company is faced. We hope the public will continue to be indulgent until the epidemic is over and our operators return to duty."

Reports received by the telephone officials are to the effect that operator working forces throughout the country are demoralized on account of the influenza. It was emphasized at the company's offices that calls should be restricted at this time to those under the head of emergency, public welfare, Government and war work.

GASOLINE RATION PLANNED.

Auto Owners May Be Provided With Monthly Coupons.

Some system of gasoline rationing as a war conservation measure may be adopted early in the Spring, said Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, yesterday in discussing automobile problems at the Engineers' Club.

"The gasless Sunday, as an emergency measure, has done just what the Government wanted in saving an enormous amount of gasoline for shipment overseas," he said. "It is the intention of the War Board to ask motorists to curtail the use of gasoline by 20 per cent. until some definite plan of rationing goes into effect. The general plan which seems to be favored is to issue coupon books to owners of motor cars, the coupons to be of different colors for the various months. One coupon for a certain month may be good for one gallon of gasoline, the next month it may be good for two gallons, and in a month when large quantities are needed for war purposes a coupon may only allow the holder half a gallon."

Mr. Reeves added that the influenza epidemic in Washington had brought out the interesting announcement from the Washington authorities that it would be well for more people to ride in motor cars than in street cars, and a request has been made that all automobile owners give workers, especially those in war work, a ride whenever the car has vacant seats.

DELIVER 14 MORE SHIPS.

Record for Week Ended Oct. 18—Board Asks Additional $120,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Fourteen steel and wood vessels of 97,150 deadweight tons were delivered to the Shipping Board during the week ended Oct. 18. Nine of 59,150 deadweight tons were steel and five of 18,000 tons were wood. A record for fast construction marked the delivery of the 11,800-ton steel freighter Invincible, completed at the Bethlehem plant at Alameda, Cal., in 105 days.

An additional $120,000,000 for ship construction, making a total for that purpose of $3,004,000,000, was asked of Congress to-day by the Shipping Board. The Senate was asked to include the increase in the Military Deficiency bill.

A call for 2,000 men to work as firemen in the American merchant marine to make good a deficiency in the normal supply of volunteers caused by the Influenza epidemic, was issued to-day by the Shipping Board. Men from 18 to 35 years inclusive, weighing at least 140 pounds, are wanted for the work.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,324 packages. A continued absence of buying interest and a lower and unsettled market. Stocks are accumulating, and there is considerable pressure to sell. Creamery, higher than extras, a lb., 57@58c; extras, (92 score.) 55c; firsts, (88 to 91 score.) 55@56c; seconds, (83 to 87 score.) 52¼@54¼c; thirds, 49@52c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 59@59½c; extras, 58@58½c; firsts, 56@57½c; seconds, 53½@55c; State, dairy, tubs, finest, 56@56½c; good to prime, 52@55c; common to fair, 47@51c; renovated, extras, 50½@51c; firsts, 48½@49c; lower grades, 43@48c; imitation creamery, firsts, 47@48c; ladles, current make, firsts, 41½@42c; seconds, 40c; lower grades, 38@39½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 40@40½c; No. 2, 39½c; lower grades, 36@39c.

EGGS.—10,018 cases. General trading quiet. Strictly fine to fancy qualities are scarce and advices indicate decreasing supplies in transit. The market on newlaid qualities is in sellers' favor, and some sales are reported at better prices than recently quoted. Medium and lower grades are quiet and freely offered. The changes in quotations below the grade of extras are rather to bring them more in line with recent inspections than indicating any advance in value of equal qualities below the finest. Storage eggs in good demand. Nearby white eggs very scarce; it is difficult to obtain supplies for urgent requirements. Fresh gathered extras a dozen, 58@59c; extra firsts, 55@57c; firsts, 52@54c; seconds, 49@51c; dirties, No. 1, 45@46c; No. 2 and poorer, 40@44c; checks, good to choice, dry, 40@42c; undergrades, 35@39c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 46@47c; firsts, charges paid, 44@46c; seconds, charges paid, 42@44c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 86@90c; ordinary to prime, 70@85c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 70@88c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 65@82c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, 62@65c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 50@59c.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company.
General Office.
Philadelphia, 18th October, 1918.

A Special Meeting of the Stockholders of this Company has been called by the President and Directors for Wednesday, the 30th day of October, 1918, at 11 o'clock A. M., at Witherspoon Hall, Walnut and Juniper Streets, Philadelphia, for consideration of and action upon a certain agreement with the Director General of Railroads, acting on behalf of the United States and the President, relating to operation, compensation, and other matters connected with, or growing out of, the taking over by the President of the United States of the Company's railroad and system of transportation.

Stockholders may obtain the necessary tickets of admission to the meeting on and after the 23rd day of October, 1918, by personal application at, or by letter to, the Secretary's Office, Room 209 Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

LEWIS NEILSON, Secretary.

UNITED MARINE CONTRACTING CORP.,
15 Whitehall Street,
New York City.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE UNITED MARINE CORP.

NOTICE is hereby given that a Special meeting of the stockholders of the United Marine Contracting Corp. will be held at the office of the Company, No. 15 Whitehall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 21st day of November, 1918, at three o'clock in the afternoon of that day, pursuant to the resolution of the Board of Directors, duly adopted on the 15th day of October, 1918, for the purpose of considering a resolution to increase the capital stock of the Company to Five hundred thousand ($500,000) Dollars, and to amend the By-laws of the Company, and for the transaction of any and all business necessary in connection therewith.

Dated, October 15th, 1918.

E. V. NICHOLS, President.
BERTHOLD SOMMER, Secretary.

TAKE RUBBER NOTES.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Buy $6,000,000 Issue of United States Rubber Co.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. announced yesterday that they had bought $6,000,000 five-year 7 per cent. notes of the United States Rubber Company, the proceeds to be used to retire on Dec. 1 an issue of 5 per cent. debenture bonds of the General Rubber Company. The General Rubber is controlled by the United States Rubber organization. The issue of maturing debentures amounts to $9,000,000, and the difference between the amount received in the note sale and the par value of the bonds is to be supplied by the issuing company in cash.

The new notes will be secured by deposit with the Industrial Trust Company of Providence, as Trustee, of $9 000.000 first and refunding 5 per cent. bonds of the United States Rubber Company. They will be redeemable at the option of the company as a whole but not in part, on any interest dates on and after Dec. 1, 1920, at a premium of 1 per cent. for each six months between the redemption date and the date of maturity, together with accrued interest. The notes will mature Dec. 1, 1923.

The banking firm did not make public the offering price, nor the amount which will be available for the public. The extent of the offering will be determined by the extent to which holders of the General Rubber debentures take the notes in exchange for their bonds. Owners of the debentures have the privilege of turning in their bonds and receiving for each $1,000 a note for $1,000 plus $15 in cash. The notes taken on this basis will yield 7.35 per cent.

The privilege of exchange terminates on Nov. 1. Application is to be made to list the new notes on the Stock Exchange.

The rubber company financing is one of several new offerings which were held back until after the completion of the Liberty Loan campaign. The American Tobacco Company is expected to put out an issue in the near future and Wilson & Co., the packing firm, is contemplating an offering of notes.

COTTON PRICES RALLY AFTER EARLY SELLING

Market Is Unsettled on Uncertainty as to German Note—Mixed Sentiment at the Close.

The cotton market was divided into two rather sharp periods yesterday, the division being made by the influence of the German note. Prior to the receipt of cabled fragments of the communication, the trend of prices had been toward lower levels. The maximum decline ran from 50 to 60 points from Saturday's closing quotations. New Orleans interests were active on the selling side, and Liverpool, also, disposed of a substantial amount of contracts in straddle operations. The early unsettlement appeared to uncover stop-loss orders which aided the movement to lower levels.

The interpretation of the German note was favorable, at first, persuading traders that peace was near. This impression caused a quick rally of 30 to 35 points. Later doubt assailed the market following in respect to the actual tenor of the note, and late selling was apparently a result of a switch of opinion from optimism to a feeling that the German purpose was to draw the Allies into further discussion of particular points at issue. Sentiment was decidedly mixed as the market session closed.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Irregularity and wide price fluctuations marked the course of the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Final prices showed net losses in a majority of the issues, but several active stocks closed with substantial gains. Germany's reported acceptance of President Wilson's terms in the early afternoon brought out a good volume of buying orders in leading securities, which esponded readily. But the advance was checked by prifit aking and the selling was maintained to the close with ccasional feeble rallies.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

At an aggregate rental of about $400,000, the Thirty-first-Madison Avenue Company, of which Frederick Tench is President, leased the store, basement, first and second floors in 135-141 Madison Avenue, which is built around the northeast corner of Thirty-first Street and Madison Avenue, to the Duplan Silk Company, now located on Fourth Avenue. This space has been occupied by the Peck & Hills Furniture Company, which has taken a large amount of space in the upper part of the same building.

The lease represents a considerable advance in rental over the previous one, and proves the demand for such space. Pease & Elliman negotiated the lease in conjunction with the George Rosenfeld Company.

Savings Bank Sells Bronx Flat.

The Broadway Savings Institution sold to the Charles Galewski Company 675 Jackson Avenue, a six-story flat, on a plot 41 by 107, adjoining the Jackson Avenue subway station. The property, which has an annual rent income of $5,500, was held at $45,000.

To Sell Amelia Bingham's House in Foreclosure Proceedings.

There were no auction offerings in the Manhattan or Bronx salesrooms yesterday. Several important sales are scheduled for today, including the residence of Amelia Bingham, at 103 Riverside Drive, which is to be sold by Herbert A. Sherman in foreclosure proceedings brought by S. A. Jefferson to foreclose a mortgage of $20,682.95.

Bronx Sales.

The estate of Lorillard Spencer sold to an investing client of J. Clarence Davies the vacant plot, 100 by 100, on the southeast corner of Allerton and Paulding Avenues.

Porter & Co. have sold for the Wells Holding Company to the Bridgewater Realty Corporation the five-story apartment house located at 965 Tiffany Street, on lot 40 by 100.

Brooklyn.

Charles E. Rickerson sold 264 Berkely Place, a three-story brownstone dwelling, for Frank, Paul, and Harry Brady, to clients for occupancy.

Meister Builders, Inc., have sold 120 and 120A Tenth Street, two one-family cottages, to clients for occupancy.

Factory Sale.

Joseph P. Day has sold for the American Cotton Oil Company one of their unused factories at West Point, Miss., to a newly formed corporation. It was held at $35,000. Associated with Mr. Day was E. S. Willard.

RECORDED MORTGAGES.

With name and address of lender and lender's attorney, interest is at 5 per cent. unless otherwise specified.

The Civil Service.

City.

Applications for resident physician, grade 2, will be received until 4 P. M. on Oct. 26. The salary is $1,500 a year, with maintenance. The subjects and weights of the examination are: Experience, 5; oral, 5. The minimum age is 21 years. There is one vacancy in the corrections department.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for balance of stores clerk, for men and women. Vacancies in the office of the Chief of Ordance, War Department, and in the Ordnance Department at large, at salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200 a year for grade 1, and from $1,200 to $1,600 a year for grade 2, will be filled from this examination. The appointees will be employed on work in connection with recording, on stores-control records, the receipts, issuance, balance, and inventories of stores. Competitors will be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on education, 40; experience, 60. Applicants for positions in grade 1 must have completed the grammar school and have had at least three years' practical experience in stores-control work, involving maintenance of balance of stores sheets or stock ledgers or other accounting work which would fit them for the position specified. Additional credit will be given for high school or college education and for the completion of a course for stores clerks at a college or university of recognized standing. Applicants for positions in grade 2 must have, in addition to the qualifications required of applicants for positions in grade 1, six months' experience of a responsible supervisory character in stores-control work. Applicants will be rated for the grade for which their training and experience seem to qualify them. They must have reached their nineteenth birthday on the date of making oath to the application. Until further notice and on account of the urgent needs of the service, applications will be received at any time. Papers will be rated promptly and certification made as the needs of the service require. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Only Gain in Circulation.

In six months ended Oct. 1 the average net paid circulation, daily and Sunday, was 368,402 copies, a gain of 11,267 copies over 1917 and the only New York morning newspaper to record an increase. This result was obtained notwithstanding increase in price from one cent to two cents a copy.—Advt.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A cyclonic depression is passing off to sea over the Canadian Maritime Provinces, and a second depression has advanced to the upper Missouri Valley and Eastern Colorado. Between the two, pressure is high, with the crest over Lake Huron, and this high pressure controls the weather east of the Mississippi for the time being. The only rains of consequence in the last twenty-four hours fell along the South Atlantic Coast, in the Florida Peninsula, in Kansas, Oklahoma, Northern Texas, Eastern New Mexico, and Colorado.

Temperature changes have been generally small and unimportant.

Fair weather is indicated for the Washington forecast district on Tuesday. Wednesday will be fair in the Eastern districts, with scattered rains in the East Gulf States, the Ohio Valley, and upper lake region.

The temperature will rise slowly in the Northern districts and remain stationary in the South.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate to fresh north; South Atlantic Coast, fresh northeast.

FORECASTS TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; warmer Wednesday.

Southern New England—Fair and slightly cooler Tuesday. Wednesday fair and warmer.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and slightly cooler Tuesday. Wednesday partly cloudy and warmer.

Northern New England—Fair and somewhat cooler Tuesday. Wednesday fair and warmer.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	40	58	4 P. M.	51	57
6 A. M.	39	56	6 P. M.	50	55
9 A. M.	41	54	8 P. M.	46	50
12 M.	48	58	11 P. M.	46	48

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 53; for the corresponding date last year it was 44; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 54. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 53; at 8 P. M. it was 52. Maximum temperature, 59 degrees at 3:30 P. M.; minimum, 48 degrees at 10 P. M. Humidity, 48 per cent. at 8 A. M. 48 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.98 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.06 inches.

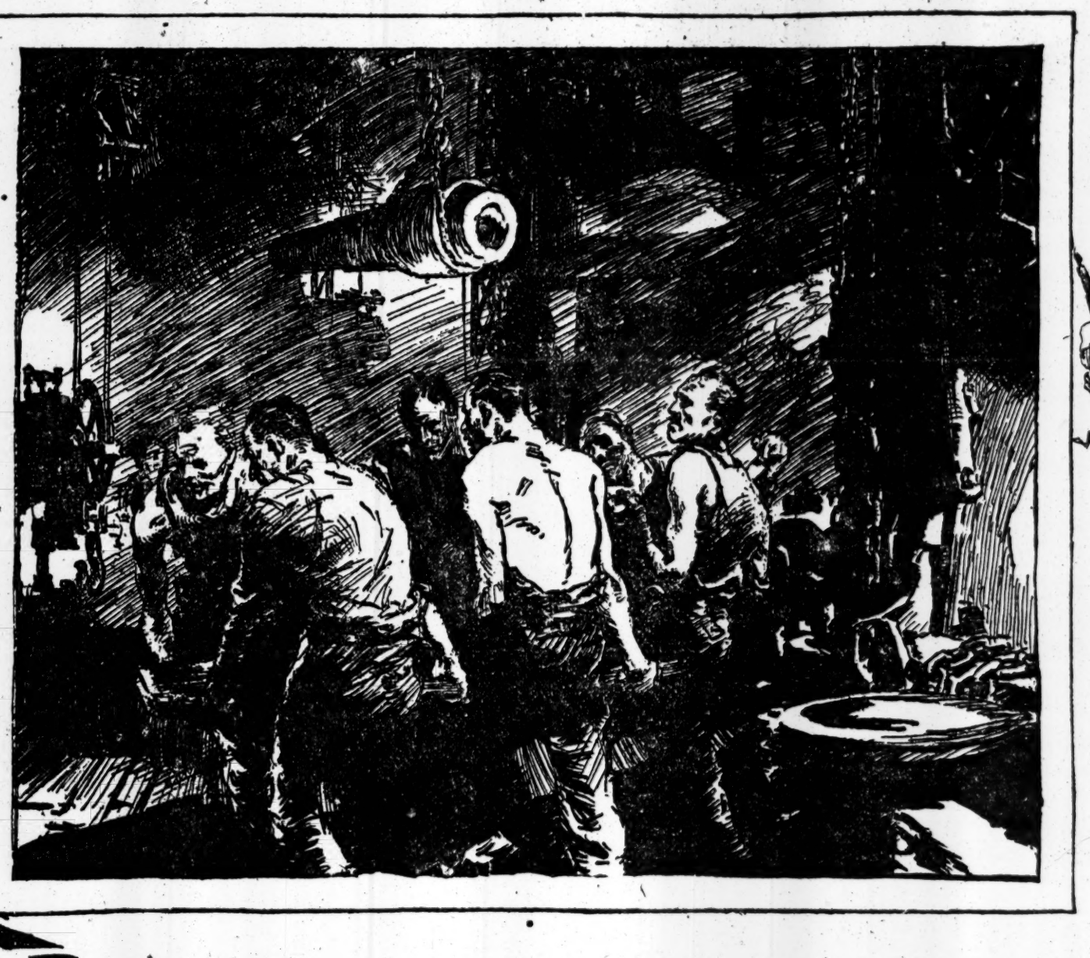
Assignment, to take effect 8 A. M. Oct. 23: Motor Cycle Sergt. F. J. Walker, 66th, assignment changed from motor cycle to bicycle duty.

Temporary assignment: Capt. W. A. Bailey, 23d, in command 3d Insp. Dist., in addition to his other du



More than 3,000,000 men are in service. More than 15,000,000 are doing war work. We are short 18,000,000 men if we would keep industry as it was in peace time. There is but one thing for us to do. Each one of us must reduce all wastage of time and man-power

As men take on new burdens, and as women step into the places of those who have gone to the front, the problem of combating fatigue is being carefully studied by scientists, to make sure that human strength shall be equal to the demands upon it.

The command has gone out to work or fight. Fatigue must not retard this gigantic task which America has undertaken. "Fatigue is like the clogging of the wheels in some mechanism by dirt," says the British Health of Munition Workers Committee.

Fatigue causes mistakes

When you suffer from fatigue you fail to do your work well and although you may extend your efforts to the utmost you are not giving all that lies in your power to forward our colossal tasks. You make mistakes which set back the work to be done and which cost money and effort to correct. You prevent yourself from rising to a better position — you rob America of an important part of your ability.

"Muscle fatigue produces a change in chemical conditions and produces so-called fatigue poisons," says the Life Extension Institute. Yet it is the little unseen but continual losses of energy which produce over-fatigue. The great British authority, H. J. Spooner, says—"It is commonly known that fatigue may be due to anything that affects the nervous system." Later he says, "The history of fatigue abounds in cases in which some trifling matter has been found to be the cause of fatigue."

The average person takes about 8000 steps every day. With every step a jolt is communicated to the body. You may not feel each one, but by the end of the day the results are evident. You might walk for hours on the soft turf, or stride along a country road without being fatigued. Yet pounding over hard pavements, walking through office or factory building, moving about the house on hard floors, exhaust you.

The incessant jars and shocks as your heels strike hard surfaces, are communicated to your delicate nervous system and make you a victim of over-fatigue before the day's work is done.

Change hard pavements to cushioned paths

The shock and jar of every step you take on hard pavements and hardwood floors wastes your strength and leaves you over-fatigued. You must save your nervous system from this needless shock and continuous drain

O'Sullivan's Heels make streets and hardwood floors like cushioned walks. Save your heels, save your shoes—save leather which is daily becoming more scarce—above all, save your nervous system.

O'Sullivan's are guaranteed to outlast any other heels. They will wear three times as long as leather heels, and will give uniformly satisfactory service to the end.

Good dealers sell the latest style shoes with O'Sullivan's Heels attached. Have O'Sullivan's put on all your shoes today.
